HOUSE COMMITTEE AMENDS DRAFT BILL DESPITE GEN. MARCH

Creates Three Classes of Registrants, with Ages from 18 to 20 in the Last.

OLDER CLASSES TO GO FIRST

Restriction, Opposed by Military Authorities, Will Be Fought on the House Floor.

WORK-OR-FIGHT CLAUSE OUT

Committee Omits Senate Amendment After Morrison Presents Labor's Opposition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—After a sharp debate the House Military Affairs Committee today, by a vote of 9 to 7, decided to amend the Man Power bill so as to establish three classes of registrants and provide for calling of those from 18 to 20 years of age after the eligible classes from 20 to 45 years had been exhausted, the 18-year class to be called last. The creation of such a classification had been opposed by General March before the committee on the ground that it would delay the draft and prevent the junior registrants from getting the required four to six months' training before being sent overseas.

This amendment, adopted on motion of Representative McKenzie, Republican, of Illinois, will be opposed in the House by Representatives Kahn, Crago, and Greene of the committee, who have insisted that in such technical matters the military authorities should be upheld. These members served notice that they would fight on the floor for the elimination of the amendment. The amendment reads:

"Provided, however, that registrants of the age of 19 and not over 20 shall be designated as the 19 class and shall be drafted subsequent to the registrants of 20 and over 20 years, and registrants of the age of 18 years and not over 19 years shall be designated as the 18 class and shall be the last called for service; those registrants above the age of 20 shall be called prior to the classes hereby designated."

No Attempt to Change Age Limits.

There was no strong disposition in the committee to change the age limits. While some members had been talking about fighting to restrict the age limits to 20 to 40 years, no effort was made to amend the bill to that effect. Before the bill is reported to the House tomorrow it is expected that there will be another amendment adopted, one requiring the War Department to issue commissions to civilians 18 years of age under certain conditions. The present law provides that no commissions shall be issued to those under the draft age; the proposed change merely makes the law conform to the change in the draft age.

Although Representative McKenzie has offered an amendment to write into law the present regulations respecting married men and exemptions, it is not believed the committee will accept such an amendment.

Opposition to the so-called anti-strike amendment, which appears in the Senate bill, was apparently so great in the House Committee that no effort was made to adopt the Thomas amendment. This amendment, which is characterized by organized labor as an attempt to conscript labor, specifies that in case a worker refuses to remain faithfully in the employment for which he was exempted from military service, he shall be sent to military duty.

This subject was discussed before the committee today by Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor. He intimated that big interests, naming particularly the United States Steel Corporation and the Colorado Fuel Company, were behind the Thomas amendment.

Called an Attack on Labor.

"I am here in the name of the American Federation of Labor," said Mr. Morrison, "to protest against the incorporation in the draft law of the Thomas labor conscription amendment, which the author admits is aimed at strikes. Its clear intent is the conscription of labor. There is no necessity for such legislation. Furthermore, it is an attack on the loyalty of the workingmen of the United States which will be bitterly resented by them if enacted into law. It will make the world believe, and especially our allies, that our workers are slackers, that they are not giving their best to win the war.

"The draft bill was submitted by the War Department. It did not raise any issue between the Government and labor. Not a sign of discontent with the labor situation is apparent in any department of the Government. Secre-

Now Admits Spanish Note to Germany About U-Boats

MADRID, Aug. 20.—General José Marina, the Miniser of War, today declared that the international situation gave no occasion for alarm on the part of Spaniards. The note recently sent by the Spanish Government to Berlin regarding the sinking of Spanish ships by German submarines, he said, was written in a firmer tone than were previous notes, but it could not bring a change in Spain's attitude of neutrality, much less a rupture of diplomatic relations with Germany.

Foreign Minister Dato, in order to allay alarm over revelations about the contents of the note, issued this denial on Sunday:

"As to the famous Spanish note addressed to Germany, it is impossible to publish it because it does not exist."

CARUSO MARRIES MISS BENJAMIN

Tenor, Surprising His Friends, Leads Daughter of Patent Lawyer to the Altar.

HER PARENTS NOT PRESENT

Illness, It Is Stated, Prevented Them from Being There—Singer Attended by Secretary.

Enrico Caruso, the world's most famous tenor, and Miss Dorothy Park Benjamin, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Park Benjamin of 270 West Seventy-third Street, were married quietly yesterday afternoon at the Marble Collegiate Church at Twenty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue. The marriage was a surprise to most of the singer's friends. The couple obtained the license at the County Clerk's office in the Municipal Building yesterday afternoon and then motored to the church, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Oliver Paul Barnhill. Mrs. John H. Keith of 800 Riverside Drive was the matron of honor and two other woman friends of Miss Benjamin were present. The singer was attended only by his secretary, Bruno Zirato.

The wedding was held privately because of the fact that Romeyn Park Benjamin, a brother of the bride, has bee tnwice wounded in France and is only now recovering from his second wound, which he received on June 7 at Château-Thierry. A friend of the bride said that the couple became engaged six months ago. It was stated that the parents of the bride, neither of whom was present at the ceremony, are both away for the Summer and had been prevented by ill health from attending the ceremony.

In his application for a license Mr. Caruso gave his age as 45 years. The bride is 25 years old. The singer stated in the application for a license that he had never been married before.

Miss Benjamin was educated at the Sacred Heart Convent and made her début four years ago. Her father, Park Benjamin, is a well-known patent lawyer at 165 Broadway. He was the editor of The Scientific American from 1869 to 1878, and is the author of several historical works and has been a contributor to many publications.

After the ceremony the couple went to the Hotel Knickerbocker, where the secretary to the singer gave out a typewritten statement, which contained the following:

> The bride was attired in a dark blue satin afternoon gown, with hat to match. The bridegroom wore a dark gray sack suit.
> The small party slipped into Clerk Scully's office unobserved by those around, procured the license, and whirled away in his new Lancia car before anybody in the Municipal Building realized who the distinguished pair were.

The singer has two sons. Rodolfo, the elder, is a soldier of the Bersaglieri. The younger, Enrico, Jr., was recently in a military school in Italy, awaiting a summons to the front. The two boys are the sons of Signora Giachetti. Later Signora Giachetti made charges that the singer had interfered with her stage career and injured her in other ways. He brought an action for defamation of character at Milan, which ended in vindication for Caruso and a sentence of a year in jail for Signora Giachetti.

Caruso has been an ardent supporter of the Allies, even before Italy entered the war. He is reported to have given more than $100,000 to Italian war charities. He appeared in concerts in South America last year at which more than $100,000 was raised for allied war relief purposes.

Caruso was born in humble circumstances at Naples. He was 18 years old before he began to receive training as a singer. His discoverer was Eduardo Missiano, who died in 1911.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, who is in France on a Government mission, said today that the Congressional election this Fall would furnish ample proof to Europe that the Wilson Administration has the support of the entire country in its war policies. Then the Senator jumped ahead two years to the Presidential campaign of 1920, and in the course of a long breakfast interview gave me a forecast of what he said was going to happen in American politics.

"Of the present Republican and Democratic Parties," he said, "we will have nothing left but their names. The names will stick because they are old, but the old parties are already finished so far as their former traditions and activities are concerned.

"The next Presidential campaign will be on issues growing out of the international peace conference rather than directly out of the war itself. There will be then a big international issue in American politics on whether the United States should have formal defensive and offensive alliances with other countries or continue its old freedom and retain the privilege of co-operating in the future with this or that country or group of countries long enough to attain a specified worthy object, and no longer. There are bound to be two opinions on that question in America after the peace conference, and it will make our foreign policy the biggest issue of the 1920 election.

"For that same campaign there will be two big domestic issues. First, shall the wartime Government insurance be continued, and shall Government control or ownership, found necessary in the war, be continued as a permanent normal policy in America and extended to include even more of our commercial industrial activities than at present?

Old Issues Discarded.

"These are to be the three cardinal points of American politics immediately after the war, and for a long time to come. There is nothing in any one of them touching the past traditions of the existing parties, and there is nothing left of the old issues. Tariff is no longer a party issue, but a matter of international bookkeeping. The State's rights issue has been killed by the South itself by its attitude on various recent questions.

"The new party alignment will be chiefly on foreign policy. We will find a group in the South and a group in New England that will favor strong permanent foreign alliances. In the West the tendency will be all the other way, because of the great foreign element of the population. No doubt there will be great changes in our immigration laws. Through immigration America must make use of its unutilized land. Draw a line between Omaha and St. Paul and another between San Francisco and Seattle. Between those two lines we can find room for 25,000,000 immigrants, allowing to each of them a farm as large as the largest peasant farm now cultivated in Europe. These agricultural immigrants would be discouraged from coming if America had formal alliances with some countries, but not with others. Those from nations with which we had no formal alliances would feel that their fatherlands were being discriminated against. They would feel that they themselves were subordinate members in our citizenship. We would produce for ourselves situations out of which friction

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 20.—It is regarded as a sign of the times that the Swedish Minister of Finance, Thorsson, at a political meeting, in a speech on commercial agreements, said he would not agree to the demand of the paper industry for greater exports to the Central Powers, but rather spoke about increased exports to the western powers.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Paris finds full of brilliant suggestions and glowing hopes the manner in which Foch is continuing to exercise the initiative which he wrested from the enemy in the second battle of the Marne. Every expert here pays a tribute to the skill of the leader to whom the Allies have intrusted the command of their united armies, and every day sees that tribute increase in volume.

In the manner in which Foch is now making the Germans dance to his piping every Frenchman sees solid reasons for disputing more than ever the right of the boches to the self-conferred title of the first military nation of Europe.

The statement of the Frankfurter Zeitung that Ludendorff is continually giving ground to enable him to regroup his forces is laughed at here. The tactics of Foch are exactly those which render any regrouping of the enemy forces impossible. Foch's method of keeping the enemy busy all the time on one part of the front or another aims precisely at preventing this very thing.

German Reserves Harassed.

Hardly had the enemy had a breathing space on the Vesle than another heavy allied blow was struck at him on the Somme and the Avre. A substantial portion of the reserves he had sent with tremendous diffiruity to the Vesle front had to be hurried off to meet the new attack further west. Then came Sunday's bound forward on a fifteen-mile front east of the Oise, and another hasty journey for some of the tired German reserves.

These attacks in quick succession are forcing the Germans to maintain at least 140 divisions in their first lines, or nearly a million and a half of bayonets. Another million and a half must be constantly available to relieve and replace the tired divisions, while an additional strain is being put upon the enemy by the fact that at any moment he may find it necessary to increase immediately the density of the troops he has in a certain sector where he often without reason believes an attack to be imminent.

An example of this occurred last Thursday, when von Eben's army, which is holding the line between Carlepont and Missy-sur-Aisne, east of Soissons, found itself with only a dozen divisions in line and had to appeal to von Boehn for reinforcements in view of the pending French attack.

Wearing Down the Foe Machine.

These wearing-down tactics, giving the enemy neither time to organize an attack himself nor a respite from being attacked, must be telling not only on the Germans' morale but also on their organization. The German military machine, good though it be, was never built with a view to a defensive campaign of long duration, such as Foch is now serving out to the enemy.

The position of the German war machine at the present moment, under the biting whip of Foch, may be likened somewhat to a first-class main-line railway engine with eight-foot driving wheels which is called on to take part in a mad automobile race along country highways. Foch's tactics in the nature of things are the worst possible for the ponderous, slow-

BRITISH PUSH FORWARD

Close on Heels of the Retreating Host East of Merville.

NO SIGN OF ENEMY'S HALT

Had Gone Back Three to Four Miles Yesterday with Big Guns Ahead of Them.

MOVE STILL A MYSTERY

But They May Be Seeking Better Ground to Face Expected British Onslaught.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 20, (Associated Press.)—Field Marshal Haig's forces continued to advance throughout the day in the Merville sector of the Lys salient. They were closely following the retiring Germans, who this afternoon seemed to have gone back to an extreme depth of three to four miles, and were still showing no inclination to come to a halt. At the south of this sector, in particular, the Germans left behind them numerous lines of retarding wire entanglements.

The German guns appeared to be far ahead of the infantry in the movement toward the rear. This was indicated by the extremely light enemy artillery fire, even that of the smaller cannon.

By withdrawing their forces in the Merville sector the Germans have definitely given up one of the points from which a drive for Calais would logically be launched. This is taken to indicate that the German high command has, for the time being at least, abandoned hope of reaching the coast, and now, perhaps, is chiefly concerned with getting the German lines back to a place of greater security.

Seeking Defense Against Tanks?

The withdrawal here had been expected for some time, and it continued during last night and today on a slightly broader front than that of yesterday. It marks the conclusion and failure of the effort which Germany launched early in the Spring to "finish off" the British Army by driving through to the sea.

Aside from a desire to get out of the ground which has been extremely unprofitable for them to hold, and where the British, by reason of their superior positions, are able to pound them day and night, the Germans, in retiring, possibly have another motive, namely, to establish a strategic defense against the operations of the tanks, should they anywhere be attacked by the British.

It is possible that the enemy may think that if he could arrange to leave a broad space, say, two or three miles, between the British lines and his own, holding the latter with fairly strong forces, but keeping most of his armies well to the rear, he would have a better chance to defend himself against the combined operations of infantry and tanks, the effectiveness of which, apparently, he has learned to respect.

If this is part of his plan, he seems not to have reckoned that the British would follow on his heels so closely.

Salient No Longer of Value.

The Merville withdrawal, however, is the most significant development in a long time, for the enemy has been holding on to this salient as a sort of jumping-off place for the continuation of his Flanders operations, and in holding it has suffered greatly, especially from the allied artillery. The initiative having passed from the Germans, the position ceased to be of value to them.

The British, taking advantage of the opportunity, have at various places pushed forward where the enemy has left small garrisons. The British also have battered at places where the enemy was not quite ready to retire, such as between Vieux-Berquin and the Hazebrouck-Bailleul

Clemenceau Predicts Victory Within a Year; Says Americans Have Struck Terror to the Foe

PARIS, Aug. 20.—It is the belief of Georges Clemenceau, the French Premier, that a complete triumph will be won during the present year by the arms of the Entente Allies, and that the war will have ended before another year has passed, according to the understanding reached by United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois of remarks of the Premier during a lengthy conversation with him. The gist of the conversation, with the consent of M. Clemenceau, has been given to The Associated Press by Senator Lewis.

Premier Clemenceau paid high tribute to President Wilson as a constructive leader, and said he was greatly impressed with Newton D. Baker, the American Secretary of War, as a man of great resource. The Premier declared that when the American troops arrived uncertainty existed as to whether they could bring their undoubted courage into immediate action after having been trained to a life of peace. The first showing of the American troops had amazed France with their bravery and soldierly perfection, he said.

The Premier declared that the work of the American troops on the battlefield did more to terrorize Germany than any other thing the enemy has met. He said France had every confidence now that this war was on the way to immediate victory.

Senator Lewis said Premier Clemenceau gave him messages to President Wilson and the people of the United States.

MANGIN BEGAN WITH HEAVY FIRE

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Aug. 20.—General Mangin's 4th Army attacked today at 7:10 A. M. on an eighteen-mile front from Pimprez, opposite Ribecourt, on the Oise, to Fontenoy, on the Aisne near Soissons.

By 10 o'clock the German positions had been penetrated, despite severe resistance at various points, to an average depth of four kilometers, and several thousand prisoners had been captured.

The attack was prefaced by violent bombardment throughout yesterday. This increased during the night and culminated in a tremendous drumfire between dawn and the "zero hour."

As I write in a village, but recently under German fire, the air quivers with the unceasing thunder of the French artillery and from time to time the houses shake to the explosion of a giant piece.

It is difficult to give a coherent account of the battle thus early. Reports filter through many channels, and the rapid changes of the struggle are almost impossible to control.

The report of an airman, for instance, announces French troops are at a certain point. A few moments later another pilot may detect there Germans who have emerged in a sudden counterattack or have been driven back from their position as the French, seen by the first airman, moved on.

One thing is certain; the attack is progressing favorably. By 8:30 all the first objectives were reached and the German front line was occupied.

Armed to Seize Plateau.

Long columns of prisoners are reported to be filing rearward along the whole front. The enemy reactions are sporadic and spasmodic; his artillery is comparatively feeble, and his aviation is almost negligible.

The prime object of the attack was the occupation of the great central plateau between the Oise and the Aisne. Six hundred feet high on the average, its top is a flat rolling country, almost unbroken by valleys, but slopes north and south, splintering into many ravines.

The operations of Saturday and Sunday had already taken the French well up the lower slopes, and the large force of tanks that supported the attack had an admirable

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 20.—Comparative quiet continues to prevail on the American front along the Vesle. This means that there is no infantry activity or movement of large scale resulting in a material change in the line.

However, the days and nights are marked by artillery activity much above the normal for a stabilized front and German aerial bombers continue their activity. For the last two days the Germans have been sending over a good number of gas shells into villages where they think our troops are billeted. They dropped 700 shells yesterday into one hamlet, but Americans were not billeted there, having moved twelve hours previously. Our guns also were busy.

Expected to be Shot.

A German prisoner taken yesterday was brought back to headquarters for examination. The first thing he asked was, "How long before I am going to be shot?" When told that the Americans would not shoot him, he replied:

"Oh, yes, you will. My Captain told me that you treat prisoners nice for a little while until you get all the information you can, and then shoot them. You have now been nice to me for a little while. It is as the Captain said. I know you will shoot me."

So many prisoners have given voice to this belief that a captured German officer was confronted by a German private while he told his fear. An American Colonel then asked the captured officer if it was true that German officers told the Germans that Americans killed all prisoners.

"Why, yes," replied the German officer. "Don't you tell your men the same thing about Germans?"

The prisoner taken yesterday, who was a Prussian, said he did not believe Germany could win the war now, with America in it, but that Germany would fight to the last man. He expressed the opinion that it would take the Allies three years to drive the Germans from France and Belgium back to the Rhine.

Think Americans Reckless.

If the French fighter would make any criticism of the American fighter it would be that the latter fights too bravely. From a not inconsiderable acquaintance with French offi-

STRONG THRUST AT NOYON

New French Drive Northwest of Soissons Also Shakes Vesle Front.

FOE'S ATTACK FORESTALLED

Mangin Starts Offensive Half an Hour Before Time Set for German Blow.

VITAL HEIGHTS ARE WON

Entire Region Around Noyon Is Now Exposed to French Gunfire.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Striking again on a front of fifteen and a half miles today between the Oise and the Aisne, General Mangin's 4th French Army smashed into the German front to an average depth of two and a half miles, capturing seven towns and 8,000 prisoners, according to the official communication of the French War Office.

On the west of the Oise the French troops today occupied Beauvraignes, after bitter fighting.

According to late information received here, General Mangin's line now runs from La Quenotierie, north of Bailly, (close to the Oise,) to Champ de Merlier, to Petit Maupas, to Cuts, to Hill 160, to Vesaponin, and to Valpriez Farm, five miles northwest of Soissons.

The French have captured Vesaponin, are on the plateau east of Tartiers, and are progressing toward Camelin.

The Germans are making stiff resistance at Hill 160, which is east of Le Mesnil. The advance is over most difficult ground, but the attack is still proceeding.

The greatest advance of the day was in the direction of Cuts, which was taken, along the villages of Lombray, Blerancourdelle, Vassens, Vezoponin, Tartiers, Cuesy-en-Almont, Osly, and Courtil.

Unofficial reports indicate that Blerancourt and Carlepont have also been won from the foe, while Caisnes is also near capture.

An immense amount of war material has fallen into French hands.

Win Last Heights South of Oise.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 20, (Associated Press.)—The operation begun this morning by General Mangin's troops between the Aisne and the Oise, southeast of Noyon and northwest of Soissons, looks this evening to be a splendid success.

General Mangin has taken from the Germans at Cuts and Mont de Choisy the last heights remaining south of the Oise in that region.

At Mont de Choisy the French troops are within two and one-half miles of the Oise at Pontoise, the direct road to which is now under the fire of the French batteries. Carlepont, to the southwest, is also in the hands of the French tonight, and from this place their guns command another road to the Oise at Sempigny, directly south of Noyon.

General Mangin, with his right solidly on the heights north of the Aisne around Fontenoy, is now sweeping the Germans off the high ground south of the Oise, obliging them to retreat across the river or retire eastward. In either event the success of the movement will expose the region about Noyon to artillery attacks from the south, the southeast, and the southwest.

The Germans are fighting hard against this danger, relying principally upon machine guns, as in the Thiescourt region, thus indicating that some of their artillery is already across or on the way across the River Oise.

Yesterday's heavy bombardment apparently warned the enemy that an attack was coming, for during the night fresh enemy divisions were brought up from a long distance in the rear in motor lorries, and Jaeger divisions, the captors of Mont Kemmel, were shifted from the Soissons region to help meet the shock of General Mangin's men.

The German infantry fought stubbornly and left considerable dead on the ground, but their artillery fire was feeble, and virtually no airplanes took part.

The French aviators, flying way down under the low-lying clouds, kept the staff well informed as to the progress of the attack and harassed the enemy with machine-gun fire.

Front Line Passed in an Hour.

The whole German front line was passed an hour after the attack began. Soon after 9 o'clock the French infantry was signaled on the far side of the Audignicourt Ravine, on the roads leading across the plateau.

At the same time the village of Caisnes, in the Bois de la Montagne, was reached on the left, and the troops were entering Tartiers, north of the Aisne, on the right.

The Germans made a desperate defense in the hilly and wooded region south of the Oise around Carlepont, Caisne, and Lombray, where they held strong positions, which were profusely dotted with quick-firers.

German Troops Were Told to Hold.

ON THE FRENCH FRONT IN FRANCE, Aug. 20, (Havas Agency.)—The French attack between Soissons and Rizecourt was against a line which the enemy desired to hold. It is strongly fortified and defended by picked Bavarian and Alpine units.

Documents on prisoners show that the enemy expected an attack, but orders were given that the positions be defended to the last man.

GERMAN WOUNDED IN LINE.

Rushed Back to Fighting Front Before Completely Fit.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—It is believed in Cologne that the Germans are weaker on the western front than even the Allies believe, says The Daily Mail's correspondent at The Hague. He does not vouch for other sections of Germany, but gives this résumé of conditions in the Cologne district:

All leaves from the front have been reduced one-half.

Men are sent to the front from the hospitals before completely fit.

Letters from the front have been discontinued.

Deserters are being sent to the front from punishment camps.

Wounded horses are hurried west with bandages still in place.

The correspondent adds that it is reported the Germans have stolen food parcels sent to French prisoners in order to feed neutral laborers who are on strike because of inadequate food.

REGARD FOCH'S BLOWS AS VITAL OPERATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Interpreted at first as a local operation intended primarily to enable the Allies to retain complete possession of the initiative on the Picardy front, the rapidly developed success of the French east of the Oise tonight was accepted by many military officials here as a definite and fully prepared effort having a specific part in the larger strategic plans of General Foch.

According to latest advices tonight, the advance of the French 10th Army for two and one-half miles on a front of more than fifteen miles was taken by experts here as conclusive evidence that the major plan of the allied generalissimo, the inauguration of which came with the attack on the right flank of the Rheims-Soissons salient, is far more comprehensive than has been supposed in most circles. It is believed now to include a series of actions which will occupy every moment until the arrival of Winter rains makes the plateaus of Picardy and the plains of Flanders impossible for large troop movements.

Most observers agreed that the immediate objective of General Mangin's forces appeared to be the "picking" of the Roye pocket, with the subsequent control of the important supply lines between that city and Noyon. For the larger objective toward which efforts of the Allies are being bent was seen in the capture of Noyon and a resultant breakdown of the German defensive line over a front of scores of miles.

Activities of the British Army east of Arras, around the Merville sector, are thought to be linked up with this larger plan. Not a few strategists in army circles foresee in the near future a more important thrust by these forces, completing the cycle of offensives from Rheims to the sea.

BRITISH AIRMAN FIRES FOUR ENEMY BALLOONS

21 German Machines Downed and 15 Tons of Bombs Dropped in a Day.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The official communication on aerial operations, issued tonight, says:

Early in the morning of Aug. 18 some of our squadrons combined in a very successful attack on the Phalemrim airdrome, south of Lille. Many bombs were dropped from a low altitude, and machine guns were used with good effect on ground targets. Several airplane sheds were hit and big fires started.

Some enemy machines which attempted to interfere with our airplanes were prevented from attacking by our escorting squadrons. All the machines engaged in this raid returned safely.

The Bruges docks, the railway at Roisel, and a number of enemy dumps were heavily bombed by us. The total weight of bombs dropped during the day amounted to fifteen and a half tons.

A good deal of reconnoissance, photography, and observation work was also carried out by our airmen.

In the fighting, thirteen enemy machines were destroyed and six driven down out of control. In addition, one hostile airplane was shot down and another brought down out of control by fire from the ground. Four German balloons in the Merville sector were set on fire by one of our airmen. Seven of our machines are missing.

Unfavorable weather prevented any flying at night.

HOLLAND TO GET GRAIN.

Nieuwe Amsterdam Will Take It, Then Fetch Cargo for Belgium.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—At the urgent request of the Government of the Netherlands, the War Trade Board has granted permission for the steamship Nieuwe Amsterdam to take a cargo of 10,000 tons of cereals to Holland. The permission was granted, an announcement tonight said, after an agreement had been made whereby the Nieuwe Amsterdam on its next trip from this country will carry a cargo for the Belgian Relief Commission.

Official Reports of the Day's Operations

French

PARIS, Aug. 20.

Night Report—South of the Avre we have captured Beuvraignes after a bitter struggle. In the course of our advance yesterday between the Matz and the Oise we took 500 prisoners.

East of the Oise our troops this morning attacked the German lines on a front of about twenty-five kilometers (15½ miles), from the region of Bailly as far as the Aisne.

On our left we have reached the southern outskirts of the Ourscamp Forest, and also the outskirts of Carlepont and Caisnes.

In the centre we captured Lombray and Blerancourdelle and gained a footing on the plateau north of Vassens.

On our right the villages of Vezaponin, Tartiers, Cuisy-en-Almont, Osly, and Courtil have fallen into our hands.

On all the fronts of attacks we have advanced on an average to a depth of four kilometers. We have taken more than 8,000 prisoners.

The number of prisoners taken since the 18th between the Oise and the Aisne is more than 10,000.

Day Report—There were reciprocal bombardments in the region of Lassigny and Dreslincourt during the night.

Between the Oise and the Aisne French troops occupied the village of Vassens, to the northwest of Mursain, last evening.

A surprise attack by the enemy west of Maison-de-Champagne was without result.

The night was calm on the rest of the front.

German airplanes bombarded Nancy last night. It is reported that six of the civilian population were killed and a score wounded.

LONDON, Aug. 20.

Night Report—Local fighting has taken place today on both banks of the Scarpe River.

South of the river hostile attacks upon certain posts which our troops have succeeded in establishing east of the enemy's former front lines were repulsed. North of the Scarpe our line has been pushed forward a short distance east of Fampoux after sharp fighting, in which we secured a few prisoners.

In the course of the day further ground has been gained by us astride the Lys. Our troops have gained L'Epinette and the area east of Merville. North of Merville we have taken Vierhoak and La Couronne.

A raid attempted by the enemy early this morning northeast of Locre was repulsed.

Day Report—A successful minor operation was carried out by us last evening between Vieux Berquin and Outtersteen, to the right of our recent advance in that sector. Our line was brought forward to the neighborhood of the Vieux Berquin-Outtersteen road. We took 182 prisoners.

Last night the enemy four times attacked posts established by us northeast of Chilly. On each occasion he was repulsed.

We successfully raided a German post west of Bray.

Our patrols made progress during the night in the area between the Lawe and the Lys Rivers and are now east of the Paradis-Merville road.

BERLIN, Aug. 20, (via London.)

Night Report—A new breaking-through attempt on the part of the French, which had been expected for some days and which was preceded on Aug. 18 and 19 by strong attacks, commenced today between the Oise and the Aisne. The first enemy assault broke down in our battle positions after a bitter struggle.

Day Report—Southwest of Bailleul the artillery activity frequently increased to great strength. Monday evening the enemy renewed his attacks on the battlefield of Sunday. South of Meteren they were unable to develop owing to our concentrated fire. North of Vieux-Berquin they were repulsed in hand-to-hand fighting.

On both sides of the Lys a few days ago, without fighting, we withdrew our posts, which had been thrown forward as far as west of Merville to a line east thereof. Merville was occupied last night by enemy detachments. Near Lens and on the Scarpe British thrusts were repulsed.

North of Lihons our shock troops attacked the front line of British posts, captured the defenders, and warded off several enemy counter-attacks. Southwest of Chaulnes we beat back an enemy attack launched in the evening after a short outburst of firing. Northwest of Roye the French renewed their attack with tanks. They were repulsed.

Between Beuvraignes and the Oise there was bitter fighting throughout the day. Here, on a broad front, the French advanced repeatedly in strong attacks, partly with divisions which had been freshly brought up. South of Crapeau-Mesnil their attacks collapsed before our lines; on both sides of Fresnières they broke down under our counterattack.

In violent hand-to-hand fighting the enemy was repulsed between Lassigny and Thiescourt, and parts of our front lines, into which he had temporarily penetrated, were cleared again. In the same way we held our adjacent lines to the Oise against stubborn attacks of the enemy, kept up until evening. The enemy was thrown back into his positions of departure.

Between the Oise and the Aisne the artillery duels again increased in the afternoon to great strength. Toward evening the enemy continued his infantry attacks between Carlepont and Nouvron. On both wings of the attacks he was repulsed in hand-to-hand fighting. In the centre of our front our artillery fire held down the enemy's infantry before our positions.

Between the Meuse and the Moselle our reconnoitring detachments penetrated several times into the enemy's trenches.

field for work against the German machine-gun posts on the heights.

Forewarned by the bombardment the enemy expected an offensive move of some kind, but seems to have been surprised by its extent and violence. Thus the prisoners taken by the army corps on the left centre declared that their division had been ordered to attack at 7:30, probably as diversion to French action, expected on their left.

Again the village and the ravine of Audignicourt, a little nearer Soissons, had been evacuated by the enemy, who directed such a deluge of mustard gas there as to render the ravine impassable.

The assailants were quick to appreciate the situation, and, separating into two bodies, right and left, passed the obstacle, to rejoin on the tableland.

This manoeuvre resulted in the capture of a large number of prisoners in a sunken road, running northwards from the village where the enemy was retreating without undue haste, under the impression that the French would be checked for a considerable period.

The Germans had attempted to cure the weakness of the holding troops, remarked in the last few days, by the addition of two first-class divisions; the Jaegers who took Kemmel were moved westward from the region of Soissons and a fresh Baden division was rushed up during the night in camions.

At Four-à-Verre and Croisette Farm, protected by the screen of the Ourscamps Forest, the resistance offered by the enemy was most determined, though in both cases it was ineffectual.

The fact that Mangin is in command warrants the certainty that the severe blow already inflicted on the enemy will be exploited to the utmost and that pressure will be maintained with full energy.

BRITISH SEIZED RIDGE BY SURPRISE

Overwhelmed the Germans with Smoke and Shells and Then Charged Trenches.

By HENRY W. NEVINSON.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES, Aug. 19.—This morning for me the scene changed from the great battlefield of the Fourth Army along the Roye Road, whence no fresh movement was reported. I heard of a dashing and useful exploit carried out in a far different part of the line by troops of a division for which, in common with all who know it well, I have the highest admiration.

This new scene lies away in French Flanders, between the shattered town of Hazebrouck and the shattered town of Bailleul. About equidistant from both is the absolutely demolished village of Strazeele, where hardly one stone or brick now stands upon another, but from its former site one obtains an extraordinarily wide view extending on the north along the isolated hills of Cassel, Mont des Cats, and Mont Rouge; on the east, over waving country to the towns of Bailleul, and southeast of Armentières in distance, while over the great plain southward one sees the towns and spires of Estaires, Merville, and possibly Bethune; and just in front to the southwest lies the great Forest of Nieppe, where, with good luck, one might still find a wild boar if the animals have not all been gassed. In the extreme distance rise the chalky uplands of Picardy.

But standing on Strazeele this morning my interest was not so far away. Just west and northwest, a little over a mile before me, were two points on which the villages of Merris and Meteren once stood. They were taken, as you remember, three or four weeks ago by an Australian division worthy of Anzac fame. Between them, from north to south, runs a stream called indifferently the Brook of Paradise and Meteren Brook, and beyond the stream, just on the other side from Merris, stands a longish ridge rising to a height of 100 feet or something more, and affording a rather commanding position of the country around and a useful observation point for the Germans who held it strongly.

Yesterday morning they had a part of the 62d and 33d Regiments of the 12th Division there, the 39th of the 4th Division, the 45th Landwehr Artillery, and some other gunners. They had been ordered some days ago to offer strenuous resistance to attack, and yesterday morning they were standing to in expectation of an attack up to 10 o'clock.

But at 11 o'clock they were enveloped in a barrage of smoke and shells, and out of the smoke and explosions they suddenly perceived our troops charging down into their trenches from the northern end, whereas they always supposed the attack would come from the west. Puzzled by the smoke shells, overwhelmed by our guns, and enfiladed from the north, while other troops attacked them in front from the west, the Germans made no long stand.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock the position was cleared and our troops, mainly Scottish and Welsh, occupied the spot where the tiny village of Outersteene stood, giving its name to the ridge, and, though the Germans flung large quantities of heavy shells upon the place all yesterday afternoon, the position remained firmly in our hands this morning. Nor was the enemy's shelling very severe while I was there.

Our men are now digging in on the further side of the ridge and at no great distance from Bailleul itself. The real importance of the exploit, however, lies in this, that the Germans now are thrust down upon the flat land of Nieppe or Hazebrouck Plain, where they will get stuck in the mud if it rains, and in any case can command no high ground for observation such as Outersteene Ridge afforded, and for observation they must trust to balloons, and while I was there this morning I saw one of their balloons shot down in flames by one of our airplnes.

Up to noon today between fifty and sixty machine guns had been reported captured. Our troops took a considerable number of officers and over 580 men prisoners unwounded, and at that time there were thirty-eight wounded prisoners counted. They spoke with terror of our guns, but complained that three days ago they suffered heavy losses from the fire of their own guns. Their gunners excused this by asking what they could do with guns in such wretched condition.

The captured officers were very hungry and ravenously devoured everything our officers could give them from their own rations. The infantry officers were of good quality, but their men were poor and short of gunners, of whom a large number taken seemed inferior in condition and discipline. It was noticeable that a great many Poles were among the prisoners, and some of these expressed frank pleasure at being captured. Many of them brought haversacks full of rations, with which they had prudently provided themselves in case they should be captured. The whole enterprise was but an episode in the vast course of the war, but it has a certain importance for the reasons I have given.

The rest of the front was reported quiet today, though there has been some small advance both on the Bourre River near Merville and on the Scarpe.

Ludendorff has issued an order that particular care should be given to the preservation of horses, as they cannot be replaced. A prisoner reports that 900 horses which were recently commandeered for remounts were officers' chargers.

FRENCH QUICKLY CRUSH GERMAN RESISTANCE

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Aug. 20.—It is known already that several thousand prisoners have been taken in the fighting west of Soissons. The enemy has been seen retreating in the neighborhood of Vassens and the Bourru-Audignicourt road.

Generally it can be stated that the Germans' artillery reaction has been weak and their reaction by airplane nil.

The French almost everywhere passed the first line by 4:45 A. M., and at that moment two French 75's were seen advancing down the Vassens ravine. West of Bourru a large number of machine guns have been captured in places.

Especially at Four-à-Verre the enemy resistance was violent, and along the line there is evidence that his losses have been severe. The Croissette Farm proved another centre of determined resistance, but has fallen.

The French reserves, in view of the enemy's aviation inactivity, are able to move as they wish.

General Mangin's Loss Small.

Aug. 19.—General Mangin's attack northwest of Soissons may be regarded as adding further to the reputation he has long enjoyed of being among the most brilliant and vigorous of the allied commanders. He is responsible for the two local actions carried through on Saturday and Sunday, the first of which brought in 350 prisoners, three balloons, and an airplane; and the other was said by midday yesterday to have yielded 2,200 prisoners.

Obviously, I can say nothing definite as to the number of French casualties. That figure has been told me, however, and any one learning would be forced to agree that the attack has been carried out with loss which can be described as infinitely small.

The attack of Saturday broke at 5 o'clock in the morning, near Autreches, and resulted in a gain of territory of 1,500 yards along a three-mile front. The enemy failed to counterattack, and only reacted with artillery. His advance posts failed to attempt serious resistance, and surrendered readily.

Yesterday's attack was on rather a larger scale. It started at 6 in the evening and spread to Audignicourt, Morsain, and then went to Rosettes, thus dominating the Plateau of Carlepont. It proceeded brilliantly. Early this morning the village of Rimprez and Rigolles Wood on the left of the attack had been taken. The enemy's artillery only reacted after the French had penetrated the enemy's position.

This morning there was no change in the general situation, the latest news being that two enemy counterattacks had both failed. All morning the artillery has been very active all along General Mangin's front.

GERMANS' SHELLS WASTED ON VESLE

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

cers whom I have heard voice this opinion I know that they feel that the American soldier has not yet learned the difference between bravery and recklessness in this war.

It took the French the first two years of the war to learn this. One hears it said that the British have not yet learned it. It is only much experience and a certain physical makeup that will give the fighter judgment to tell in the heat of battle beyond what point individual disregard for peril may overstep the bounds of proper bravery and become improper recklessness, which will cost his country his services without proper return for the sacrifice. Perhaps it may be hard for Americans to learn.

To illustrate what experienced French fighters mean when they say that Americans are too reckless, one may consider the problem of taking machine guns, which was a large part of the work in recent open warfare in which the Americans showed that the boys from peaceful home towns who never knew war could become avenging demons on the field of battle.

Stormed Machine Guns.

When the Americans were ordered to advance, if they encountered a machine gun they got it or it got them. No deeds in the war have excelled in bravery the conduct of the American troops who threw the Germans back north of the Vesle. Yet one machine gun position is worth so much in man power, and is worth no more.

But this feature had no consideration in the minds of the doughboys. They just kept advancing until there were no more of them or no more machine guns.

Machine-gun experts will say that a machine gun cannot be taken by a frontal attack of infantry, yet that is just what the Americans did time and again. They simply rushed those machine guns, on the basis that a gun would get some of them, but enough would be left to get the German gunners. As the casualty lists, now being published in America, show, it cost us many men to accomplish that.

When the French fighters on our flanks ran into machine-gun nests they rushed them the same way sometimes. But more often they held up the general advance until artillery could be brought to bear and until flanking movements could be executed.

This means that the Americans generally got their objectives a short time sooner, but next morning always found the Frenchmen had evened up the line on both sides and with smaller losses. What is true of taking machine guns is true of other jobs in this war. Americans, impetuous and full of vim, do the job or die. Sometimes they die when there might be other ways of doing the job.

Need of More Caution.

Four years of war have taught the Frenchman this caution. In time the Americans will probably learn it. They must learn it, for, if the future of this war is to be judged from the past and if the words of both Foch and Hindenburg are to be taken at their face value, victory lies not so much in winning this or that bit of terrain, but in wearing down and dissipating the forces of the enemy.

American soldiers will learn to sell themselves more dearly when their natural enthusiasm is tempered by the lessons that experience alone can teach.

BRITISH PUSH FORWARD

railway. Here a local operation gained all objectives, the British advancing their positions some distance and capturing one officer and 181 of other ranks.

There has been some fighting, of course, but it has been mostly of a local skirmishing nature.

The country evacuated by the Germans is mostly a barren waste. The houses have been either shell-scarred or leveled, and the trees and earth shot to pieces.

In the recent operations on this Hazebrouck front, including those between Outtersteene and Vieux Berquin, 19 officers and 845 of other ranks had been taken prisoner up to early today. The largest part of this number was composed, until overcome by the advancing British, of rearguards and screens covering the enemy's retirement.

South of the Scarpe River the British have still further advanced their line, while their positions south of the Somme were improved by local actions. An enemy attack which developed yesterday was a complete failure in every respect, the Germans suffering heavy casualties.

While the Germans managed to penetrate the British positions at two points, they were quickly hurled out, and the line this morning was completely restored. Not a single foot of ground was gained by the enemy.

Soldiers Told to Cease Whining.

Every day some new document or incident comes to light showing a weakening of the morale in the German Army or the anxiety of its leaders.

The latest is a step to make the soldiers cease whining when writing letters to friends and relatives at home, as it is considered by the German commanders to be bad for home morale.

It is a captured secret order issued by the commander of the 2d German Army. He states that a special examination of home-going mails discloses a disregard for the army postal regulations. Aside from disclosing the exact location of units, many of the soldiers have told of "successes of the enemy." The destruction of trains by Entente aircraft especially has been mentioned.

The order then recites among other things that the German soldiers have been writing home "exaggerated reports of casualties and false statements as to inadequate supplies of clothing and food.

The men must be made to realize, it is asserted, that the "morale at home is sensibly influenced from the front and it is an offense to send home pessimistic letters and arouse anxieties for which there is no ground in reality."

It appears to be certain that the German commanders are now worried more than ever regarding the situation in which they find themselves. They apparently realize that Germany's position, strategically and otherwise, is most precarious, particularly on the western front.

KAISERS TO CONFER AGAIN.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 20.—Owing to the multitude and complexity of the questions considered and the short time allotted to the recent conference of the Austrian and German Emperors, details could not be discussed, says the Fremdenblatt of Vienna. Fundamental lines only were laid down, the newspaper says, to be elaborated at future deliberations of the two rulers.

FOCH BREAKS UP FOE REGROUPING

going, overorganized German machine and its sluggish directing brain. Other things being equal, the bull henceforward stands no chance against so brilliantly agile a matador as Foch.

As Paris sees it, the Allies are now marching more surely toward final victory every day.

"And what giant strides we shall take," cries one favorite critic this morning, "if only we give to our fifth arm [aviation] all that extension, almost to infinity, which our resources, thanks to American help, now render possible!"

Foe's Loss Difficult to Replace.

Every German killed now, it is recognized here, is worth at least two as compared with the earlier years of the war, from the fact that the enemy is now finding it more and more difficult to replace his losses, in consequence of Foch's tactics giving him no rest. The French tactics are now entirely in agreement with the doctrine that a fatal mistake was made by the Germans in allowing the Allies time to recover their breath after each of their recent offensives.

"The military historians who will later tell the story of this war," says one writer this morning, "will be unanimous in proclaiming that the German General Staff lost the war on the western front in the first months of 1918 through not striking its blows quickly enough, one after another, notwithstanding that the pending advent of the American Army made such a policy an imperative necessity."

"If," trumpets Gustave Hervé in Victoire this morning, "Foch, thanks to the arrival of the Americans in mass, can continue his great effort without a halt, we shall not have to wait till next Spring for a German débâcle."

Von Quast Commands Germans.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 20, (Canadian Press.)—The enemy troops now falling back belong to the 6th German Army, commanded by General von Quast.

British patrols have maintained a steady pressure on the retiring Germans, and have inflicted considerable casualties.

The enemy manifestly continues to be in a nervous state. Early this morning he laid down a furious barrage on the La Clytte-Scherpenberg road. No infantry movement followed.

Much rain fell during the night, but the ground is still in good condition.

HAIG FELICITATES RAWLINSON.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 20, (Canadian Press.)—Field Marshal Haig has sent a telegram of congratulation to General Rawlinson, commander of the 4th British Army, reading as follows:

"Warmest congratulations and thanks to yourself and staff and all ranks on the magnificent success recently gained by the 4th Army. The brilliant manner in which the operation was prepared and successfully carried out at comparatively small loss by the 3d Australian and Canadian Corps, in conjunction with the cavalry, air force, and tank corps, is a striking tribute to the skill of the leaders and the bravery of the individual soldier as well as to the high state of efficiency of the staffs and departmental services concerned. The gallant and skillful co-operation of the armored cars and motor machine gun batteries is worthy of the highest praise."

Manufacturers Are Oversold

In these days demand exceeds supply. Most manufacturers have more orders than goods to fill them—then why advertise?

If a man succeeds in selling his residence, his automobile, his factory horses or his yacht by advertising, he discontinues the advertisement.

Such a man usually hopes to secure one customer for one sale—when he succeeds, the story is finished.

But if he is in the shredded coconut business, he wishes to secure not only the sale of a shipload of nuts, but he aims at a more permanent market.

He not only wants the sale, he wants a following among thousands of consumers to whom he hopes to sell future shiploads of coconuts time and time again.

Advertising to secure customers is something more than advertising to sell goods.

GERMAN GENERALS ADMIT OUR STRENGTH

Americans' Work "Very Smart," Says von Blume—Von Liebert Tells of Reinforcements.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 20.—Professional soldiers, such as Generals von Blume and von Liebert, unlike many other German war critics, do not seek to belittle the significance of the American Army's appearance on the west front.

General von Blume, who is on the retired list, writes an article on the subject which appears in the Rhenish Westphalian Gazette. He frankly admits that "we have to recognise that the Americans, all in all, have done very smart work, and it would be a very serious thing if the German army command had to face an American fighting army of millions."

This prospect the German public must on no account be permitted to ponder over, and almost immediately after the article appeared a semi-official statement was issued to the effect that the "exaggerated reports going about regarding the size of the American Army in Europe merit no credence, and only exist in Yankee imagination and Entente propaganda." The statement said further that "the tonnage question, which is already acute, will become still more serious for the Entente when America has to ship her crops to Europe."

General von Liebert, who was formerly German commandant at Lodz, and who is now military critic of the Täglische Rundschau of Berlin, tells the public that the American Army has actually become a big factor, and the debarkations in France are proceeding regularly. He laments the "moral perversion," which brought the Americans to the front, and says that "the French and British owe their recent successes to their transatlantic ally, without whom their offensive would have been doomed to disappointment."

EXPECT AID TO GET TO CZECHS IN TIME

Washington Tells of Artillery, Arms, and Ammunition Being Rushed in Siberia.

BAIKAL TUNNEL BLOWN UP

Bolsheviki and Germans Seek to Prevent Allied Advance on Trans-Siberian Road.

CZECHS TAKE SHADRINSK

People of Important Junction East of Urals Kill Red Officials After Its Capture.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—It was intimated in Washington today that assistance being sent to the Czechoslovaks in the Baikal region of Siberia will reach them in time to thwart the efforts of the German-Austrian prisoners and the Bolsheviki against whom they are fighting. The Allies are sending large quantities of arms and ammunition to the Czechs, and heavy artillery is included in the supplies. It is not permitted to disclose from what source these supplies are being sent, but a high official in the State Department said that this was a part of a bigger program now being worked out in a practical way to furnish the necessary aid.

The program to re-establish the eastern front with the aid of hundreds of thousands of loyal Russians is progressing more rapidly than was expected at first. The Trans-Siberian Railway will play an important part in the re-establishment of this line. That Germany appreciates the importance of the part this line is to play is shown in a dispatch printed in an Essen paper and reported from Amsterdam today to the effect that Soviet troops had blown up "the Baikal tunnel."

It is pointed out by an official familiar with this railroad that there are no fewer than thirty-three Baikal tunnels, all of them hewn out of solid rock, so that any attempts to blow up one of them would simply delay transportation for a short time until the dèbris could be cleared away. To destroy one of these tunnels, it is said, would require the services of expert engineers equipped with the most modern machinery and high explosives. Members of the American Engineers' Commission are in the vicinity of Lake Baikal and have been repairing bridges that were destroyed or damaged, and doubtless they will be able to repair any of the temporary damage that may be done to the tunnel.

Officials here are interested in the report from Berlin, via London, today that Lettish troops battled with rioters in Petrograd. It was mentioned at the time of the Russian dèbacle that the Lettish Army, small but well trained and disciplined and armed, was the only body of troops to retain its standing in Russia. It is known that Lettish troops formed the guards for Lenine and Trotzky when they were in Moscow, and it is assumed that they have become mercenary troops in the hire of the Bolshevist leaders.

In no other way can their presence in Moscow and Petrograd be accounted for, as they have been bitterly hostile to Germany, under whose rule they have suffered. The suggestion is made that they were compelled to sell their services, as, surrounded by enemies, they were unable to obtain a living in any other way.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 20.—Shadrinsk, an important railway junction between Ekaterinburg and Kurgan, to the east of the Ural Mountains, has fallen into the hands of the Czechoslovaks, according to a dispatch from Petrograd to the Rheinische Westfaelische Zeitung of Essen. The local Soviet officials were murdered by the populace after the capture of the town.

It is officially reported from Vologda, says the correspondence at Moscow of the same newspaper, that the Entente allied troops in the Archangel sector of Northwestern Russia have withdrawn outside the range of the Bolshevist artillery.

Soviet troops are reported to have blown up the Baikal tunnel of the Trans-Siberian Railway.

NO WILSON WALKOVER, SAYS GERMAN PAPER

Frankfurter Zeitung Pictures Japan Throwing a Large Force Into Siberia.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 20.—"President Wilson will not have such an easy walkover in Siberia as he thought," says The Frankfurter Zeitung, and it adds: "Those who come uninvited must expect to meet with opposition."

In spite of the news reports, the paper continues, the Bolsheviki are much stronger in East Siberia than was originally thought. It continues:

"In Japan serious fighting is anticipated. Although the Tokio Government did Wilson the favor of only mentioning the sending of a few regiments, she is making preparations on a large scale. An Exchange telegram even states that reservists have been recalled from China.

"It is evident that the road to Siberia cannot be forced by a few regiments!"

The paper denies the report that Japanese troops are already in Siberia and that they have deported German prisoners, although it admits that 3,000 prisoners fell into the Czechoslovaks' hands in a recent fight with the Bolsheviki, and will doubtless be sent to Japanese prison camps.

The paper predicts that the Entente's undertaking in Siberia will develop into serious military intervention. As to the problem of ending the undertaking or giving Japan a free hand, the paper argues thus:

"Perhaps Wilson can no longer choose, for Japan now wishes to act. The Japanese Army was educated in the German school. If they have a task before them, they must act and the politicians must remain silent."

The paper asserts that Siberian intervention is not popular in Japan, or at least not at present, and argues that the Japanese feel the shadow of America and do not wish to mix up in a white men's war, but to be armed for the peace negotiations.

LETTISH GUARDS FIRE ON PETROGRAD RIOTERS

Hundreds of Persons Reported Killed and Wounded in Fierce Hunger Outbreaks.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Hundreds of people were killed and wounded in a regular battle between Lettish Guards and rioters during food disorders in Petrograd, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The dispatch, which quotes Petrograd advices by way of Berlin, says that after the city had been without food for two days a procession of workmen marched through the streets shouting, "Down with the Germans! Down with the Kremlin!"

The battle between the rioters and the Lettish Guards occurred before the Smolny Institute. Martial law was proclaimed in Petrograd the same evening.

FONCK DOWNS 3 PLANES IN TWENTY SECONDS

Famous French Ace Makes Record Time in Bagging Enemy Airplanes.

PARIS, Aug. 20. — Lieutenant René Fonck, the famous French aviator, who shot down three German airplanes on Aug. 14, as announced officially on Sunday, accounted for all three of them in the record-breaking time of twenty seconds.

Fonck went out escorted by two patrolling machines. After cruising for ten minutes he spied four enemy two-seater battleplanes flying in Indian file, with only a few hundred yards between them. The French flier attacked the first enemy machine with his machine gun. It fell in flames in ten seconds. Later he got his sights on the second machine with the same result. The third dodged sideways before Fonck could take aim and escaped, but by a swift turn of the rudder he dashed at the fourth airplane and sent it down to join the first two.

If the other machine had been flying a little further from the second, which would have given him time to train his gun on it, Fonck declares he would have accounted for it, too.

RIOTOUS JAPANESE TO GET CHINESE RICE

Peking Consents to Lift the Embargo—Disorders Spread in Northern Japan.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, Aug. 20.—Owing to the rice riots, the Japanese Government has approached the Chinese Government asking it to remove the embargo on the export of rice. The Chinese Government has acceded to the request. The rice is to be exported from Kiangsu.

TOKIO, Aug. 17, (Associated Press.)—The disturbances over the high price of rice are reported to be subsiding except in North Japan, where they apparently are spreading.

Mobs have burned several houses at Sendai. The rice exchange announces that thirty houses were burned in the Tsumiye prefecture on Thursday.

RAID OUR AIR CAMP IN ITALY.

Enemy Planes Drop Bombs on Station, but Cause No Damage.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—News has been received here to the effect that one of the American naval air stations in Italy was recently attacked by a large force of enemy airplanes, which dropped more than a dozen heavy bombs, none of which did any damage to the station.

American airplanes and anti-aircraft guns beat off the enemy machines.

The War Situation

By THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The French delivered another crushing blow at the Germans yesterday, the hardest blow administered since the beginning of the last allied offensive and the most dangerous Germany has yet received. The number of prisoners taken, while large, (upward of 8,000 men,) was exceeded in the two blows which preceded. But neither of the first offensives held the possibility of such results as that which struck the German lines yesterday morning.

The entire German line is shaken from the North Sea to Rheims. The vital defenses of this line are found in the southern sector from Lassingy to the Aisne. If this section of the line held, both northern and southern wings could retain their present position. But if this section failed, both wings would have to readjust themselves in new positions.

The reason for this can be found in the general nature of the terrain. The section west of the Oise known as Little Switzerland is generally well understood as a result of previous discussions. The territory between the Oise and the Aisne, however, is fully as important. In fact, these two areas are entirely interdependent. To lose one is to lose both, since with one gone the other is outflanked and must fall back.

If we examine the territory between these rivers, west of Soissons, we find a land cut up with deep ravines, banked on either side by high hills with very steep sides. Each ravine is lined with woods, and the entire area dotted with heavy wood patches. It is an admirable territory for defense until we get to within three miles of the Oise, where the country flattens out into a broad, unbroken plain, bounded by the woods of Carlepont, the Oise River, and the Oise-Aisne Canal. There are in this stretch several small bits of woods, but the country is completely level, and is consequently a most difficult country to defend.

Germany has not had an opportunity to construct behind the lines she held before the French attacks any material defenses. As a matter of fact, up to a month ago there was no necessity for such construction, as the Germans were then figuring on going forward and not backward. The French therefore have this distance of three miles to cover before they reach the southern bank of the Oise River, thrusting the Germans, of course, back to the north bank. If they can do this, and it seems entirely reasonable that they should be able to do so, the only barrier between them and the eastern bank of the Oise bend will be the two forests of Carlepont and Ourschamp, which will be completely turned and will have to be evacuated almost without a fight.

This will place the French on the outskirts of Noyon, which is on the north bank of the river, and will automatically force the retreat of the Germans from that part of Little Switzerland which they still hold.

But this is not all. The French drive of yesterday has enabled them to establish their lines almost due north from the Aisne from Courtil to Vesponin, a distance of nearly four miles. This threatens to turn the entire Aisne line and thus force a retreat beyond the Aisne to the Chemin-des-Dames.

It is by no means the intention of the allied commander to permit the Germans to get behind the Aisne River and settle down into good defensive positions. Under such circumstances, the Aisne would be an almost impossible barrier to force. The result would be that the southern German wing would be just as securely locked as was the entire line in the old Hindenburg positions. This latest success puts this plan beyond hope. When the Germans begin to fall back from the Vesle they may make a temporary halt at the Aisne, but must in a short time continue to the Chemin-des-Dames or some other position north of the Aisne River.

The northern wing of the German army which will shortly extend from Noyon to the North Sea will also be vitally affected by a continuation of the present offensive. Here we will have another right angle in the line with Noyon as its apex. Here also the danger will be too great for the Germans to take a chance of holding on. The result, as further east, must be a retirement at least behind the Meve Canal as far north as Nesle, and behind the Somme from Nesle northward.

Never have the Germans been in such an uncomfortable position. Foch is using his reserve strength with tremendous driving force. He is catching the Germans at a number of points, sometimes widely separated, sometimes close together. It is never known just where he will strike next. But he has furnished us with something that was lacking up to the time of this last attack—the connecting link between his three offensives. They have now been joined up and the general plan has become manifest.

SIXTY PRUSSIANS SURRENDER TO OUR MEN

Americans Take Machine Gunners at Fismette Without Firing a Shot.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE VESLE FRONT, Aug. 20—(Associated Press.)—Sixty Prussians have been captured by the Americans near Fismette, north of Fismes, without either side firing a shot. The Prussians were machine gunners and all that remained of a company which had been in line less than a month.

American detachments went out a few nights ago, the location of the machine-gun positions having been reported by a prisoner. According to the Americans the Prussians were waiting to be captured. The intelligence officer who questioned the Prussians asserted that they nearly all had agreed to surrender if the slightest opportunity arose.

The Americans who took the prisoners do not claim any credit for the capture, declaring that the Prussians virtually deserted their posts.

A German prisoner captured Sunday told an intelligence officer he believed that if the line got back to Germany proper the fighting spirit of the German soldiers would be greatly stimulated.

OUR NAVAL AIRMEN BOMB OSTEND BASE

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The American Navy's air campaign against German submarine bases in Flanders began Aug. 15 with the bombing of Ostend.

While details are lacking, it is said that the operations generally were successful and that the Americans are particularly good at night bombing.

RUSSIAN MASSES UNMOVED BY PLOTS

Attempts at Revolution Unlikely to Gain Serious Support, in Bolshevik Opinion.

REDS THINK THEY ARE SAFE

Composition of the Parties in Opposition and What They Are Said to Stand For.

By ARTHUR RANSOME.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 18. — Moscow has been full for some time of rumors that a counter-revolutionary effort is to be made about the 20th of this month. The Soviet, however, is extremely efficient in dealing with such plots, having dealt successively with the pogrom plot of last Winter, when the enemies of the Soviet hoped to get the drunken soldiery to sack Smolny Institute, [Bolshevik headquarters,] then with the Cadet plot at Moscow, then with the Left Social Revolutionary mutiny, and then the affair of Jaroslav.

This new affair has been long promised, and is spoken of as an "officers' plot." Many monarchists are said to be involved. It was postponed after the Social Revolutionary mutiny. The time chosen for it was to coincide with that of the greatest starvation, this because such a plot would have no support among the politically conscious masses. The only hope for such plotters is to play on the unconscious masses who might during a hunger crisis be stirred up to riots, in the course of which a coup d'état might be accomplished, and, if followed by wholesale shootings and terrorization, as in Finland, might replace the Soviet Government with some scratch body which would depend for its tenure on the immediate improvement of food conditions.

Even if such a coup were successful, and if thereafter hunger were relieved, which is very unlikely, such a Government would within a very short time be in difficulties and urgently needing foreign troops with which to maintain itself.

Masses Are Indifferent.

I am inclined to think it will be more difficult than the plotters imagine to get even momentary support among the masses. The Left Social Revolutionary mutiny of six weeks ago showed with what aloofness the bulk of the population regard such events and how unlikely any attempt at revolution is to gain serious support. Then, while a part of the town was actually in the hands of the mutineers, while continual machine gun fire was going on, while the mutineers' headquarters were being bombarded by artillery and they themselves were sending shrapnel shells into the Kremlin, people were sitting about in the sunshine. In the Theatre Square, close by the Kremlin, and in those parts of the town not immediately affected, it was impossible to tell from the appearance of the streets or demeanor of the people that anything extraordinary was going on. People were more interested in discussing the chances of avoiding war as the result of Mirbach's death than in the fate of the mutineers, who, in seeking to provoke war, had shown how deep a gulf lay between the Left Social Revolutionary leaders, who are intellectual romantics, and the matter-of-fact peasantry they were supposed to represent.

This party will recover its importance, not as a representative body, but as a revolutionary organization, in all parts of the country where the Soviets are suppressed. It is responsible for the deaths of Eichhorn, Mirbach, and members of the Ukrainian bourgeois Government, and is certain to apply the same methods to representatives of the bourgeoisie and Allies in the north. Its members share the tradition of the old Social Revolutionary Party, which believed in revolution by assassination. They are thus distinguished from the Bolsheviki, who have always opposed assassination as a method, believing that it merely strengthens the other side in dealing with mass revolt.

The bitterness of the Bolsheviki against the Left Social Revolutionaries over Mirbach's murder was because that act was an attempt to take the initiative out of their hands and to force on the majority a policy which is acceptable only to a small minority.

The Social Revolutionaries hoped for war with Germany, believing not that war with Germany would mean anything but further occupation of Russia, but that by thus increasing the area of occupied and revolting territory they would be serving the revolution, as a whole, better than by supporting the less sentimental, less picturesque policy of serious economic and military preparation which is favored by the Bolsheviki. The Left Social Revolutionary watchword was, "Not war, but revolt." Without constructive plans, but with the revolutionary tradition, they sought conditions suited to the work for which they are fitted. They find such conditions in the Ukraine, and I shall be much surprised if they make any distinction between the Ukraine and North Russia. Like the Bolsheviki, they support the Soviet form of Government.

Parties of Less Importance.

Other parties, of less importance at the moment, are the Right Social Revolutionaries, who are fairly strong in the northern Governments and everywhere where they are many well-to-do peasants. They have no hold on the poorer peasantry or workmen, who are by far the largest class. They may be regarded as conservatives among the revolutionary parties, and since the establishment of the Soviet Government they take the place of the old reactionaries. For the moment, any assassinations which they may accomplish will be among the members of the Soviet Government. They are definitely opposed to the Soviet.

The same may be said of the Mensheviki and a group of other now more or less insignificant parties who lost their following last year. They are now dangerous merely as a disturbing element. They busy themselves in getting resolutions from workmen opposed to the Soviet. This is very easy to do in the mass in indifferent and hungry people. There is no great difficulty in finding a population for several of Kipling's villages to vote that the earth is flat.

Ever since they have been in opposition, and therefore in the best position for gaining votes, their support has decreased. When the Soviet Executive Committee voted that, since these parties were definitely opposed to the Soviet, they therefore had no right to sit in it, the Speaker pointed out that the whole of the opposition parties could sit on one chair; whereupon one of the opposition members earned immortality by replying:

"Yes, and you can get around the whole of your federated republic in Tramway No. 6!"

Their exclusion made no difference whatever, and their present activities are more a nuisance than a danger to the Soviet.

A certain number of officers belong to the Right Social Revolutionary Party, but most to the Cadets. The Cadets now represent exclusively the landed and propertied classes and intelligent classes dependent upon the land. Cadet politics since the revolution have been as clearly dictated by the interests of the propertied classes as Soviet politics have been dictated by the interests of the non-propertied classes. They spent the first eight months of the revolution in an attempt to postpone legalization of the passing of the land to the peasants, and consequently have no active support among the proletariat or peasantry other than the small landowners. This party now divides its allegiance between Germany and Britain, according to the proximity of the forces to which it looks for the re-establishment of conditions in which it could recover its electoral and actual ascendency. This party includes most of the officers who, though often describing themselves as nonpartisan, cannot, except in rare instances, be anything but unfriendly to the Soviets.

The danger of an officers' revolt, should there be one, lies in the fact that many of them hold commissions in the Red Army. The Soviets' mistrust of them is justified by such incidents as that of Jaroslav, where an officer serving in the Red Army handed over Soviet guns and stores to the White Guards. Hence, with a view to making the rising of officers impossible, all officers in Moscow were registered last week, any refusing to appear being dealt with under military law. Hence also the attempt to fill as many as possible of the posts in the new army with noncommissioned officers from the old army. Notice has been issued by Trotzky that officer's rank will be given automatically to any such who volunteer.

A German raid on the American lines north of Toul, in a comparatively quiet sector, resulted in losses to the Germans, General Pershing reported today in his communiqué. It says:

Headquarters American Expeditionary Forces, Aug. 19, 1918.—Section A—North of Toul a hostile raid was repulsed with losses to the enemy.

Private Leads the List.

Section B—The Commander in Chief has awarded the Distinguished Service Cross to the following members of the American Expeditionary Forces for the acts of gallantry set forth after their names:

PRIVATE CURN CHRISTENBERRY, Infantry—After having been wounded he remained courageously at his post under heavy shellfire, and not only afforded an inspiring example by that fortitude, but rescued comrades who had been buried when a shell caved in their trench at Souain, France, July 16, 1918.

LIEUT. COL. FRANK H. ADAMS, Infantry [611 Pacific Av., Atlantic City, N. J.]—Near Dormans, France, on July 15, 1918, he was conspicuous for gallantry in action when, with courage and forcefulness, and without regard to his personal safety, he voluntarily organized detachments of units other than his own and led them into effective combat.

SECOND LIEUT. JAMES M. WILSON, Infantry—He returned under fire into enemy barbed wire near Ammertzwiller, Alsace, the night of July 8, 1918, to recover two of his patrol who were missing after a raid, and, although painfully wounded himself, brought them safely to the American trenches, concealing the fact of his injury until he had succeeded in his undertaking and fainted from exhaustion.

PRIVATE JAMES J. PRETTY, Machine Gun Battalion—In the Bois de Belleau, France, on June 17, 1918, he and a comrade left shelter and went 200 yards in the open under fire of the enemy and carried a wounded infantry soldier back to his lines, thereby demonstrating heroic and voluntary disregard of self to save one who could not help himself.

PRIVATE BERTRAM L. REAM, machine gun battalion. In the Bois de Belleeau, France, on June 17, 1918, he and a comrade left shelter and went 200 yards in the open under fire of the enemy and carried a wounded infantry soldier back to his lines, thereby demonstrating heroic and voluntary disregard of self to save one who could not help himself.

MAJOR GEORGE F. ROZELLE, infantry. For thre days near Cantigny, France, 28-30 May, 1918, he withstood German assaults under intense bombardment, heroically exposing himself to fire constantly in order to command his battalion effectively, and although his command lost half its officers and 30 per cent. of its men, he held his position and prevented a break in the line at that point.

CAPTAIN CLARENCE R. HUEBNER, infantry. For three days near Cantigny, France, May 28-30, 1918, he withstood German assaults under intense bombardment, heroically exposing himself to fire constantly in order to command his battalion effectively, and although his command lost half its officers and 30 per cent. of its men, he held his position and prevented a break in the line at that point.

Kept On Despite Wounds.

SERGEANT ALBERT S. ELSEA, machine gun battalion. While acting as machine gun leader near Hilsenfirst, France, July 6, 1918, he was wounded in the face by a bursting shell, but continued to direct his men until the attack ended and then insisted on walking to a dressing station.

CORPORAL CLAYTON H. MOORE, infantry. During the attack on Hilsenfirst, France, July 6, 1918, while carrying a wounded soldier through machine gun fire to shelter he was wounded, but by unusual pluck he nevertheless brought his comrade to safety and realizing the scarcity of stretchers, insisted on others being carried to the rear, and walking himself.

SERGEANT ROBERT H. DONAGHUE, Marines—Northwest of Château-Thierry, France, in the Bois de Belleau, June 8, 1918, he led his platoon against violent fire to destroy a machine gun position, killed or wounded eight Germans himself and did not cease firing until overcome from loss of blood from his own injuries.

CORPORAL ISAAC VALLEY, Infantry—When, on July 22, 1918, a hand grenade was dropped among a group of soldiers in a trench, and when he might have saved himself by flight, he attempted to cover it with his foot and thereby protect his comrades. In the performance of this brave act he was severely wounded.

SECOND LIEUTENANT F. BONGARDT, Field Artillery—During the fighting at Vaux, July 1, 1918, while serving as a telephone officer, he crossed an open field in full view of the enemy and under constant bombardment, three times, to repair a telephone line vitally necessary to keep six batteries in operation.

PRIVATE S. J. KENDRY, Field Artillery—He performed his duty of telephone line repairman with great bravery and promptness in spite of intense bombardment of the area where he had to work, near Vaux, July 1, 1918, going fearlessly and without waiting orders, when communication was broken.

CORPORAL EUGENE W. WEAR, Marines—On June 6, 1918, in the vicinity of Château-Thierry, with a private, went out into an open field under heavy shell and machine gun fire and succeeded in bandaging and carrying back to our lines a wounded comrade.

PRIVATE LOUIS H. HARKENRIDER, ambulance company, on June 6, 1918, in the vicinity of Château-Thierry, with a corporal, went out into an open field under heavy shell and machine gun fire and succeeded in bandaging and carrying back to our lines a wounded comrade.

SECOND LIEUT. JAMES H. LEGENDRE, M. C. R., 529 Madison Avenue, New York. He displayed exceptional bravery in organizing and leading a party of volunteers, through heavy machine-gun fire, for the purpose of securing two wounded men on the Lucy-Torcy roads, June 6, 1918.

LIEUT. LEMUEL C. SHEPPARD, M. C. On June 3, 1918, near the Lucy-Torcy roads, he declined medical treatment after being wounded and continued courageously to lead his men.

Brilliant Act of Airmen.

SECOND LIEUT. JOHN MACARTHUR, Aero Squadron.—Outnumbered and handicapped by his presence far behind the German lines, he and three flying companions fought brilliantly a large group of enemy planes, bringing down or putting to flight all in the attacking party, while performing an important mission near Lunéville, France, on June 13, 1918.

FIRST LIEUT. WARD WILLIAM RUCKER, Aero Squadron.—Outnumbered and handicapped by his presence far behind the German lines, he and three flying companions fought brilliantly a large group of enemy planes, bringing down or putting to flight all in the attacking party, while performing an important mission near Luneville, France, on June 13, 1918.

FIRST SEARGEANT DANIEL DALY, M. G. Company, Marines, 14 Queen Street, Hartford, Conn.—Sergeant Daly repeatedly performed deeds of heroism and great service on June 5, 1918. At the risk of his life he extinguished a fire in an ammunition dump at Lucy-le-Bocage. On June 7, 1918, while his position was under violent bombardment he visited all the gun crews of his company, then posted over a wide portion of the front, to cheer his men. On June 10, 1918, he attacked an enemy machine gun emplacement unassisted and captured it by use of hand grenades and his automatic pistol. On the same day, during the German attack on Bouresches, he brought in wounded under fire.

PRIVATE F. FLEMING, Infantry—He bravely attempted to pick up and throw away near Oderen, Alsace, on July 12, 1918, a live grenade that had fallen among five soldiers, but because of irregularities of the trench he could not reach it before it burst. He thrust his foot on it, thereby saving his companions from death or injury, but causing wounds that necessitated amputation of the foot.

The Commander in Chief has awarded the Distinguished Service Cross posthumously to the following members of the American Expeditionary Forces for the acts of gallantry set forth after their names:

SERGEANT ARTHUR F. WARE, Marines, and SERGEANT RAYMOND P. CRONIN, Marines—In the vicinity of Château-Thierry, on June 6, 1918, under heavy machine gun fire attempted to establish liaison with an adjoining French unit, during which they were killed.

SECOND LIEUT. CHARLES W. CHAPMAN, a S. S. R. C.—On May 6, 1918, in the region of Autrepierre, while on patrol duty, he courageously attacked a group of four monoplanes and one biplane, and succeeded in bringing one down before he himself was shot down in flames.

SECOND LIEUT. LEONARD C. HOSKINS, C. A. C., U. S. R.—Near La Chapelle, France, June 28, 1918, gave proof of great devotion and bravery when he entered a shell-swept area in search for wounded, and was killed while conducting several of his men to safety.

General Pershing's communiqué covering yesterday's operations, as made public by the War Department tonight, follows:

"Section A.—With the exception of artillery activity along the Vesle and in the Vosges, there is nothing to report."

CHARGE FAVORITISM IN ARMY BUILDING

Senate Committee Investigates Allegations Against the Construction Board.

HINTBOARD EXCEEDS POWER

Quartermaster Officer Admits a "Gradual Development" of Control by Col. Starrett.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Inquiry was begun by a sub-committee of the Senate Military Affairs Committee today into allegations that the Emergency Construction Committee of the War Industries Board, headed by Colonel W. A. Starrett, had favored influential contractors and shut out small contractors in parceling army camp work. Among the favored concerns, it is alleged, were the George A. Fuller Company, of which Colonel Starrett's brother, Paul Starrett, was President until a few months ago, and the Thompson-Starrett Company, of which Colonel Starrett formerly was President.

During the inquiry Senator McKellar of Tennessee, Chairman of the sub-committee, elicited from Colonel F. M. Gunby of the Quartermaster's Corps, that recommendations for contracts for building army camps made by the Emergency Construction Committee are usually accepted by the War Department.

"Did you know that it was understood by the Senate Military Affairs Committee that the War Department and not the Starrett Committee was to make awards," asked Senator McKellar. "Instead of that, we find that the Starrett Committee is acting in its same old capacity and controlling your office. I shall fight to the very last to discontinue that relation. On what theory, I'd like to ask, is this outside committee naming the contractors for the War Department"?

Colonel Gunby replied that there had been a "gradual development" of the control of the Starrett Committee over War Department contracts.

"Do you now know that most serious charges to the effect that the George A. Fuller Company, of which Paul Starrett, a brother of Colonel Starrett, was President, and the Thompson-Starrett Company, with which Colonel Starrett was formerly connected, have received large army contracts because of the relationship of the Emergency Construction Committee and these large contractors?" continued Senator McKellar.

Colonel Gunby admitted that he had "heard some talk" of it. It was disclosed that the War Department has been letting big contracts to the George A. Fuller Company, the Thompson-Starrett Company, and other large concerns to do the heaviest work in building the camps, and that after the maximum cost-plus fee had been paid smaller concerns finished the work.

"Is it not the polcy of the War Department to let the big contractors get the maximum fee, and, when that is over, move out and let the little fellows in"? asked Mr. McKellar.

Colonel Gunby replied that the maximum fee never exceeded $250,000 to the large contractors. They received the bigger contracts simply because they were better able to handle them, he said.

Harry F. Hann, contractor at Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., told the sub-committee that his contract had been withdrawn after he had been led to believe that he was to have the entire work. The contract was turned over to the Hardaway Construction Company of Georgia. He insisted that there was no question of his ability to finish the work himself. The action of the Starrett Committee in turning it over to another contractor, he said, would cost the Government a loss of from $100,000 to $150,000. The witness intimated that favoritism was the cause.

The sub-committee will go on with its investigation tomorrow, when it is promised that contracts of the Fuller Construction Company and the Thompson-Starrett Company will be touched upon.

NEW YORK OFFICERS WOUNDED IN FRANCE

A. J. Stafford, A. J. Olsen, Irving Folks, and G. E. Villaret, Jr., on the Casualty List.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN BARRETT

Former Newspaper Man Fought Heroically—Other Men from the Metropolitan District.

LIEUTENANT ALBERT J. STANFORD of 124 Van Buren Street, Brooklyn, was severely wounded July 26, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanford, were notified by the War Department yesterday. Lieutenant Stanford, who is 22 years old, was promoted from the ranks of the Camp Upton Division, into which he was drafted last September. He is a graduate of the Commercial High School, and went to France last April.

LIEUTENANT ARTHUR J. OLSEN, a son of Mrs. August Olsen of 1 Manhattan Avenue, has been wounded. Mrs. Olsen has received a letter from him which said that he was convalescing. He went to France with the 305th Infantry, Camp Upton Division. It is understood that he was recently transferred to the 28th Division, which is the Pennsylvania Guard organization.

LIEUT. IRVING FOLKS, who was reported severely wounded in action in Monday night's casualty list, is a son of Mrs. Marie Duffau of 511 West 184th Street. An hour after she received the War Department telegram stating that her son had been wounded Mrs. Duffau received a letter from him. He was wounded on July 19, and the letter was dated July 20.

Lieutenant Folks is 25 years old, and is in Company L, 28th Infantry. He is a graduate of the first Plattsburg Camp of 1917, and went to France last September. Lieutenant Folks served with the 22d New York Engineers on the Mexican border in 1916.

LIEUT. G. E. VILLARET, JR., a son of G. E. Villaret of Meriden, Conn., was severely wounded on June 27 when a fragment of a 77 MM shell pierced his right leg. Lieutenant Villaret was a member of the old 71st Infantry of New York.

CAPT. F. BLANTON BARRETT, recently reported missing, is now known to have been killed in action. A letter from a fellow-officer received in New York states that he "died fighting heroically against superior numbers." Captain Barrett was formerly a New York newspaper reporter well known in his profession. He was at one time on the staff of The Evening Sun and later was on The Tribune.

JOSEPH LAWSON, severely wounded, is a private in Company B, 165th Infantry, Rainbow Division. A War Department telegram to his mother, whose home is at 58 East Ninety-fourth Street, stated that he was wounded on July 15.

CECIL J. HUTTON, 18 years old, severely wounded, is in the New York Division. His mother, whose home is at 2,021 Arthur Avenue, the Bronx, is employed in a Government gas mask factory on City Island.

MARINO RANZA, killed in action, was a brother of Mrs. Marie Sinatti of 389 East Thirty-ninth Street. Ranza, who was 25 years old, was employed in the Italian Hospital in East Eighty-third Street.

JOHN B. HOGAN, who is in Company D of the 165th Infantry and who is a 69th Regiment veteran, has been gassed and is now in a hospital. Hogan is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hogan of 65 Grove Street, Mount Vernon.

WILLIAM A. DIEKHAUS, son of Mrs. William A. Diekhaus of 244 Ogden Avenue, Jersey City, was killed in action on July 18.

Passaic Soldier Missing.

FRANK SPISAK, a son of Mrs. J. Spisak of 200 Second Street, Passaic, is reported missing in action.

CORPORAL HARRY J. LARAMEE, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Laramee of 94 West Forty-fourth Street, Bayonne, is another soldier of the 165th Infantry who has been wounded.

JOHN MULLIGAN, JR., is a Springfield, N. J., boy who has been wounded. He is in Company D of the Fifth Machine Gun Battalion.

BERNARD J. MCELROY, who died of wounds, was listed in the official casualties as being of Ireland. McElroy was a Sergeant in the 165th Regiment. He lived in White Plains when he enlisted at the outbreak of the Mexican trouble in the old 69th, with which he served at the border. He was first wounded in France several months ago. He was formerly employed at Bloomingdale Asylum.

"JOHNNY" OVERTON KILLED IN BATTLE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 20.—J. M. Overton of this city today received a letter announcing that his son, Lieutenant John W. Overton, a famous Yale athlete, was killed in the battle of the Marne on July 19. The news came in a letter from a friend, who said he helped bury Overton on the battlefield. The letter read:

"On the morning of July 19 we went over the top. Johnny Overton was killed. I helped bury Overton in the field."

Lieutenant Overton was known in the athletic world as "Johnny" Overton. Soon after the United States entered the war he enlisted in the Marine Corps and was promoted to Lieutenant.

John W. Overton was the best distance runner developed at Yale in many years. His prowess as a hill and dale harrier carried him to victory in the intercollegiate cross-country championships in 1915 and 1916. In 1915 he won the event over the Franklin Park course in Boston, and in 1916 he repeated his victory at New Haven over the stiffest course ever attempted in the collegiate event.

The six-mile journey included a steep climb of West Rock in New Haven, which was the longest hill ever attempted in a cross-country jaunt. Over this mountain-climbing run Overton stamped himself as an athlete of stout heart and sturdy limbs. His youthful days spent in the Tennessee hills made him a runner of unusual stamina and grit. He set a heart-breaking pace in this race and beat such fast runners as Carroll of Michigan, Wens of Cornell, and Dresser of Cornell.

Perhaps his greatest performance was the winning of the one-mile run at the Meadowbrook games in Philadelphia early in 1917, when he established a new indoor record of 4:16 for the distance. Joie Ray, the great runner of the Illinois A. C., attempted to break this record early this year at the Meadowbrook games, but failed. In establishing the indoor record for the mile Overton outran Ivan Meyers of the Illinois A. C.; and Mike Devaney. Meyers challenged the Yale athlete in the stretch, and twice pulled up until the runners were shoulder to shoulder. Overton's great dash for the tape carried him over a winner by a yard. His time for the quarters were 1:01 3-5, 2:09 4-5, 3:12 4-5, and 4:16. The former record was made in 1913 by Abel Kiviat at Madison Square Garden.

Another notable performance of Overton's was the winning of the 1,000-yard run at the National A. A. U. championships at the 22d Regiment Armory in this city last year, when he established a new indoor record of 2:14 for the distance. In this event he defeated Joie Ray and Dave Caldwell. This mark was tied by Ray early this year.

Overton was a member of the Yale relay team which tied the world's record in the two-mile relay race, covering the distance in Philadelphia in 7:53. He finished third in the National A. A. U. cross-country run at Van Cortlandt Park in 1916, being behind Kyronen and Kolehmainen.

RAMMED A U-BOAT, CAPTAIN REPORTS

Tells the Navy Department That Submarine Was Struck on Port Bow.

ANOTHER SHOT BY TANKER

The Twenty-sixth Shot, Says Mate, "Took the Submarine Right"—Made Her Drift Broadside.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The ramming and possible sinking of a submarine off the Virginia coast last Saturday, Aug. 17, was reported to the Navy Department today by the merchant Captain of an American steamer. According to this Captain, his vessel rammed the submarine while in the neighborhood of the Winter Quarter Shoal.

In support of his statements, the Captain brought his own steamer into port with a badly damaged bow. Announcement to this effect was made today by the Navy Department, which, however, refrained from disclosing the name of the merchant Captain or that of his steamer. Secretary Daniels made the announcement, as follows:

"The Navy Department is informed that the Captain of an American steamer reports that his vessel rammed a submarine about 9:30 P. M. on Aug. 17 near Winter Quarter Shoals, off the Virginia coast. The Captain stated that the submarine was struck on her port bow, bringing her alongside. The crew of the submarine hailed his ship, saying they were friends. The voices, he says, had a strong German accent. Replying that 'they were no friends of his,' the Captain says he left on his course. The steamer is now in port with a badly damaged bow and a quantity of water in her hold. The Captain thinks he sank the submarine."

From the statement made by this steamer Captain, this submarine was rammed and he believes sunk about 9:30 o'clock last Saturday night. This was about nine hours after the Norwegian bark Nordhav was sunk by a German submarine about 120 miles southeast of Cape Henry. It was in the vicinity of the Winter Quarter Shoals light vessel that the American schooner Madingadah was shelled and sunk by a submarine at 7:15 o'clock the morning of Aug. 15, two days before the incident of the ramming. After the American schooner Madingadah was abandoned, the submarine went alongside and fired two more shots. Its crew was rescued by a Norwegian steamer.

CERTAIN TANKER'S SHOT ENDED U-BOAT'S CAREER

Her Chief Mate Says Twenty-sixth Shot Forced Submarine to Drift Broadside On.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Aug. 20.—An enemy submarine was sunk by the gun crew of a British tanker which reached here last night, according to the tale of the battle between the tanker and U-boat told today by John Crosby, chief mate of the former, from his bed in a hospital where he is being treated for shock. Crosby is said to be in a serious condition. He felt no ill effects during the engagement, which took place last Friday, and was in good health until yesterday morning. Then, safely in port and beyond the reach of the undersea pirate, he collapsed.

"The second mate was on the bridge about 3 o'clock in the afternoon," Crosby said. "There was never a sign of any craft around, but he caught the streak made by a torpedo coming toward the tanker. He yelled, and the ship was thrown out of her course. The torpedo missed by a few feet. Every one was on deck by that time, but we saw nothing of the U-boat.

"But we did see another torpedo. We zigzagged, dodging the missile just as prettily as could be, and it went by us. Then the submarine came out of the water with her guns ready. She was all of 400 feet long and could make 17 knots an hour. Our boat was good for 11½ knots, but we began to go with the U-boat coming behind. She opened up with her guns and the fight started.

"I was acting as spotter for the gunner, calling the shells as they kicked up the water about the U-boat. Our twenty-sixth shot took the submarine right. She did not blow up with a bang. What she did was to swing around slowly and drift broadside on. We did not slow down, but made for port as swiftly as we could travel. I am sure our shot destroyed the enemy craft."

GERMAN HAD THEATRE STUBS.

Nantucket Resident Says Sailor Saw Them in U-Boat Officer's Possession

NANTUCKET, Mass., Aug. 20.—The wife of a well-known New York playwright and prominent member of the Summer colony here was among those who rendered assistance to the fishermen brought to this island on Aug. 11 after a submarine had destroyed their vessels the previous day off Georges Banks. A member of the crew of the Lena A. told her, she said, that he was questioned by the German petty officer who boarded the schooner. They talked of New York, and the fisherman asked the German if he had ever been there. The officer, he said, smiled and took from his pocket two seat checks for a Broadway Theatre, dated "Thursday evening, Aug. 8," two days before the attack on the fishing fleet.

In telling the story today the woman explained that in her excitement the story had slipped her mind until it was recalled to her by published dispatches from Washington today that the raiders were believed to have landed men on these shores. Her story was corroborated by another prominent resident of the island, who also talked with the fisherman.

EXPLAINS DELAYS ON TELEPHONE LINES

Company Attributes Poor Distance Service to Weather, Government, and Rush of Work.

A published report that in the last few weeks there had been delays in the long distance telephone service, brought forth a statement yesterday from officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company ascribing the delays to the volume of Government business over the wires. The company handles long distance calls placed through the New York Telephone Company, which has the same roster of officers but a separate operating management.

It was readily admitted by one official that the long distance service had "temporarily fallen from its high standard" because of the unprecedented demands of the Government for communication between its branches. He explained that the company had been hampered recently by weather conditions, and that it would soon extend its campaign to eliminate idle and frivolous conversations over long distance wires, when several other subscribers were waiting.

"The real reason why the telephone service has been delayed for the time being over the long distance wires," a high official of the company asserted last night, "is the fact that calls placed by the United States Government have the right of way. These weeks have been hard ones for all telephone employes, of course, and the heat had a great deal to do with the general depreciation in the standard of the service. Means are at hand, however, to better the condition, and this will speedily be done.

"With hundreds of extensions, branches, offices, and officials now in its service, and with demands for rapid communication heretofore unprecedented, the Government is making a tremendous demand on the telephone service, and it is but natural that it should have the right of way. Commercial houses have made many complaints about the service on the long distance lines, and perhaps it has not been explained to them that Government business takes precedence over their calls."

LEWIS PREDICTS ISSUES FOR 1920

would grow. America cannot afford to have such feelings of discrimination in the future.

How Japan May Figure.

"Furthermore, we can no longer consider our European relations as one thing and our Asiatic relations as another. When the war is over, Japan will say to her allies, England and France: 'I ask you to request of America that there shall be incorporated in the treaties a statement that my people are to have the same privileges in the United States as your people.' What could England and France say? And England must see that, whatever Asiatic readjustment there is, will have direct bearing on Australia. So the Asiatic question is no longer an affair between America and Japan, but a world question which would greatly complicate any alliances that we might venture to make with European countries.

"The domestic issues that I have mentioned are full of possible ramifications into many economic questions. We are going to hear from the farmers as never before. The farmers will tell us that their profits have been limited and their business regulated during the war, while others have been getting rich because of the war without restraint. This protest of the farmers will be a big factor in the campaign two years hence. They will create an issue by demanding Government warehouses through which they may reach the consumer without the long string of profit-taking intermediaries that now exists. The parties will have to declare themselves as to the farmers as well as on the question of continuing an insurance system for workers and the questions of Government ownership and prohibition.

No Third Term If War Ends.

"All of this is based on the assumption that the war will be over before the Presidential campaign. I have every confidence that the Allies will win a complete victory within another year.

"With the war over, there is not the slightest chance of the third-term question arising. Also, with the war over I don't think the political parties in 1920 will look to the military heroes as such for heads of the tickets. There can't be any great, outstanding military man in America, like Grant was after the civil war. This is because of the distance of the fighting from the people and because of the lack of exploiting any individual. Furthermore, as the issues will be questions of diplomacy and national economics, the leaders naturally will be statesmen rather than soldiers. I see no individuals in sight yet, but I am convinced that the Democratic party cannot go to the East for its candidate."

VARDAMAN BEATEN, PROBABLY NORRIS

Two Anti-War Senators Run Behind in Mississippi and Nebraska Primaries.

WILSON ASSAILED FORMER

Said That He Would Regard Reelection of Vardaman as Condemnation of Administration.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 20.—Practically complete returns from fifty-two out of the eighty-two counties of the State give Representative "Pat" Harrison a majority of more than 10,000 votes over Senator James K. Vardaman and former Governor E. F. Noel, opponents in the Democratic Senatorial primary held throughout Mississippi today. These fifty-two counties polled 50,000 votes. Should the proportion keep up in the remaining counties, which scattering returns indicate will be the case, Harrison will win by 15,000 to 20,000, making a second primary unnecessary.

Senator Vardaman left tonight for Washington but before leaving made the following statement:

"The reports so far, my friends, have been very unfavorable, but we are not yet defeated. Sit steady in the boat and hope for the best. My defeat, if I am defeated, is only temporary and if the people of Mississippi have made a mistake, we will abide by it with complete composure, as they will undoubtedly correct their mistake. As I said before, if defeated, the defeat will be only temporary. I want to thank my friends for their loyal support."

In Jackson, Vardaman's home city, complete returns showed: Harrison, 964; Vardaman, 182, and Noel, 89. In Vardaman's ward the vote was: Harrison, 121; Vardaman, 28. Hinds County, carried last time by Vardaman, showed, with a few small precincts missing: Harrison, 1,559; Vardaman, 395; Noel, 152.

The Senatorial contest overshadowed all else in the primaries today. A letter from President Wilson stating he "could not but regard Vardaman's election as a condemnation of my Administration by the people of Mississippi" was regarded by political leaders as having been a strong factor in cutting down the Vardaman vote. Both Harrison and Noel in their campaign stressed patriotism and loyalty.

NORRIS RUNNING BEHIND.

Nebraska Senator Apparently Defeated—So Is Bryan's Brother.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Wednesday, Aug. 20.—With less than 10 per cent. of the vote of the State received up to midnight, indications are that United States Senator George W. Norris was defeated today in the Republican Statewide primaries. Norris was attacked throughout the campaign for un-Americanism and on his anti-war record in votes in the Senate. Friends assert that full returns will show his nomination.

Norris's successful opponent is Representative Charles H. Sloan, according to figures received up to midnight. Sloan's vote was nearly 2 to 1 over Norris, and those returns were from scattering precincts from all parts of the State.

Former Governor John W. Morehead has received the Democratic nomination for the Senate by a vote more than equal to that of his four opponents. His nearest competitor was Richard L. Metcalfe, former Governor of the Panama Canal Zone. Metcalfe made his campaign on Americanism and anti-Germanism.

Edgar Howard, the Bryan candidate for the Democratic nomination for Senator, is far behind Morehead and has been decisively defeated.

Charles W. Bryan, brother of William J. Bryan, has been defeated for the Democratic nomination for Governor by two to one. His successful opponent is Governor Keith Neville.

CONCENTRATE ON FORD.

Leaders Urge Democrats to Vote Solidly in Democratic Primary.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 20.—Efforts are being made by the Democratic State Central Committee to have the Democrats of Michigan vote solidly in their own Senatorial primary on Aug. 27 and refrain from trespassing upon the Republican primaries. The Democratic organization is determined to nominate Henry Ford for Senator on the Democratic ticket. It would like to see the Republicans name either Newberry or Osborn. In addition, the Democratic organization proposes to take no chances on the candidacy of James W. Helme for the Democratic nomination.

The leaders believe that, with the Democrats staying in their own primary Mr. Ford will sweep the party for the nomination. But if certain Democrats on primary day sidle off into the Republican primary to vote for Mr. Ford on the Republican ticket, Mr. Helme would have a better chance in the Democratic primary. Hence they are sending out letters urging the Democrats to stay on their own reservation.

Select Lamonte for Senate Race.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—George M. Lamonte of Bound Brook, former State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, who was appointed to this office when President Wilson was Governor of New Jersey, was selected today by the Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee as the choice for the United States Senatorial nomination. It is understood that Lamonte will accept. State Chairman McDonald said that no statement to the voters would be issued by the committee on the Senatorial situation until the anticipated letter from President Wilson on the general political situation in New Jersey had been received.

Name Ball for Delaware Senate.

DOVER, Del., Aug. 20.—Dr. L. Heisler Ball of New Castle County, was nominated for the United States Senate by the Republican State Convention here today. Dr. Caleb R. Layton was chosen for Representative in Congress.

Passaic Officer Wounded.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 20.—Lieutenant Edward A. Mead of 243 Pennington Avenue led a platoon in the offensive on July 29, along the Ourcq River. He is now in a base hospital with fragments of a shell in a leg, but expects to be out and fighting soon, according to a letter received today by his mother, Mrs. Frederick K. Mead. When war was declared he enlisted in Company L, 47th Infantry. At that time he was a junior in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Government Asks People to Take Purchases Home With Them

Long before war conditions had sent retail prices a-kiting, this store had reduced selling costs to a minimum.

The introduction of up-to-the-minute methods enabled us to sell quality goods at prices materially lower than our competitors. These same methods permit us now, when war has upset business to an extent undreamed of two years ago, to go along smoothly in our accustomed way, offering merchandise of the highest quality at prices that appeal to prudent people.

Buying for Cash and Selling for Cash in the same old way, one price to everybody and that price the "lowest-in-the-city," we are going ahead because our methods are right, and, like truth, are bound to prevail.

Our friends can help in the GOOD WORK of keeping down prices by making the little sacrifice needed in shopping on a Blue "WILL TAKE" TRANSFER CARD. By that is meant a customer agrees to take purchases home and save the expense of store delivery. Try this method and feel the satisfaction of helping the government in a way which the government itself strongly advises.

OVER FOUR SCORE NOTABLE TENNIS PLAYERS FROM EAST AND WEST SEEK NATIONAL TITLE

HOST OF NET STARS ENTER TITLE MEET

Eighty-seven Players to Take Part in National Singles Championship.

DRAW DIVIDES STRENGTH

Murray and Kumagae May Come Through to Final Round—Expect Other Entries.

The draw for the national tennis championship, which was made yesterday, discloses the fact that there are eighty-seven entrants for the singles tournament which will begin on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills next Monday. Included among this number are many prominent players, whose names have been synonymous with court triumphs of more favorable years. Furthermore, the list is representative of the entire country, for there are players from the Pacific Coast and the Middle West, as well as a host from the East.

In point of calibre the entry is far more propitious probably than even the most sanguine well-wisher of the tournament could have hoped. Included in the draw are such sterling players as Robert Lindley Murray, fourth in the national ranking of two years ago; Ichiya Kumagae of Japan, the fifth ranking player of 1916; Walter Merrill Hall, Conrad B. Doyle of Washington, Harold Throckmorton, Nat W. Niles, S. Howard Voshell, Lieutenant Craig Biddle, Frederick B. Alexander, Beals C. Wright, the latter two of international fame; William T. Tilden, Elliott Binzen and Theodore Roosevelt Pell.

Then, too, there is a galaxy of younger talent, the most prominent among them being Vincent Richards, holder with Tilden of the national doubles crown, as well as being the national boys' champion; Frank T. Anderson, the young Long Island champion, and Harold Taylor. Canada is represented by one entrant, A. S. Cassils, and the Pacific Coast one notable contender in Sergeant Alexander Craven, who is said to be the equal of Roland Roberts, who made a successful debut into Eastern tennis two years ago, all but beating Richard Norris Williams in one of the advanced rounds of the Newport tournament.

The luck of the draw has developed a fine balance of strength. For instance, in the upper half are such men as Murray, Biddle, Voshell, Richards, Anderson, Niles, Alexander and Pell. In the lower half the strength lies in Kumagae, Tilden, Hall, Seiichiro Kashio, and Beals Wright. The placing of the names in the divisions is so well scattered that in the majority of the cases the stars will notclash until well toward the close of the event. Should Tilden and Kumagae, for instance, both be successful in the earlier rounds they would meet in the semi-final.

Three places in the draw have been given over to "A Man," which means simply that a place has been reserved should there be a late entry from some man in the service who has as yet been unable to obtain a furlough. It is still hoped that William M. Johnston, national singles champion in 1915, may be able to play.

The draw follows:

REDS STOPPED BY DODGERS.

Johnston Contributes Largely to Victory of Brooklyn.

CINCINATI, Aug. 20.—Brooklyn won the last game of the series from Cincinnati today by a score of 2 to 1, thereby breaking the latter team's winning streak of eight straight games.

Johnston was the main factor in the Brooklyn victory. He tripled in the first inning and scored on Olson's single. In the sixth he singled, went to second on a sacrifice, to third on a passed ball and scored on an out at first.

DIVORCEE VICTOR IN TROT.

Murphy's Chestnut Peter Beaten in Poughkeepsie Race.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 20.—The Divorcee, owned and bred by A. B. Coxe of Paoli, Penn., won the National 2:17 class for three-year-old trotters in the Grand Circuit races here today. It defeated Chestnut Peter of the Murphy Stable in a sensational race, and secured a new record of 2:06½ in the first heat.

The Divorcee led all the way in the first heat and won by nearly a length from Chestnut Peter. Murphy managed to put Chestnut Peter under the wire a winner in the second heat, beating The Divorcee by a nose in 2:05¾, the fastest heat of the day. In the third heat neither Chestnut Peter nor Hollyrood Bob could reach The Divorcee, although the finish was again close.

The summaries:

Track Meet Postponed.

The track and field meet which officials of the New York A. C. had planned to promote this afternoon at Hollywood Horse Show Grounds, West End, N. J., for the soldiers stationed at Camp Vail, Little Silver, N. J., has been postponed. Arthur McAleenan, Captain of the Mercury Foot organization, last night stated that the meet would probably be held Sept. 9.

PIRATES HEAP RUNS AND GIANTS ERRORS

Steele Pitches Poorly and Mates Field Worse in Game Won by Pittsburgh.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20.—The ineffective pitching of Bob Steele, combined with the wretched fielding of the little southpaw's teammates, cost the Giants the last game of the series with the Pirates. McGraw's men lost by a score of 10 to 2. Erskine Mayer hurled for Pittsburgh and got by without any difficulty.

The game was marked by a wordy battle between McGraw and his players and a group of spectators in a box back of the Giants' bench. The unruly rooters subsided when Umpire Byron threatened to have them ousted from the park by the police.

Errors by Burns and Steele, combined with three hits, gave the Pirates three runs in the second inning. Southworth slapped a hit past Sicking and continued on to second when Burns fumbled the ball. Cutshaw laid down a bunt and Steele booted it. Mollwitz singled, scoring Southworth, and McKechnie singled, scoring Cutshaw and putting Mollwitz on third. Mollwitz crossed the plate on Schmidt's sacrifice fly to Burns.

In the third, after two were out, Doyle gummed up a short fly from Southworth's bat, after which Cutshaw hit to the fence for a home run. Southworth jogged over the rubber ahead of him.

Mayer weakened momentarily in the fourth and the Giants reached him for a brace of runs. Doyle and Fletcher singled. Zimmerman flied to Southworth, but Sicking walked, filling the bases. Rariden hoisted a long sacrifice foul fly to Southworth, on which Doyle scored, and Steele poked a single to right, scoring Fletcher. A double steal was tried, but was broken up when Steele was nailed at second.

Only the agility of Fletcher prevented the Pirates from making a triple play in the sixth. Doyle opened that inning with a single and Fletcher reached first on Cutshaw's fumble. Zimmerman hit on a line toward left, but Boone leaped into the air and caught the drive. He doubled Doyle off second with a quick throw to Cutshaw, but Fletcher scrambled back to first base before Cutshaw could relay the ball to Mollwitz.

The Pirates' half of the seventh was a nightmare. It began by Fletcher fumbling McKechnie's grounder. Schmidt beat out a bunt and Mayer laid down a sacrifice bunt. Steele picked the ball up and heaved it far over Sicking's head, McKechnie and Schmidt scoring and Mayer reaching third. Leach's short fly to right dropped safely and went for a single, Mayer scoring. Leach raced around to third on a wild pitch and Doyle threw out Boone, Leach holding third, after which Steele let go another wild pitch, Leach scoring.

The Pirates hopped on Steele for another run in the eighth, when Mollwitz singled and stole second and scored on a single by McKechnie.

Any painter will tell you that it costs a lot more to get a coat of paint off than on. You ought to get the kind you're satisfied to keep on.

Same with clothes. If the coat's becoming, wears well and keeps its shape—you're all to the merry. But, get stuck with some poor thing and you're down in the dumps!

The best is cheapest in the end.

ARRANGE WORLD'S SERIES.

Details of Games to be Announced in Few Days.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 20.—The National Baseball Commission met here today and went into a thorough discussion of the coming world's series, but shortly before the conclusion of the meeting it announced officially that no decisions relative to the schedule, umpires, eligible players, and other details would be given out before next Thursday or Friday.

The reason given by Chairman August Herrmann, speaking for the commission, was that the American League race was entirely too close, and that the members of the commission thought it would be better to delay any announcements that were to be made.

It was unofficially but authoritatively stated that every phase of the world's series work was taken up.

The meeting was attended only by Chairman Herrmann, President B. B. Johnson of the American League, and Secretary John Heydler of the National League, who came armed with authority to represent his league at the meeting.

HIGH WEIGHT CAN'T STOP BILLY KELLY

Juvenile Gelding Carries 135 Pounds to Victory in Grab Bag at Spa.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Aug. 20.—Commander J. K. L. Ross's recently acquired gelding, Billy Kelly, performed a feat today, seldom accomplished by a two-year-old, when he carried 135 pounds and won the Grab Bag Handicap in a field of twelve high-class youngsters. The race was one which tested the gameness as well as the speed of the son of Dick Welles.

Commander Ross, who anxiously watched the contest, broke into broad smiles as Billy Kelly literally fought his way to the front and stood a lashing by Jockey Sande to win by half a length from W. R. Coe's Sweep On, which was in receipt of fifteen pounds from the winner. The time, too, added to the lustre of Billy Kelly, for he covered the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5, a record for the stake that eclipsed the 1:13 mark made by Captain Cassatt's Trial by Jury, which won in 1914 with 118 pounds on his back.

The triumph of the Canadian sportsman was rendered more complete by Col. Livingston, another gelding carrying his colors, finishing third, while among the also rans were such well known performers as Lord Brighton and Stickling.

The manner in which Billy Kelly achieved victory led many to compare him with the stars of the turf that made history in their first year of racing. So far as could be determined only Hamburg, Endurance by Right, and Novelty have carried 135 pounds and won in a two-year-old contest, the last named attaining a niche in the turf hall of fame so far back as 1910.

Billy Kelly had been beaten earlier in the meeting when shouldering 133 pounds in the Albany Handicap, but this defeat was ascribed to poor handling, so that the Ross entry was a strong favorite, with Sweep On the only contender seriously considered. Sande was away well enough to gain a good position at the start but there was so much crowding in the early part of the race that he was forced back to fifth place going around the bend, while Sweep On was winging his way in front closely accompanied by Ginger, Stickling, and Lord Brighton.

Turning into the stretch Billy Kelly had moved up a peg, but Ginger and Lord Brighton were running strongly outside of Sweep On, and Sande had to take his mount wide in order to get clear sailing. Once called on for his extreme speed Billy Kelly quickly disposed of Ginger and Lord Brighton, but Sweep On was still in front to give the top weight an argument. At the eighth pole Sweep On led a length, but as both jockeys applied the whip Billy Kelly began to show his class. He drew up alongside of Sweep On at the sixteenth pole and though Fairbrother rode his hardest on Sweep On there was no withstanding the speed and courage of Billy Kelly, which gained the verdict by half a length.

The success of Billy Kelly came as a welcome relief to the talent, as he was the only public choice to succeed. One of the greatest setbacks was the defeat of the Brighton Stable's Flags in the third race for three-year-olds at a mile. The event marked immense improvement by the Nevada Stock Farm's Tombolo, a horse that came from the Pacific coast with an unbeaten record which was quickly dissipated here. Aided by light weight Tombolo finished with a great rush and won by a length in 1:36 3-5, time that has only been beaten by the record mile of Sun Briar.

Great interest is being taken in the attempt of Roamer to beat Salvator's record of 1:35½ scheduled for tomorrow. A two-year-old will break from the barrier with the record seeker and at the half mile pole he will be joined by Snapdragon in order to push him to the limit of his speed.

'UNDER ORDERS' IS A NEW SENSATION

A Four-Act Spy Play Is Carried to Success by Two Actors.

SHELLEY HULL HAS ARRIVED

With Effie Shannon in a Timely Variant of "The Prisoner of Zenda" Situation.

UNDER ORDERS, a drama in four acts by Berte Thomas. At the Eltinge Theatre.

Arthur Ford	Shelley Hull
Mrs. Ford	Effie Shannon
Captain Hartzmann	Shelley Hull
Frau Hartzmann	Effie Shannon

It is as a technical stunt that "Under Orders" makes its primary appeal—"A Dramatic Novelty," the program calls it. It certainly is that. A war play in four acts, one of which takes place in Germany, is carried by two actors, Shelley Hull and Effie Shannon, without even a maidservant to dust the chairs or a footman to say "My Lord, the carriage waits." In his neat and very modest curtain speech Mr. Hull quoted a critic who remarked that a dollar-ten was a whole lot to pay for one actor. And truly it might seem that our mania for Hooverizing had reached even the casting of drama. Yet it is possibly unwise to insist on the meagreness of materials employed, and it is certainly unfair to the new production at the Eltinge.

Though the actors are two, the dramatis personae are four. The American mother has a double, a twin sister who has married a Prussian officer; and the American Captain has also his counterpart—his cousin, a Captain in the Imperial Guards. In this duality of the hero the play recalls "The Prisoner of Zenda"; and here, as in Anthony Hope's romance, the likeness between the Anglo-Saxon hero and his Teutonic kinsman gives scope to very telling situations and stirring drama. In short, "Under Orders" is a very full evening's entertainment, with far more variety, suspense, and climax than is afforded by nine out of ten melodramas of the war.

The lion's share of the acting falls to Mr. Hull. In the opening act, the least impressive of the four, he is a young Captain leaving his mother for the front—handsome, manly, and tender, as we have so often seen him before. In the second act he appears in his aunt's house in Germany, an escaped prisoner—physically broken and tremulous with privation, insult, and brutal abuse. Here Mr. Hull reveals new powers in impersonation—and, indeed, in the embodiment of character and the portrayal of heroic passion. In a stirring scene he makes his escape in an old uniform of his cousin's. A moment later the cousin enters in search of him, the very type of a young Prussian officer—muscular and instinct with masculine nerve, the spirit of military rigor. Already Mr. Hull had placed himself high as an actor of versatility and power.

The third act brings the scene which decided the fortunes of the play. It is in the English home again; and, at first, it seems that the young man in American uniform is our hero. Yet the mother evinces misgivings, and presently it becomes evident that we have to do with the German cousin disguised and acting as a spy. The passage in which this develops is quite masterly in the simplicity and intrinsic probability with which a situation is handled, full of nervous tension and dramatic movement. The culmination of the act is a struggle between the two, in which the mother, in an outburst of heroic patriotism, gives up the spy, though it means the death of her own son.

Mr. Hull's impersonation of the German is little short of masterly in its subtle shadings of character and its intrinsic force. All doubt vanished. Unmistakably he had arrived. And the play had arrived with him. After such a culminating scene, it did not matter whether the actors were two or twenty.

The final act brought Miss Shannon her opportunity. Under the stress of the scenes through which she had passed, the mother's mind has given way, so that when her son returns to her, (saved by the fortunes of war and the fates which preside over melodrama,) she does not recognise him, but continues to mourn him as dead. It is a situation of great emotional possibility, and Miss Shannon carries it in a thoroughly competent manner, though here as throughout the effect is marred by an artificial manner of speakings, which sacrifices sense and natural coloring of dialogue to merely tonal effects.

The play is from London, where it had a very considerable success. It has been altered to the extent of making the hero an American and introducing certain vigorous patriotic sentiments, which may have sounded rather bombastic to some, but which the audience as a whole welcomed with enthusiasm. In the main, the play is very ably written, and it is especially noteworthy for the simplicity and dignity with which the young Prussian is characterized, and the sportsmanlike feeling, unusual in war plays, which allows to him also the virtue of patriotic sacrifice.

MUSICAL CROOKS IN NEW BROADHURST PLAY

"He Didn't Want to Do It" Is Mildly Diverting with Good Chorus and Deft Lyrics.

HE DIDN'T WANT TO DO IT, a musical comedy in three acts, book and lyrics by George Broadhurst, music by Silvio Hein. At the Broadhurst.

Alexander McPherson	Ernest Torrence
O. Vivian Smith	Percy Ames
Washington Demming	Charles Meakins
The Detective	Ned A. Sparks
Manager of the Hotel	Alexander Frank
Walter	Robert O'Connor
Philip Rodgers	Joseph Wilmont
Paula Wainwright	Katherine Galloway
Marjorie Thompson	Helen Shipman
Norma Wallace	Adele Blood

"He Didn't Want to Do It" is the not altogether happy title of a musical comedy of the Princess type which had its first performance last night at the Broadhurst. Its book and lyrics are from the pen of the versatile George Broadhurst—made over from a farce which saw the light in London, but never in New York—and the tunes have been written by Silvio Hein. It proved to be a mildly diverting piece with a background of crooks and emeralds, but equipped with an exceptionally good-looking chorus attractively staged and vivaciously played.

For the most part there was a little too much plot, and at times it threatened to become, and did become, fearfully involved. Inasmuch as the complications never provoked any particularly hilarious merriment, it proved easier to let the story go on its way and pay attention to the girls and the dances. Thus, while the crook musical comedy is now hovering in the offing, it cannot be said definitely to have arrived. "He Didn't Want to Do It" makes a beginning, but it does not fill the bill.

Next to the girls, the best feature of the show is Mr. Broadhurst's lyrics, which are frequently adroit in the extreme. There is, for example, a song called "What Mother Used to Say to Me," a detective lyric called "Nothing Escapes Me," croaked by the lugubrious Ned Sparks, and a solemn ballad entitled "I'm Only a Girl from the City," sung with great seriousness by Ernest Torrence and Helen Pierre. Whether or not Miss Pierre was in on the joke is beside the question.

The plot picked up noticeably in the final act with the presence of Ned Sparks, who played a fake detective in his well-known down-in-the-mouth style. Ernest Torrence, the lengthy Scotchman of "The Only Girl," was somewhat less funny than in that earlier piece, due to the fact that he was compelled to depend largely upon grimacing in the absence of any real comedy material. Percy Ames, who seemed to be the person referred to in the title, was several times as amusing as the book gave him any right to be.

Katherine Galloway and Adele Blood were both attractive and capable; Helen Shipman achieved a minimum of humor with a maximum of effort, and Charles Meakins, Robert O'Connor and Alexander Frank did their respective bits. The three acts pass in a single interior—an attractive lounge room in a hotel on the Riviera. There are two or three tuneful numbers in the score, but none of them lingers long enough to get to the sidewalk.

PARIS SYMPHONY COMING.

French Government to Send Orchestra Here for War Relief Tour.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—The Paris Symphony Orchestra, under the auspices of the French Government, will give a number of concerts in leading American cities next Fall, it was announced here today. Arrangements for the tour were made by the French High Commissioner and the United States Government, acting on suggestion by the French Association for Musical Art of New York, which will supervise the tour.

The orchestra will arrive in New York in October and will give the first performance at the Metropolitan Opera House, and the second at Symphony Hall, this city, on Oct. 9. As the eighty-six members of the organization are professors in the National Conservatory, Paris, it was announced that this, their first trip abroad, would be limited to fifty performances, so that they may return to France before Jan. 1. All profits of the tour will be turned over for war relief purposes.

REPEAL SIX-CENT FARE.

Voters of Buffalo Upset Increase Proposed by City Council.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Aug. 20.—By a vite of 35,661 to 7,044 the people of Buffalo today repealed the ordinance of the City Council which would have permitted a six-cent fare on the street railways of the city. The six-cent fare had been urged by the Council as the only means of preventing a receivership for the International Railway Company and bringing about normal street car service in the city. Under the commission charter the action of the Council, which was in effect the suspension of the franchise agreement with the company so that the Public Service Commission might decide the justness of the six-cent fare, was subject to a referendum.

The International Railway Company has contended that it would be impossible to operate under the five-cent fare. The employes recently received a wage increase which brings their pay up from 33 to 42 cents an hour, and an additional increase, to be sanctioned by the War Labor Board, is in prospect. With the defeat of the six-cent-fare proposition it is expected that the company will withdraw its wage increase to the conductors and motormen, who have declared that they will strike in that event.

TRAVEL LESS, McADOO ASKS.

Poor Passenger Service Due to War Traffic Strain, He Says.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Overcrowded trains and unsatisfactory passenger service in some sections of the country are caused by the necessity of using many day coaches and sleeping cars for troop transportation, and by the heavy burden of handling war supplies, Director General McAdoo explained today in a statement to the public.

"Among the many patriotic duties of the American public at this time is the duty to refrain from traveling unnecessarily," said Mr. McAdoo, referring to the fact that decreased passenger traffic would release locomotives, track facilities, and employes for the more vital war freight movement.

D'ANNUNZIO BARS FETE.

Prefers Dropping Bombs to Eloquence in His Honor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — Gabriele d'Annunzio, who was invited to Rome to attend a celebration in his honor on account of his recent flight over Vienna, replied, according to a diplomatic telegram from Rome today, that military duty prevented, and that "three tons of explosives dropped on the enemy are more effective than three ounces of eloquence."

LONDON STRIKE GROWS.

More Women Workers on Underground Railway Are Out.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The ranks of the London omnibus and street car strikers were further reinforced this morning by more workers on the underground railways, where, however, a number of women are still working.

Yesterday's congestion on these systems was witnessed again today. More than 14,000 employes are on strike.

NEWS PRINT AT LOW EBB.

Stocks at Mills Smallest on Record, Trade Secretary Reports.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 20.—Stocks of news print paper on hand at the mills in the United States on Aug. 10 "were the lowest on record," according to the report of R. S. Kellogg, Secretary of the News Print Service Bureau of New York, at its quarterly meeting here today.

Production in Canada was slightly greater in the 1918 period than in 1917, Mr. Kellogg said, but the decreased production in the United States made the total amount of news print paper manufactured 3 per cent. less than last year, while the total mill stock on hand on July 31 was 41 per cent. less than that on hand in 1917.

J. A. B. Cowles of New York, who presided, referring to the fact that the United States Government had recognised the right of labor to organise, suggested the appointment of a committee of experts to advise individual manufacturers and help in adjusting the relationship between workers and employers.

War Training for Women
A Call to Service—Trained Woman Secretaries are needed to speed Government Work

One of the Government's great needs is for trained secretaries and statistical workers. To help supply them, Drexel Institute, in co-operation with the U. S. Civil Service Commission, has prepared special training courses.

Graduates of these courses will be eligible for certification to positions under Civil Service. The certificate of graduation will be the basis for rating; no further scholastic test will be required.

1. A four months' intensive course for High School graduates who are qualified in Stenography and Typewriting and have had one year's experience in business.
2. A one year's intensive course for college graduates. Specific technical and statistical secretarial training of high grade.

Drexel Institute's special war training courses for women have been approved by the United States Civil Service Commission.

Students who enter these courses will be at once in training for their country's service.

Uniform will be worn. Military regulations.

Enrollment will be limited and applicants carefully selected. As courses begin October 7, we urge you to write at once for complete Bulletin and enrollment blanks.

The nation needs you.

THREE MILLIONS ON THE BATTLEFRONT.

When he appeared before the House Military Affairs Committee on Monday Secretary BAKER said that there were "two ways of fighting this war": one to make every possible effort to "win quickly," the other "to proceed leisurely and win it late." It is submitted that if America adopts the second method of doing her share in the fighting the war may not be won at all. Those members of Congress who are in favor of extending the draft ages upward and not also downward, from a too tender consideration for young America or for recondite reasons, would have the Government proceed in a leisurely manner to prosecute the war, thus giving Germany all the time she wanted to find reinforcements in Russia and elsewhere for her armies. Those members of Congress who balk at strengthening our land forces to the figures urged by the General Staff, because it might not be necessary to use all the combatants thus made available, and other representatives of the people who would cast far into the future to fill the ranks, have not been sufficiently impressed with the importance of winning the war quickly. Really, the expression should be changed to "winning the war as quickly as we can."

While no one is infallible, reliance should be placed upon expert opinion. General MARCH, the Chief of Staff, calculates that with 3,000,000 American soldiers fighting on the western front in 1919 victory will be assured before the end of the year. It must be understood that these three millions are to be fighting men, none of them auxiliaries engaged in supplying the troops and caring for the wounded. Including the August draft under the present law, General MARCH estimates that the strength of the army on Aug. 1 was 3,012,112, as follows: American Expeditionary Force, exclusive of marines, 1,301,742; in the United States and insular possessions, 1,432,706; August draft, 277,664. To put 3,000,000 men actually on the fighting line in 1919 it would be necessary to make heavy additions to the present complement of 3,012,112. Never should the fact be overlooked that owing to steadily mounting casualties there are going to be gaps in the army that must be filled promptly. Great Britain lost 500,000 men in the battle of the Somme, which went on for four months. The United States may have a similar or a worse experience before the middle of next year. How can the country be sure that 3,000,000 of its fighting men will face the German battleline in 1919?

A memorandum prepared recently for the Chief of Staff proposed to lower the draft age to 19 and raise it to 40, but General CROWDER demonstrated that unless the range were from 18 to 45 the number of soldiers obtained would not be adequate. Hitherto the Provost Marshal General has been accurate in his analyses. He calculates that with the ages changed as he recommends, "something over "2,250,000 effectives would be obtained." If this number were added to the present strength of our armed forces, plus increments to come from the draft under the present law, the total would be not far from 5,500,000. A substantial margin over the three million men required for the western battlefront in 1919 would thus be assured, and the experience of both England and France, whose calculations have sometimes been at fault, tells us that reserves of 2,500,000 for all purposes at home and on all fronts would not be too great.

It is easy to misunderstand General MARCH's three millions, and, after juggling with figures and dates, make out a plausible case for proceeding in a leisurely manner with the conduct of the war, arguing that the young men of 18 to 19 would be superfluous—therefore, why call them out? The homely adage that it is better to be safe than to be sorry was never more in point than now. If America could insure the winning of the war quickly by not lowering the draft age below 20, how gratifying it would be! But the situation is much too grave to base our hopes upon such a presumption. In the years 18 and 19 there is a great reservoir of combatant man power. It cannot safely be neglected. The drafted youths of 18 could be left for the last call, for a supreme emergency, but they should be trained and ready. Before the Military Affairs Committees General CROWDER's figures—even he is liable to mistake—can be sifted over and over, and if any one shows that in order to have a fighting army of 3,000,000 men on the western front by midsummer, 1919, the youngsters of 18 need not be called on, well and good! But let it be understood that to "carry on" there must be no delay in putting the draft amendment law on the statute book.

SPAIN'S NOTE TO GERMANY.

Did Spain send to Berlin a note of sharp protest after the sinking of the steamship Larrinaga a few weeks ago? Because of Foreign Minister DATO's unexpected denial the evidence deserves to be considered. Spanish newspapers have been saying that he announced the dispatch of such a note on Aug. 8. They began on the 16th to publish the substance of it. Germany was reminded, they said, of what Spain had done for her in caring for refugees from the Kamerun and representing her interests in several belligerent countries. The persistent torpedoing of Spanish ships was called "a poor return" for these services. On the following day dispatches from Spain to London asserted that the note spoke of the Spanish Government's intention to replace ships so destroyed hereafter by taking an equal amount of tonnage from German shipping (about ninety steamers) interned in Spanish ports. Dispatches from Madrid on the 18th quoted opinions from the press that the note was equivalent to an ultimatum, owing to this threat of seizure. Foreign Minister DATO was at San Sebastian. A newspaper published there said it had been told about the threat by "a high political personage." In all the cities people were talking about the note. Pro-German papers were predicting civil war if the Government should insist upon its demands, which were supported by those favoring the Allies.

Then Foreign Minister DATO said there was no note. "It is impossible "to publish it, because it does not "exist." He also denied that Spain had protested against the torpedoing of the Serantes. But this ship, loaded with oil, suffered on account of explosions and fire while at anchor in New York Harbor. He carefully refrained from saying anything about the Larrinaga, sunk at sea by a German submarine. This was the offense, the latest of a long series, which, it is alleged, suggested the note and its threat.

It may be that the Spanish press and people have been misled and that Berlin has received no complaint from their Government. A note should have been sent, and it might well have contained the threat of confiscation. The Germans have sunk eighty-one Spanish ships. One was the Sardinero, carrying grain for Switzerland, a country to which Germany is indebted for much kind service. This assault upon Spanish tonnage has been marked by insults and murder. But Spain has not touched the ninety interned German steamships enjoying her hospitality in protected harbors. She would be justified in taking all of them, and also in demanding compensation for bloody labor revolts caused and promoted by German money. German influence for a long time prevented an expression of just resentment. The note, actual or imaginary, with its promise of punishment, was regarded as a sign that this influence had lost its power. But now the Government says the note does not exist. Perhaps this mystery will soon be cleared up.

INSURING BULGARIA'S LOYALTY.

The Bulgarian propagandists in Washington, some of them Bulgarians loyally serving their Czar, the Kaiser's ally, and some of them Americans who still believe, in spite of the evidence, that the Bulgarians are a blameless people inspired by American ideals through Robert College and American missionaries, are singing once more the old song. A dispatch from Washington yesterday afternoon represented Czar FERDINAND, now sojourning at a German health resort, as virtually a hostage in the hands of the Germans to insure Bulgaria's loyalty to her allies. FERDINAND and his people, these gentlemen have long been telling us, are anxious to change sides.

Well, if they feel that way about it, why do they not change sides? Our attitude of official friendship for Bulgaria gives them an easy approach to the Allies through America. It is pretty well established that last June a prominent Bulgarian business man who has influential friends in America and who is, incidentally, close to FERDINAND approached an American agent in Switzerland and talked peace. What terms did Mr. SHIPKOFF mention? And if his country was so anxious to come over to our side, why did it not come?

There are two answers. In the first place, Bulgaria went to war, under the leadership of this same Czar FERDINAND, for profit. She has got profit; not so much as she wants, but more than she could have expected when she went in. She holds today thousands of square miles of territory taken away from Serbia, Greece, and Rumania. She is doing her best to give these territories a "Bulgarian" population by the time the peace conference convenes; many of the Serbs, Greeks, and Rumanians have been massacred, others have been deported, others have been made to profess change of nationality under threat of death. This is stolen goods; will Bulgaria surrender it as a token of conversion? Not from any evidence so far at hand. The only Bulgarian party which has so far denounced the policy of conquest is the extreme wing of the Socialists, which has only 11 of the 245 delegates in the Parliament. The friction between Bulgaria and her allies is due almost wholly to the fact that, while she has got much, she wants more.

The second thing to be considered is the sincerity of these peace raids. Extracts from the Bulgarian press of only five or six weeks ago show no sign of any sincerity in them. Bulgaria is worried by the shortage of food and of the comforts of life; there has been profiteering, corruption among public officials; there have been heavy losses in battle. There is a certain amount of dissatisfaction, beyond doubt, with the German military and economic domination of the country; there is much more dissatisfaction with Germany's refusal to turn over to Bulgaria more of the land taken away from Rumania. But there is no sign of any willingness to change sides or give up conquered territory. The Mir, the paper of former Premier GUESHOFF, which has been the most vocal opposition organ, said on June 25: "The change of Ministry will "strengthen our relations with our "allies. It will prove that an alli-"ance with a party has become an "alliance with the whole Bulgarian "people. The hope of the Entente "has vanished."

With this in view, it may be profitable to consider whose interest is being served by this peace talk from Bulgaria. Is it not the same thing we had last year from Austria, an attempt to confuse and divide the Allies, to persuade our peoples that the war can be ended in some other way than by fighting? The community of interest between the two German monarchs, WILHELM and FERDINAND; the partnership between Germany and Bulgaria in profitable brigandage—these are guarantees of Bulgaria's loyalty to Germany.

HIS GREAT REFUSAL.

His Excellency Governor MCCALL of Massachusetts has issued a lovely, if solemn and touching, declination and farewell address. He won't be a candidate in the Republican primaries for Senator WEEKS's seat in the Senate. "It is most unlikely," writes the too-quick despairer, "I shall ever again "appear before the people of this "Commonwealth for their suffrages."

Mr. LODGE's present term in the Senate ends in 1923. Surely Mr. MCCALL can wait till then. He tells us that "Mr. HOAR once most earnestly ex-"pressed to me his wish that I should "succeed him in the Senate." If that succession of intellect and statesmanship didn't pass into the right hands in 1913, the more reason why Mr. MCCALL should inherit from another testator. The Senate must be improved. No sympathetic student of Mr. MCCALL's renunciation and valedictory can help wondering why Mr. WEEKS doesn't resign if the man has any bowels. And if Mr. WEEKS, as a son of wealth and the interests—see McCall "literature" passim—hasn't the fine feelings, Mr. LODGE, who has at least a delicate literary sense, will appreciate the passage, eloquent with modesty as with philosophy, in which the Governor enumerates his trophies:

> When I was pressed into the leadership of the party in the campaign four years ago, it was broken and distracted. In that contest I suffered the only defeat ever given me at the polls, but that defeat may be accounted a very real victory, for out of it sprang a reunited and militant party. Then followed my three successive elections, and in all the fast deepening difficulties that have surrounded the office I have received a steadily increasing support.
> And back of that there stands the superb loyalty of a great district for twenty years. I do not recount these things as showing merit in me, but rather the abounding kindness of the people. In my own behalf I can sincerely say I exercised the office for the benefit of no class, but in the interest of all. But it is better to regard with thankfulness the generous bounty one has received than strive too hard, and perhaps in vain, for what he has not. Contentment is very much. It surely is far better than a soured and crabbed and disappointed spirit.

His twenty years as Representative in Congress of the Eighth Massachusetts, the "Harvard College," District, won him a distinction in that body, a wide reputation in the country, the confidence and respect of conservatives, lovers of the Constitution, believers in the sound theory and practice of representative self-government, haters of old exploded revived notions and nostrums of "direct" democracy and government.

These days of his glory were Sauline days. The Pauline, the preterprogressive, MCCALL, the Governor who swallowed the strongest doses of "social justice" and State socialism, must be puzzled to recognize that earlier, that unconverted self, that thought, that judgment, those principles so dissonant with his present collection of policies. "It is reported on trustworthy authority," wrote the Boston correspondent of The Springfield Republican the other day, "that, before the "campaign is over, the Governor is "likely to be heard advocating the in-"itiative and referendum and other "progressive measures." Quantum mutatus from the MCCALL of 1910 and 1912!

Alas! there is to be no campaign. The papers are no sooner signed than torn up. "The great outstanding liberal leader of the people," as his manager calls him, won't be a candidate, because he would have to make a personal canvass, and that would be "repugnant to my inclination." So, with some Parthian arrows at "personal exploitation" and "the intervention of great organizations," the great outstanding liberal leader gives up the sponge.

The fact, mournful to all the virtuous, is that the Massachusetts Republicans are cold to the new MCCALL. Mr. WEEKS hasn't the sonority, the finish, the majestic pulchritude of Mr. MCCALL, but he knows finance. He knows the navy. He is a useful Senator. The methods of attack on him followed by the McCallians, a certain flavor of faint Bolshevism, a declared plutophoby, didn't take. Nor did Mr. MCCALL's spirit of sweet unison with Mr. WILSON strike otherwise than ironically those reactionary Yankee hardheads. It is a Republican Senator that they hope to elect.

It is all very sad, the sadder because Mr. MCCALL has laid himself nobly on the altar of prohibition. But a gentleman so mobile and adaptive will always find convictions to assimilate, hopes to nurse, and choice words to wrap them up in.

CAPITAL STOCK AND CAPITAL INVESTED.

Chairman KITCHIN has succeeded in frightening so many corporations into readjusting their "capital" to meet his excess profits tax proposal that the Internal Revenue Commissioner issues a formal warning against the practice. Commissioner ROPER says:

> The present excess profits tax is based upon returns from capital actually invested in the business, in the determination of which surplus and undivided profits are included. An increase in capital stock to cover these items does not result in an increased invested capital, and therefore will not change the status of the corporations with respect to the excess profits tax.

Interesting deductions follow from this ruling that earnings left in the property are investments of capital. As such they are taxable, but also they are entitled to profits. Those making war on business should be bound by this ruling to quote the rate of profits on the capital invested, and not on the shares issued. Profiteering may be charged on the basis of the dividends on capital shares, but the charges disappear—or are made to seem malicious—if the calculation is made on the capital invested, without which investment the service which earned the profits could not be performed. The Federal Trade Commission threw the coal trade into confusion by alleging profiteering, when the fact was that the coal profits were exceptionally low owing to the unorganized state of the bituminous part of the industry. Even now the hard coal trade is in better condition than the soft coal trade, because the anthracite "trust" is in so much more robust condition, and the industry is so much better disciplined, that the domestic supply is better than the industrial supply.

The commission was so far from being abashed by the coal trade fiasco that it makes similar charges against the meat packers, whose services in supplying meat at a moderate profit on the capital invested have been officially certified by authority more trusted than the commission. No doubt the packers' profits are large in total, although moderate in relation to capital, or to business done. But if the profits are to be denied in relation to the capital invested, and the trust is to be expected to work merely to pay excess profits tax, the price of meat is likely to be higher rather than lower. That is particularly likely if the Government takes over the business, raises wages and increases the number of employes. Meat-eaters will then find the price of meat in their tax bills as well as in their butchers' bills, and they would then prefer that the trust should have its profits calculated on investment, rather than on shares.

Representative BAER, the Non-Partisan League member from North Dakota, has made the commission's report the basis of a charge that the meat packers "menace the whole "livestock production of the country "by a control over the purchasing "markets which makes it almost "impossible for the farmers to raise "livestock." The fact is, as reported by the Agricultural Department, that the cows of the country have increased 3,000,000 since 1914, "other cattle" 8,000,000, and swine 12,500,000. It is true that population has increased faster than meat, and that the trust has gone to other continents to find meat to sell, while the prices paid to our own farmers have increased faster than their livestock. Perhaps the meat business "ought" to be done differently, but actually it is done in this way, and history abounds with instances of failure to teach morality to business by law. Commissioner ROPER furnishes another instance of the bad effects of the collision between business practice and statutory theory:

> An increase in the amount of capital stock outstanding to cover such items as good-will, value of patents, trade-marks, copyrights, &c., not previously capitalized, must, under the law, be excluded in determining the invested capital of a corporation under the excess profits tax law.

That would be all very well if those business essentials could be had without the investment of capital. They come high, and the profits to pay excess taxes on cannot be had without the investment of capital which is not to be allowed as a deduction under the law. The same is true of borrowed capital, and most business is done on credit. Congress even defied the Supreme Court on the distinction between capital and income, and made stock dividends taxable as income. It is defiance of business facts which drives business into defiance or evasion of the law. When the statutes succeed in bending business to the law, contrary to the facts, harm is done which the taxes do not compensate for, and the more surely so since more taxes can be had by more expert tax laying. When Congress finds itself confronted by conditions it does not conform to the conditions, but seeks to bend the facts to Mr. KITCHIN's theories and prejudices. Then Congress wonders why the administrators of the law are perplexed by the problems set them, and why business prefers the ways of the Secretary of the Treasury to the whimsies of the Ways and Means Committee, and commissions without number or prestige.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

This Is a New Kind of Captain.

Either the masters of merchantmen have strangely changed in recent years or else the one who told to the Navy Department officials in Washington of having seen a U-boat officer in a New York restaurant lacks the ability to take quick and decisive action which every member of his class has always been credited with possessing—the ability without which a man would seem to be out of place in command of even the humblest craft.

It is not, indeed, incredible, though highly improbable, that the Captain of a German submarine could and would land one of his subordinates on one of our innumerable lonely beaches, and not impossible that the man so landed could and would make his way to this centre of the sort of information needed in his business of pirate and assassin. Stories about the doing of just these things have been in circulation for months, always ascribed to innominative men who had been prisoners on submarines, and always they were said to have seen while there theatre seat checks and New York newspapers of very recent date. Never before, however, have these tales come with what is apparently the guarantee of the Navy Department, a fact which explains why this one is not dismissed as lightly as were its predecessors, in spite of its having a peculiarity more trying to faith than did even the least plausible of the others.

For in this instance we are asked to believe that an American sea Captain, after a period of captivity on a German submarine, not only would run across one of the submarine's officers in a place of public resort ashore, but would have to report that the man, when he saw that he had been recognized, "immediately disappeared." Now, if the submariners have acquired magical powers, and can evanish into thin air, with or without leaving sulphurous fumes behind them, then the failure of the American Captain to seize the one he saw can be understood. Otherwise, it is the deepest of mysteries to anybody who ever has had to do with our masters of ships.

Veracities Are of Two Kinds.

As an excuse for indulgence in seditious talk, intoxication is about the weakest that could be offered. The old Latin tag, "in vino veritas," has, of course, the element of inaccuracy to be found in all such generalizations, and yet, like all ancient sayings, that one has its measure of truth. To the modern psychologist, ascribing, as he does, much importance to the operations of the subconscious when relieved of its accustomed inhibitions and restrictions, the measure is a large one.

What a man says when under the influence of alcohol does not, indeed, reveal exactly what he is, for his acquired caution and wisdom are not less a part of his real personality than is the ego he reveals when a drug or sleep has deprived him of his appreciation of consequences. But he who, in a fit of drunkenness, exalts the Kaiser or utters threats against the American Government and its armies, does disclose sentiments that are actually his, so deep-seated in his mind as to be probably irremovable. He is not thus proved to be a traitor, but he certainly needs watching, for he may be one, and things done by him that in another man would be evidence of loyalty may be mere camouflage.

The subconscious always does tell the truth, and nothing but the truth. Its testimony is indecisive only because it does not tell the whole truth.

An Aviator Saved by a Parachute.

In an Associated Press dispatch sent by a correspondent with the British Army in France, and printed yesterday, it was stated that "a British pilot reports having seen a German pilot jump from a flaming airplane with a parachute and apparently escape death." That assertion will be read with eager attention by all of the many people who have a personal interest in the fate of aviators, and it will give new force to the question which some of them have been asking for a good while: "Why is it that airplanes are not equipped with parachutes?"

This interrogation has hitherto seemed presumptuous, when it came from those who knew little or nothing about aviation, its possibilities and its necessities, and most of them have been willing to assume at least the probability that if even a slight increment of safety could be given to the flying men by the utilization of this now ancient device it would have been done long ago. But that assumption, if the report just quoted is true, must be abandoned, and it would be worse than humiliating if the Germans have preceded not only ourselves, but all of our allies, in giving to their aviators a form of protection that seemingly ought to have suggested itself to the first makers of airplanes and to every one of their successors.

It is an everyday occurrence on all the battlefronts for the men in observation balloons—the so-called "sausages"—to descend by means of parachutes whenever those helpless craft are set on fire or even when they are attacked by more agile foes. Such descents, too, have frequently been made from British dirigibles, and presumably from those of other nations, and in both this country and abroad the practicability of reaching the ground safely from a moving airplane in this way has been demonstrated several times. It is true that only this week a man was killed in one of these attempts, but that was because the parachute did not open, and it proves nothing against the plan.

It is obvious that in some kinds of accidents aviators could not use a parachute, but it is not obvious why they could not do so in not a few cases, and anything to shorten even a little the long list of airplane fatalities is more than desirable.

PRESIDENTIAL INDORSEMENT

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest your editorial in the issue of the 12th on President Wilson's choice of candidates for Congress in certain Southern States. I frankly confess my inability to understand the rule by which the President picks and chooses candidates, as typified by his selection of Henry Ford, but the question I want to ask is, When is a Presidential indorsement not an indorsement? The Democrats of West Virginia nominated ex-Senator C. W. Watson as their candidate for United States Senator, Aug. 6, at a Statewide primary. His opponent was former Senator W. E. Chilton. Watson's friends were considerably elated over the fact that Governor Cornwell, the only Democrat elected to a State office two years ago and the first Democratic Governor in twenty-five years, had stated in a letter that he would vote for Colonel Watson. Then the Chilton managers countered by letting it be known that their candidate would produce "a real indorsement." A little later they published and circulated far and wide the following letter:

> The White House,
> Washington,
> June 27, 1918.
> My Dear Senator:
> I need hardly tell you with what genuine interest I read your letter of June 22d. You were indeed a true friend and a generous supporter throughout your term in the Senate and I want to express most warmly my sense of gratitude for your friendship and support.
> Your letter made me think very hard upon the question whether there was any avenue open to me through which I could express my personal interest in your candidacy, but I am blocked by circumstances which I am sure you will not need to have expounded to you. Again and again this question has presented itself to me and always I have been checked by the consciousness that intervention of any sort on my part, even so much as the appearance of an effort to pick and prefer a candidate, would produce the most embarrassing impressions and be met by justifiable resentment on the part of the constituency concerned, which would do more harm to my friend than my preference would do good. It is in this blind alley that I find myself and I am sure you will appreciate the situation with your usual intuition.
> Cordially and sincerely yours,
> WOODROW WILSON.
> Hon. W. E. Chilton, Charleston, W. Va.

The letter appeared in newspapers with the President's picture on one side of it and Mr. Chilton's picture on the other side, and in some instances with the headline announcement that "The President Wants Mr. Chilton. Will We Give Him What He Wants? We Have Given Him Our Money, Our Boys," &c.

Will THE TIMES tell us whether the letter was or was not a Presidential indorsement? Was it a private letter for public consumption, or was it a public letter cleverly camouflaged?

Italy Welcomes Czechoslovaks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

This office is in the receipt of official cables from Rome in which it is asserted that nearly all the Italian press applauds enthusiastically the British declaration of recognition of the Czechoslovak nation. Long editorials of Sig. Amendola in the Corriere della Sera, Deputy Agnelli in the Secolo, Sig. Benito Musolini in the Popolo d'Italia express the gratification of Italy for the action of Great Britain.

The above mentioned newspapers represent very different political opinions—Corriere della Sera, Liberal Conservative; Secolo, Radical; Popolo d'Italia, Socialist—and may therefore be taken as representing the whole of Italian public opinion.

This disposes of the assertion of the Austrian press that public opinion in Italy was contrary to Great Britain's decision.

Other Outlaws.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter of Mr. Levermore, in yesterday's TIMES, under the title of "The Outlaws," is all right as far as it goes, but why not include among those who deserve "condign punishment" the miserable creatures bearing the names of Bernstorff, Lenine, and Trotsky? They are all birds of a feather, and if these three could be added to those named in Mr. Levermore's letter, the world would be well rid of them, and they would prove fitting aids to Beelzebub.

A SOCK SONG.

Once on a time she made him socks—
Frivolous, fluffy things of blue
Or palest pink, with tiny loops
To pull the dainty ribbons through,
Humming a little song the while
Her fingers flew, so deft and fleet:
"Through all his life—where'er they go—
God keep the path of my baby's feet!"

But that was twenty years ago!
Today, she's knitting just the same—
Long woolen hose, for the son who's gone
To play his part in war's grim game—
And she prays her song, as her needles fly,
Fashioning socks for a warrior meet:
"God, where the dangers thickest be,
Guard safe the way of my soldier's feet!"

HOME FOR JEWISH SOLDIERS

New York Branch of Welfare Board Leases Park Avenue House.

Dr. Leon L. Watters, Chairman of the Executive Committee, announced yesterday the leasing of the house at 89 Park Avenue as the Headquarters' House of the New York Branch of the Jewish Welfare Board, and it is expected that the local offices of the board will be installed in the building and active work begun within the coming week.

The local board will undertake its share of the work of ministering to the wants of enlisted men and their relatives and friends. At the entrance an information bureau will be established, and on the upper floors reading, recreation and meeting rooms for men in the service and their friends. Light refreshments will be served at all times. Sleeping accommodations will be provided only in case of emergency, but arrangements are being made to house the men elsewhere, and it is expected that the Y. M. H. A. will immediately make provision for lodging. The formal opening of the house will take place in the Fall, at which time Abram I. Elkus will preside.

Announcement was also made of the rapid completion of plans for the hut, which will be erected in Seward Park on the lower east side, for which a permit has been issued by Mayor Hylan. This will provide facilities for a densely populated neighborhood, which has furnished an unusually large quota of soldiers.

Furloughs will be granted Jewish sailors for the observance of the high holy days, which fall on Sept. 7 and 8, and Sept. 14 and 15. A general order, issued by the Secretary of the Navy, has been received by Colonel Harry Cutler, Chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board.

A similar order has been issued by the War Department granting furloughs to Jewish soldiers in the army in this country, in the Philippines, Porto Rico, Panama and with the American Expeditionary Forces. The Jewish Welfare Board is arranging for special services in the camps, hospitals, guardhouse, and local branches of the board are planning to entertain visiting soldiers and sailors for the holy days.

STOP MUSCLE SHOALS WORK

War Department Decided Plant Couldn't Be Finished Before Peace.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Work on the great water power project on the Tennessee River at Muscle Shoals, Ala., has been ordered temporarily suspended by the War Department on representations from the War Industries Board that labor and materials used there are needed to meet immediate war demands.

It was learned today that the department issued this order, which will affect thousands of workmen, upon receiving the reply of the War Industries Board to a request that the Muscle Shoals project be placed on the list for priority as an essential undertaking. The board is understood to have held that, since several years would be required to complete the project, work on it should wait until it would not use labor and material demanded by industries contributing to the successful prosecution of the war.

Suspension of work on the power project will not affect the two nitrate plants under construction at Muscle Shoals, one of which is nearly completed. Arrangements already have been made with the Alabama Power Company to furnish power for the plants until the water power works are in operation.

'SKIP-STOP' PLAN APPROVED.

Street Railway Managers See Good in Fuel-Saving Scheme.

Public Service Commissioner F. J. H. Kracke said yesterday that the commission had given attention to the proposal of the National Fuel Administration to adopt the "skip-stop" plan for street railroad lines in New York on Sept. 15. Mr. Kracke pointed out that the problem here differed from that in most cities in that the trolley haul, particularly in lower Manhattan, was short, that few passengers rode long distances, and that street congestion obliged cars to stop not only at every corner, but in the middle of each block.

Mr. Kracke said the great success of the "skip-stop" plan in Washington was due to the excellent co-operation given by the police in preventing all cross currents of traffic and in directing vehicle traffic in the same direction as the cars were running.

The commission has communicated with the managers of the several street railroad lines, who, as far as heard from, have generally indicated approval of the plan.

SAYS BRAZIL IS PROSPEROUS

Capt. Montgolfier, Recovered, Is on His Way Back to France.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Aug. 20.—Captain Ernest Montgolfier, Director General of the French Bank at Rio de Janeiro, arrived today on his way back to France, after spending six months in Brazil recuperating from his wounds. He wore the uniform of a Captain in the French Army and the French War Cross on his breast, with two gold stripes for wounds in action on his sleeve.

The Captain said that banking conditions in Brazil were good and that the country was prosperous. With regard to trade after the war he added that the business people were not very sentimental. If the United States went after trade there she would have to arrange the same kind of credit system that Germany put into force before the war. The Brazilians, he said, were enthusiastically in favor of the Allies.

BANK NOTE PROFITS GROW.

Report Shows $594,404 for Six Months Ended June 30.

The American Bank Note Company had an operating profit of $594,404 in the six months ended June 30, excluding the returns made by the British subsidiary. The extent of the business and income in the period was emphasized when the report was issued yesterday through comparison with the full year of 1917, which brought a profit of no more than $782,327 from operations. The income from all sources in the half year amounted to $661,353 and the balance available for dividends was $570,864, compared with $734,053 in all of the preceding year.

The dividend balance was equal to $3.84 a share of common stock, after allowing for the preferred stock payments. The half year's surplus was $301,123 and the total surplus on June 30 was $2,133,066.

THE ST. PAUL RISING SLOWLY

Ship May Be Ready to Go Back to Dry Dock by Labor Day.

The work of raising the American liner St. Paul from her bed in the mud of the Hudson, between Piers 60 and 61, is proceeding, and the wrecking people speak of having her up and sent over to Robbin's Dry Dock by Labor Day. The building of the coffer dam round the vessel is under way, and those in charge hope to start pumping out the water next Monday.

The St. Paul has still to be turned about 25 degrees to starboard before she reaches an even keel. As the cables can no longer get a purchase on the ship, the remainder of the work of floating her will have to be done by pumping.

Wilson Returns from Outing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—President Wilson returned to Washington this morning after his brief vacation on the Massachusetts coast. The special train carrying the party arrived at 8:36 A. M. The President and Mrs. Wilson went immediately to the White House.

COURT CUTS TRAVIS OFF PRIMARY TICKET

Justice Cropsey Holds That Signatures to Petition Were Not Properly Witnessed.

CANDIDATE TAKES APPEAL

Socialist Candidates Face Difficulties Due to Errors in Preparing Petitions.

Supreme Court Justice Cropsey in Brooklyn yesterday ordered the petition filed on behalf of State Controller Eugene M. Travis, candidate for renomination in the Republican primaries, stricken from the files. The Controller announced that he would appeal, and that he expected a decision from the Appellate Division which would allow his name to go before the voters on Sept. 3. Should the Appellate Division uphold Justice Cropsey, Travis will stay in the race, but his supporters must either write in his name or affix printed "pasters" to the ballot. With the Travis decision the Justice also invalidated the petitions of Samuel Fraser of Geneseo, candidate on the Bennett ticket, leaving John Kissel of Brooklyn the only contender in the race for the Controllership in the Republican primaries. Under the decision Travis also loses his place on the ballot of the Prohibition Party.

A candidate for State Controller must have at least 3,000 properly witnessed signatures to his primary petition. Between 60,000 and 70,000 names were signed to the Travis petition, but Kissel attacked it on the ground that notaries public in certain counties, outside of Albany County, wherein the petition was filed, had failed to attach County Clerks' certificates attesting to their right to act in such capacity. Under the court's ruling only 700 of the signatures, all obtained in Albany County, where notaries' certificates were not required, are valid.

"I am, of course, greatly surprised at the decision," said Controller Travis. "An appeal will be taken at once, and I have no fear of the outcome. My petitions are in the same form as those of 1914 and 1916, and exactly the same as those of all other candidates in the State."

Politicians contended yesterday that the Justice's decision opens the door for an attack on the petitions of Governor Whitman and Attorney General Lewis and other candidates, but it was pointed out that the election law allows three days after Aug. 6, the time for filing petitions, for protests to be made, and as no protests were lodged with the court within the specified time the statute of limitations has run, and the other candidates are now secure.

Justice Cropsey also authorized William F. Thompson, Deputy Fire Commissioner of Brooklyn, to place his name on the official ballot at the primaries as a candidate for Democratic State Committeeman of the Sixth Assembly District. Opposition was made to Thompson's name on the ground that he had not stated in his petition his business address.

The court found that, as he had no official business address, the contention was frivolous.

There is a possibility that a number of Socialist candidates in Brooklyn may find difficulty in going into the primaries, because of alleged faults in their petitions. S. S. Schwartz, counsel for the Socialist Party leaders, asked Justice Lazansky for an order correcting petitions intended to designate a number of party candidates. It was said that hundreds of Socialists signed petitions for "Justice of the Supreme Court, Kings County," when they already had signed petitions for Justice of the Supreme Court, Second Judicial District. It was contended that the second petitions were meant to nominate candidates for County Court, and that through inadvertence the petitions said Supreme Court.

ASKS WHITMAN TO EXPLAIN.

Attorney General Lewis Says Many Names Are Added to Payroll.

Attorney General Merton E. Lewis yesterday accused Governor Whitman of adding many names to the payroll of the State of men who, he said he had been informed, were being paid from appropriations made for war defense purposes. The appointments, he charged, were made by the Governor, or by his direction, for the purpose of aiding him in his efforts to obtain the nomination for a third term.

"I make no charge of improper use of public funds," he said, "for partisan purposes. I have the names, however, of several of these appointees and am led to believe that there is some ground for the charges which have been made to me. Under the circumstances I feel justified in calling upon the Governor to give instructions immediately to his subordinates to prepare and submit for public consideration a list of all appointments made since May 15, with the character of the duties of such appointees and a statement of the salaries which such appointees are drawing from the treasury of the State."

Mr. Lewis made a plea yesterday for the nomination of Alfred L. Becker for Attorney General to succeed himself. The Governor's candidate, Charles D. Newton, Mr. Lewis believes, will be friendly to William R. Hearst, if elected. Mr. Lewis has been invited to speak at the Frank Dostal Republican Club of the 8th Assembly District at 100 East 4th Street next Tuesday evening. He is also scheduled to speak at the clubhouse of County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig tonight.

MILAN HAILS AMERICANS.

Enthusiastic Reception of Delegation of Social Democratic League.

MILAN, Italy, Aug. 19.—Members of the Social Democratic League delegation from the United States visiting European countries had an enthusiastic reception here today. Manifestoes were distributed in the streets urging workmen to give a brotherly welcome to the delegation.

The American mission visited a number of factories and attended a mass meeting of members of the Socialist, Republican and Irredentist Associations favorable to the war. John Spargo, Charles E. Russell and A. M. Simons, of the American delegation, explained why virtually all American Socialists were united to defeat German militarism.

BIG ENGLISH GRAIN CROP.

Soldiers, Prisoners, and Volunteer Workers Help in Harvest.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—England's grain crop this year will be the biggest since 1868, Sir Charles Fielding, Director General of Food Production, informs The Daily Mail.

Several thousand soldiers are working on farms. Other harvesters include schoolboys, college students, Boy Scouts, village and college women, and girls of the land army, Belgian and Serbian refugees, and German prisoners. City clerks are spending their vacations on farms.

BRITISH IMPORTS GAIN.

July Total $95,335,000 More Than Corresponding Month of 1917.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The British Board of Trade returns for July show imports of £109,192,000, (about $545,960,000,) an increase of £19,067,000, (about $95,335,000,) compared with the figures of the corresponding month in 1917. The principal differences in imports were a decrease in grain of £14,130,000, an increase of meat of £8,293,000 and an increase in raw cotton of £6,723,000.

The exports totaled £43,844,000. This was a decrease of £6,180,000, chiefly in manufactured articles.

ASK FOR EXEMPTION OF NEW YORK POLICE

Merchants' Association Tells Congress of the Danger of Further Draft Depletion.

SEES MENACE TO NATION

Reserve Force Also Drained to the Army—Department Heads Move to Attract Recruits.

Because the New York Police Department is in danger of being impaired by the draft, in spite of the fact that the New York Police Reserves have been built up into a strong anad efficient organization, the Merchants' Association sent an appeal yesterday to the Military Committees of the House and Senate, and to General Crowder, asking that the New York police be exempted in the new draft legislation.

"Under the operation of the proposed draft law," the letter says, "the great majority of those now remaining in active service on the police force will be called to serve in the military forces. We respectfully urge you to consider the inclusion in this law of a provision for the exemption of the police officers of this city. Our request is not based upon mere local selfish motives, but, instead, is founded upon the urgent needs of the whole country. Calamities of fearful consequence to the whole country might very easily happen in this city if its highly trained and thoroughly efficient policemen are further depleted in this manner."

Because the police strength of the city is being rapidly reduced to the danger point, and the new draft would reduce the force to a mere skeleton, Police Commissioner Enright is making every effort to increase the strength of the Police Reserve, both in numbers and equipment. This task is made difficult because the reserve, as well as the department itself, is being drained by the draft.

The greatest event of the campaign now planned to strengthen the reserve, both in men and money, will be the police exhibition and concert next Saturday afternoon at Sheepshead Bay Speedway under the direction of Police Inspector Dwyer, in charge of the reserves. More than 1,000 men, including many of the Police Reserves, will take part in a battle of blank cartridges, one of the strategic features of which will be a cavalry charge on trenches. Forty-two army airplanes will take part in the exhibition.

Money is greatly needed for the equipment of the reserve, because, being a volunteer and unofficial body, it is maintained at the expense of the members with the help of a few outsiders. Most of the present members have bought their own uniforms and equipment. Recruits are wanted as much as equipment, as Commissioner Enright is making an appeal to men not immediately subject to the draft to enter the reserve and keep its ranks full.

There are 9,600 men and 5,000 women in the reserve at present. They are all serving without pay, and they are called upon to do police work for one period of four hours a week at least to maintain their standing in the reserve. The police duty of the men of the reserve is done usually at night or at parades and gatherings in the daytime. One of the most importants works done by the women in the organization has been enforcing the food regulations and other Government regulations. The average time each week given by each member of the reserve is considerably more than four hours. The total number of hours each week put in by the reserve is equivalent to the time of 1,200 policemen on regular duty.

One member of the reserve, who is a well-known banker, patrols a beat for four hours a night, five nights a week. A number of prominent New Yorkers are among those acting as voluntary policemen. One of these is General T. Coleman du Pont, a civil war veteran and one of the wealthiest men in the United States, who has been serving regularly until a short time ago, when he applied for a leave of absence to enable him to go out of the city on a vacation. George B. Cortelyou, President of the Consolidated Gas Company, is another member of the reserve. E. F. Albee and Henry J. Savage do regular tours of duty.

VOTE A PAPER STRIKE.

200 Dealers Want the Wholesale Price Cut to $1.20 a Hundred.

Two hundred newsdealers, representing dealers in all boroughs, voted last night at a meeting at Beethoven Hall to strike, beginning this afternoon, against all newspapers charging $1.40 a hundred copies to the newsdealers, the price agreed upon by newsdealers and publishers after the last strike.

Some of the dealers called for a strike, beginning tomorrow morning, but this was not favored because the dealers had already ordered their copies of the morning newspapers. When a standing vote was taken only four or five dealers failed to rise to indicate that they favored the strike. Several speakers urged that the proposed strike continue until the $1.40 a hundred price was cut to $1.20.

All the papers in the city up to the present time have been charging $1.40 a hundred copies at wholesale.

MRS. SELIGMAN IN CRASH.

She and Her Party Narrowly Escape Death in Auto Collision.

Special to The New York Times.

PROFILE HOUSE, N. H., Aug. 20.—Mrs. S. Seligman and party of New York, who are spending the Summer at the Waumbek, Jefferson, in motoring to the Profile House over the State road today were struck by a large touring car coming from the opposite direction, and had a narrow escape from death.

They were forced to abandon their car, which was badly smashed, and returned to Jefferson.

Lieut. Lewis Marries Miss Graham.

The wedding of Lieutenant Mays Livingston Lewis, U. S. N., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Randolph Lewis of Amite City, La., and Miss Catherine Acosta Graham, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Graham of 40 West Ninety-third Street, took place at 8 o'clock last evening in St. George's Church, Flushing, L. I., the Rev. Morgan L. Griffith, curate of the church, officiating. The wedding was planned for next month, but war conditions hurried it. The bride had Miss Suzanne Colby of New York as her maid of honor, and Lieutenant A. M. McCutcheon, U. S. N. R. F., was the best man.

SHAVES TO BE 25 CENTS, HAIRCUTS 50 CENTS

Master Barbers Adopt New Scale of Prices for Patrons and Wages for Employes.

Leading barbers of the city met at the Waldorf last night and formulated a new scale of prices to become effective next Monday and also agreed on the salary to be paid to the barber. The following prices will be charged in hotels:

Shave, 25 cents; haircut, 50 cents; shampoo, 50 cents; beard trimmed, 50 cents; oil shampoo, 80 cents; hair singe, 50 cents; face massage, 50 cents.

The following price list will be followed in first-class barber shaps: Shave, 20c; haircut, 40 cents; shampoo, 40 cents; beard trimmed, 40 cents; oil shampoo, 50 cents; singe, 40 cents.

The barbers in hotels are to receive $16 a week, and 25 per cent. commission over $30 that they take in. In first-class barber shops the barbers will receive $15 a week, and a commission of 35 per cent. over $30 that they make for the proprietor.

Dollar Haircuts Suggested.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—One dollar for a hair cut and 50 cents for a shave will be the standard price if barbers accept the suggestion of the Barber Supply Dealers' Association, a national organization which is meeting here.

CALLS IN ALL YARNS.

Government Warns Small Dealers to Report Their Stocks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The War Industries Board today issued a warning note to many small merchants throughout the country, not listed in trade organizations, who have failed to report their stocks of hand-knitting yarns.

The board served notice Aug. 12 on spinners of hand-knitting yarns that, because of the needs of the military forces, no more woolen or worsted hand-knitting yarns might be manufactured until further notice. At the same time reports were required as to stocks of yarns and wool on hand and contracts being filled.

Bessemer Unit Lost Heavily.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 20.—Casualties of the most severe nature were suffered by Company D, the Bessemer Unit of the 167th Infantry, Rainbow Division, in the fighting which accompanied the wiping out of the Soissons-Rheims salient, according to a letter received from Captain Lacy Edmondson by his wife. Twenty-five members of the company were killed, about 100 were wounded and several, including Captain Edmondson, were gassed. Only about seventy-five men were left in the company.

FREE 23 SUFFRAGISTS AFTER SIX-DAY FAST

National Woman's Party Asserts That Action Was Taken on Order of Government.

KEPT UP HUNGER STRIKE

Statement Says Five "Suffered Acutely"—Were Sentenced to Serve 10 to 15 Days.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—After six days of hunger striking, twenty-three woman suffragists, arrested last week and sentenced to terms of from ten to fifteen days, were released today from Occoquan jail. The Government, according to an announcement of the National Woman's Party, ordered their unconditional release.

Miss Katherine Fisher of New York, Miss Julia Berry of Baltimore, Mrs. Lawrence Lewis of Philadelphia, Miss Gertrude Crocker of Chicago, and Miss Hazel Hunkins of Billings, Mont., were said by the Woman's Party to be "suffering acutely." Mrs. Helena Weed of Norwalk, Conn., could not sleep for three nights, she said, because of a severe attack of rheumatism.

"We have won our fight for the right to protest at the failure of the Government to act on the suffrage amendment," said Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the National Woman's Party, tonight. She was one of those who went to jail and it was said she was extremely weak when she arrived at the National Headquarters.

The twenty-three suffragists released today were: Miss Alice Kimball, New York; Miss Lucy Burns, Brooklyn; Miss Edith Alings, Jamestown, N. Y.; Miss Alice Paul, Morristown, N. J.; Miss Clara Wold, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Lawrence Lewis, Philadelphia; Miss Lavinia Dock, Fayetteville, Pa.; Miss Kate Heffelfinger, Shamokin, Pa.; Miss Mary Winsor, Haverford, Pa.; Mrs. Agnes Chase, Washington, D. C.; Miss Katherine Fisher, Mrs. H. Weed, and Miss Elsie Hill, Norwalk, Conn.; Mrs. George Koenig and Miss Edna Purtell, Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. Annie Arneil, Wilmington, Del.; Miss Gertrude Crocker, Chicago; Mrs. Effie Boutwell Main, Topeka, Kan.; Miss Julia Emory, Dr. Anna Kuhn, and Miss Gladys Greiner, Baltimore; Mrs. Irving Gross, Boston, and Miss Hazel Hunkins, Billings, Mont.

Several of those released had served previous terms in Occoquan jail following picketing disturbances at the White House gates.

COL. WILLIAM H. KIPP DIES FROM APOPLEXY

Chief Clerk of Police Department for 34 years and 7th Regiment Veteran Was 71.

Colonel William Halstead Kipp, 71 years old, for almost thirty-four years Chief Clerk of the Police Department, died suddenly from apoplexy at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 20 West 121st Street.

Colonel Kipp was born on Manhattan Island, where his family had lived since the days of Henry Hudson, and was a son of Quinby Kipp, a wagonmaker. When he was 23 years old he enlisted in the 7th Regiment as a private and served with this regiment throughout the civil war and rose through all grades to Colonel of the regiment. Closing his fifty years as a soldier, Colonel Kipp reviewed the 7th Regiment at the armory on the night of Jan. 20, 1908. He was breveted a Brigadier General by Governor Hughes about the time of his retirement.

On Aug. 6, 1873, Colonel Kipp was appointed deputy clerk of the Police Department, in which position he served until Nov. 24, 1884, when he was made chief clerk, remaining in this place until his death.

Hughey Dougherty, Old Minstrel.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Hughey Dougherty, the veteran minstrel, died tonight at the Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane. He was 75 years old and had been an inmate of the institution for about two years.

CALLS WOMEN TO FARMS.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 20.—A campaign to obtain recruits for the New York State Women's Land Army to assist the farmers in caring for and harvesting their crops, this season, opened here today at a two days' conference of the organization.

Besides an address of welcome by Governor Whitman and addresses by John G. Curtis, farm bureau manager of Westchester County Miss Sophie Carey, representing the National Land Council of England, and others, the feature of today's gathering was a visit to a nearby farming community, where a practical demonstration was given of the work being done there by women.

"The time has come when American women must feed the world," said Miss Carey. "There is no task a British or French woman finds too hard or too menial on the land, and many farms are now entirely run by women with no men to control or supervise in any way. Today the land armies are probably the most popular form of work in which a woman can join. Perhaps living so near the battle line we realize more how invaluable the work is; perhaps seeing more of the splendid self-sacrifice of the men on the battlefield, it is a pleasure to have the opportunity to throw ourselves into more laborious tasks."

HOUSE COMMITTEE AMENDS DRAFT BILL

tary Baker is authority for his department. When asked by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs what he thought of the amendment, he said, 'I think it is unfortunate to add that.'

"It is therefore a fact that the Government is not exercised over the industrial situation. But some one is. He is hidden somewhere in the dark, engineering a movement to conscript labor. When the war was declared, the workers of the nation willingly fell into line, ready to go where needed to save the country for the world and the world for democracy. It is the same democracy we are fighting for in protesting vigorously against this amendment.

Government as a Strikebreaker.

"Notwithstanding the peaceful industrial conditions, it is now proposed to cast odium on loyal workmen, who, while kept from the front against their will, desire to earn a sufficient wage to keep themselves and families above the poverty line. The men who conceived this deceptive method of conscripting labor regard is as a punishment, believing the working people, like themselves, are anxious to keep out of war. But it will not be a punishment, it will be a curse against labor, against which labor will eternally protest.

"Assuming this law is enacted and carried out to the letter, and 2,000 mechanics in a war plant strike, what then? How can their places be filled? Will the Government become a strikebreaking agency, using the soldiers who seek to save democracy to defeat workingmen who are also fighting for democracy in the industrial field? If soldiers are not used, where will the strikebreakers be found?

"Is the Colorado Fuel Company and the great steel trust behind this legislation? The employes of the Steel Trust are organizing. A few days ago employes of this trust at Elwood, Ind., asked the corporation to leave the question of wages to the National War Labor Board. The trust refused. If they strike, what will be their status under this law? The employes of the trusts throughout the country are organizing. Is this amendment intended to frighten those employes into the belief that if they strike they will be sent to France? Hardly one of them but believes he will be better off in the trenches than in the steel plant, where he is notoriously overworked and underpaid. But the conspirators do not believe this, hence conscription.

Accuses War Profiteers.

"We have no hesitation in declaring that conscription of labor in this covert way will be met with suspicion in every corner of the country. The Government has not asked for it. Its representatives say things are moving satisfactorily, so far as labor is concerned. There is not a whisper from any Government official that conscription is needed. Then who does come here by stealth and ask the representatives of the people to do something the Government does not ask and does not want? That is the question which millions of workingmen will ask, and they believe they know the answer.

"We do not ask for favors. We ask that this and any other bill to surreptitiously conscript labor be defeated. Drag out the conspirators from behind conscription, and you will find that they are the most prolific war profiteers in the United States. Today, if that amendment is enacted into law, it will be used by unfair profiteers against labor. It is being used by the Bethlehem Steel and other corporations. They ask for exemption for their men, and, if the man receiving exemption protest against conditions, they are threatened with being sent to fight.

"Secretary Baker and General Crowder said it was not conscription of labor, and I agree with them," said Representative Harrison of Virginia.

Mr. Morrison insisted that the amendment was conscription of labor, pure and simple. He said that if a man worked only three days a week in an industry where his services were needed six days a week he was unpatriotic and should not have industrial exemption.

Magnitude of the Registration.

Distribution of the printed forms required for the registration of the men affected by the proposed act has been started by Provost Marshal General Crowder. The preparation and distribution of these forms, with the necessary equipment, constitutes probably the largest task of the kind ever undertaken by the Government. Sixteen of the largest envelope manufacturers in the country are working night and day turning out the 35,000,000 envelopes needed by local boards to send out the questionnaores to registrants and by registrants to return them to the boards.

Race to Complete the Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20, (Associated Press.)—Both Senate and House will begin consideration of the Manpower Bill next Thursday, under plans completed late today, in a race to complete the legislation as soon as possible. An agreement with Speaker Clark and with Representative Sims in charge of the pending Waterpower Bill, to give the Manpower measure right of way in the House Thursday was secured today by Chairman Dent, who believes the Draft Bill can be passed in a single day. Passage of the bill by the House Thursday and by the Senate by Saturday is planned by leaders.

Scores of protests against "work or fight" amendment are reaching members of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs. Within the last two days Chairman Chamberlain has received telegrams from practically every State Federation of Labor throughout the country, as well as from officials of international unions, urging elimination of the provision. One of the most vigorous protests came from Frank J. Hayes, President, and other officials of the United Mine Workers.

Mr. Chamberlain said he would present the telegrams in the Senate Thursday.

Speaking in the House today, Representative Johnson of Washington opposed drafting men as young as eighteen years. He said he hoped to see the House adopt an amendment placing the minimum age at twenty years.

PREPARING TO REGISTER ALL BETWEEN 18 AND 45

New York Legal Advisory Boards Discuss Plans for Great Day's Work on Sept. 5.

In anticipation of the new selective draft law a meeting of members of the legal advisory boards of New York, at which the problems which will confront those boards as a result of the registration of all men between the ages of 18 and 45 years were discussed, was held at the office of Henry W. Taft, Chairman of the Permanent Legal Advisory Board for New York City, 40 Wall Street, yesterday afternoon. Owing to the expectation that more than 800,000 men will register on Sept. 5 next, the date tentatively selected for the registration, the selective draft boards, the legal boards, and the medical advisory boards are confronted with the greatest task that has arisen since the first draft law was passed.

Thousands of registrars will be needed on registration day, and Mr. Taft has notified the members of the 189 district legal advisory boards that their services will probably be required along with those of hundreds of other patriotic citizens.

The following request was mailed by the Permanent Committee to all members of district committees yesterday.

> The permanent members request each Chairman of a local law board to communicate at once with his associates and to obtain as soon as possible a statement of those who will be available to act as registrars on registration day, and to send the statement to the permanent members within one week from the date of this letter. The statement should contain the name of each available member, his mail address, his residence, and if possible the number of the local exemption board having jurisdiction over his residence.
> The permanent members further request the local law boards, under the leadership of their Chairmen, to advise and co-operate with the local exemption boards in obtaining registrars and in preparing and making adequate arrangements for the registration. Reports of progress should from time to time be made to the permanent members.
> In the opinion of the permanent members there is no more important war work than facilitating this registration, as it is to be the basis upon which the National Army is raised.

It is stated that the arrangements for the registration, which are tentative, calls for the registration of all men subject to the law, which is expected to be enacted before Sept. 1, between the hours of 7 A. M. and 9 P. M., on Sept. 5.

The instructions which will govern the registration are now being prepared in the office of Provost Marshal General Crowder in Washington and are expected to reach New York within ten days. The places of registration which are now being selected, it was said yesterday, will probably be announced in the newspapers a week from next Sunday.

158,000 SHOULD REGISTER.

Estimates of Men Reaching 21 Years Since June 5 Last.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Revised estimates announced today by the Provost Marshal General show that 158,000 young men who have become 21 since last June 5 should register for military service next Saturday. REV. DR. W. K. FRICK DEAD.

Secretary of General Council of Lutheran Church of America.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 20.—The Rev. Dr. W. K. Frick, English Secretary of the General Council of the Lutheran Church of America, died here today of heart disease. The Rev. Frick was known as "the Bishop of Wisconsin."

Dr. Frick was born in Lancaster, Penn., Feb. 1, 1850. He was ordained in 1873, his first pastorate being the St. Paul's Church, Philadelphia, where he served from 1873 to 1883. For the succeeding six years he was Professor of English in Gustavus Adolphus College, Minnesota.

Dr. Frick was the founder of the English Lutheran Church in Wisconsin and the first pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Milwaukee, Wis.

H. G. Westlake, Sing Sing Officer.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Henry G. Westlake, aged 75, who admitted and discharged several thousand prisoners while employed at Sing Sing Prison for forty-three years, died today at his home here. He was "receiving officer" for forty years, and was personally known by most of the criminals of New York's underworld. He took the pedigree of all prisoners, including Dr. Carlisle Harris, Albert T. Patrick, Charles Becker and all other celebrities who were received between 1878 and 1918.

Dr. William A. Shedd.

The death of Dr. William A. Shedd, who has been in charge of refugee work in the Lake Urumia district of Southern Persia, was announced in a cablegram yesterday to the American Committee of Armenian and Syrian Relief. He died of cholera at Sain Kalah on Aug. 7. Dr. Shedd was a member of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions and brother-in-law of President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford University.

Ex-Gov. Prouty's Funeral Tomorrow

NEWPORT, Vt., Aug. 20.—The funeral of former Governor George H. Prouty, who was killed in an automobile accident near Waterville, Quebec, yesterday, will be held Thursday at 2:30 P. M. at the Congregational Church here. This public service will be preceded by a private service at the family residence. Both services will be conducted by the Rev. L. A. Edwards, pastor of the church.

When the Office Boy is President

SOME companies—some men—are in business to stay—others are "fly-by-nights" or temporary hangers-on. If, in your business, you are building for permanence—for stability, don't handicap your efforts by letting your equipment give every visitor a wrong impression.

Van Dorn Steel Office Furniture

in an office spells permanence, progress and prosperity. Buy it today and "when the office boy is president" it will still be on-the-job. Wear-and-tear and age can't wreck it—depreciation is slight.

Van Dorn Steel Office Equipment includes files, safes, desks, chairs, tables, units and wide sections, omnibuses, waste baskets, desk trays and files, lockers and shelving.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Through Wider Range on Moderate Dealings—Specialties Move Up.

Though underlying conditions affecting the prices of stocks, conditions which are comprehended in the average trader's mind just now by the efforts to write a new revenue bill and the close watch kept on the money market by bankers, did not change materially yesterday, the stock market proved more vigorous than has been the case for some days past. A demonstration was made in several of the higher-priced issues by professionals, who soon discovered that it was one thing to bring about an advance with a little judicious buying and quite another to realise on the higher prices thus obtained. General Motors was easily pushed up to a new high price for the year, and closed near the top with a net advance of 2⅝. Canadian Pacific advanced sharply, and though it lost more than a point on realizing sales closed the day 2⅝ points higher also.

Wall Street has again become interested in the possibilities of an extra distribution which it is hoped may result from the sale of the International Mercantile Marine's British holdings, and trading in that issue attracted a good deal of attention. It was rumored yesterday that the company might go through liquidation, but inquiries failed to bring any supporting evidence of such a plan. It is the general understanding in the financial district that the terms of sale were long ago settled, and that the Directors have since been trying, with poor success, to devise a way in which the stockholders might realize on the sale without making the profit on the transaction subject to the extremely heavy call of the income tax.

Steel was comparatively quiet, but firm. With many other stocks which had been gaining in strength as the day wore on it weakened easily in the last half hour, dropping from ¾ to ⅝ on a few sales. American Telephone & Telegraph was in better favor than at any time since the announcement of the Government's plans for taking over the wire systems. The efforts of the Postmaster General to bring all of the independent and competing companies into the telephone family, coupled with the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend, brought about a spirited buying movement.

Wealthy investors are heavy buyers of tax-exempt issues. The Liberty 3½s made still another new high record by selling up to 101.14, while the farm loan bonds sold above 104. Marine 6s approached par on buying based on the expectation that the issue will be called to complete the sale of the British ships.

LONDON EXCHANGE QUIET.

Russian Mines Stronger Upon Reports of Bolshevik Losses.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—There was a smaller volume of business on the Stock Exchange today, but the success of the London issue of the Commonwealth loan stiffened gilt-edged securities. Scandinavian shares were firmer in response to the exchange movement. Japanese issues were dull, while Russian funds were more than a point down.

In the Russian mining group there was a hardening tendency, due to the statement that developments have placed the principal Ural mines outside the zone of Bolshevist influence. Rubber shares were heavy, the news of the rubber position in Malaya creating extreme anxiety.

The money market was quiet and easy. The price of silver was unchanged.

Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Trading was active on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 62 francs 70 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 26 francs 99 centimes. Five per cent. loan, 87 francs 75 centimes.

APPROVE CURTAILED CREDIT.

Clearing House Committee Upholds Policy of Reserve Board.

Approval of the policy of the Federal Reserve Board in advising banks throughout the country to conserve credit is expressed in the following resolution adopted Monday by the Clearing House Committee of the New York Clearing House Association:

"The Clearing House Committee is in entire sympathy with the suggestion of the Federal Reserve Board as to the general necessity for the conservation of credit, and commends its suggestion to the earnest consideration of the business public."

More than six weeks ago the Federal Reserve Board in Washington addressed a letter to all banks and trust companies in the United States requesting them to exercise "a reasonable discretion to restrict credits which are clearly not needed for the prosecution of the war nor for the health and necessary comfort of the people." The board followed up its letter by asking the twelve Federal Reserve Banks to bring about a better understanding of the necessity for the conservation of credit. Acting upon this request, the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, on July 31, adopted resolutions expressing their "full sympathy" with the views of the Reserve Board, and suggesting to banking institutions in this district the importance and necessity of conserving credit. Three suggestions were offered, namely: (1) To obtain such gradual reduction as may be practicable of loans now carried for nonproductive or nondistributive purposes; (2) gradually to reduce the amount of credit granted for purposes not clearly necessary for the prosecution of the war or the health and necessary comfort of the people; and (3) to educate borrowers of all classes to keep their demands for credit down to the very minimum.

The Directors of the New York Reserve Bank added that "It is of the highest importance, however, that nothing should be done to cause undue embarrassment to borrowers or affect necessary credits."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Telephone Stock and the Dividend.

The declaration of the usual quarterly dividend by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company yesterday came at a time when the stock was in process of moving forward and the upward swing was accelerated by the Directors' action. The gross advance of more than 2½ points was the most substantial scored by the shares in a long time. Possibly, the very fact of the declaration, the first since Government control for wire communications occurred, was the direct incentive for the greater part of the advance, but it had collateral influences. News that the Post Office Department was anxious to increase the country's telephone facilities through unification of all the systems was one. Also, the dividend action emphasized in the minds of speculators and investors the statements made by Mr. Vail that the status of the company in regard to operation and financial structure would not be affected adversely by the Government's action.

National Conduit's Showing.

The National Conduit and Cable Company did better in the June quarter than in the quarter ended with March, but it did not do well enough to please stockholders. The deficit of $102,055 was considerably less than half as large as the loss in the first three months of the year. It is expected that the company will work through by the end of next month some unprofitable contracts, and the current quarter's prospects, as a whole, are believed in quarters familiar with operations to be much better than at any previous time this year.

Steel Corporation's Free Income.

The Steel Corporation's earnings available for dividends this year should be equal to about $30 a share on the common stock, according to a calculation made by Dow, Jones & Co., on the basis of the war profits and income tax sections of the forthcoming revenue bill as prepared by the Ways and Means Committee of the House. It was figured that the corporation's taxable earnings would be between $495,000,000 and $430,000,000, and that the exemption allowed would amount to $143,000,000. The war tax of 80 per cent. would absorb $281,600,000 and the income tax $31,700,000, basing the computation on the possible maximum earnings of $495,000,000. The balance of income from which dividends could be paid on the junior stock issue would be $156,500,000. The total of the exemption was derived by applying the pre-war earnings' basis as indicated by the recent report of the Federal Trade Commission as the result of its inquiry into profiteering.

Liberty 3½s Continue to Advance.

The 3½ per cent. bonds of the First Liberty Loan continue to make new high records. On Saturday they sold on the Stock Exchange at 100.50, and on Monday at 101.06, while yesterday, in transactions totaling $2,395,000, the bonds advanced to 101.14, closing at 101.12, a net gain for the day of .22. Bond dealers report a good demand for tax-exempt securities such as the Liberty 3½s, and the Federal Land Bank 5 per cent. bonds, which yesterday also made a new high record. They sold at 104¼, the previous point reached on Monday having been 103¾.

Sale of Other Government Bonds.

There were sold yesterday on the Stock Exchange $50,000 of United States Government 4 per cent. bonds, due 1925, at 106¾. These bonds possess the circulation privilege and are part of an outstanding issue of about $118,000,000. The Panama 3 per cent. bonds, which are not available as security for circulation and which have all the tax-exemption privileges of the Liberty Loan 3½s, are nominally quoted at 86 to 89. The entire issue amounts to $50,000,000, and dealers say that it is practically impossible to make a trade in them. Owners of these bonds apparently are not inclined to sell them. At 89 the 3 per cent. bonds, due in 1961, yield 3½ per cent.

Russian Bonds Higher.

Announcement of the appointment of a bankers' protective committee, which is to look after the interests of American holders of foreign securities, was said to have been partly responsible for an upward movement in the price of Russian Government securities. The 5½s, which sold on Monday at 58, advanced yesterday to 60½ and closed at 59, while the 6½s, which on the previous day were quoted at 61, moved up to 64½ and closed at 61. The 5½ per cent. ruble bonds were also somewhat firmer.

A New Situation.

The Committee on Securities of the New York Stock Exchange confronted a new problem this week in consequence of the action of the Delaware & Hudson Company in declaring its normal quarterly dividend of 2¼ per cent. payable Sept. 20 to stock of record Aug. 28, provided "that before said date there shall be received from the United States Government a sum sufficient in the opinion of the President, with other available funds, to pay the same, and payable at a later date when, as, and if such sum shall be so received," in other words, making the dividend contingent upon the completion of the control contract negotiations and the payment of the road's rental. The committee has ruled that D. & H. stock shall not be quoted ex dividend until further notice, but that after Aug. 28 deliveries must be accompanied by a due bill for the dividend when paid.

OFFER MOLINE PLOW NOTES.

National City Company Will Sell $6,000,000 7% Serials.

The National City Company will offer an issue of $6,000,000 Moline Plow Company's 7 per cent. serial notes, maturing from 1919 to 1924, at prices to yield from 7½ to 7¾ per cent.

The Moline Plow Company was established in 1865. It originally made only plows, but from time to time has purchased other farming implement concerns until it now makes practically a complete line of agricultural tools. It has outstanding $7,500,000 of first 7 per cent. preferred stock; $1,500,000 second 6 per cent. preferred stock, and $10,000,000 of common stock. The company's sales for the eleven months ended July 31, 1918, amounted to $17,315,086, compared with $13,140,450 during the preceding twelve months. The net current assets of the company are more than three times the amount of the note issue.

The proceeds of the new notes will be used to fund bank loans which have been incurred to take care of the increased cost of raw materials, labor, and necessary expansion of the company's business. The notes will be dated Sept. 1, 1918, and will be due in six equal installments, Sept. 1, 1919, to 1924, inclusive.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Davis-Daly Copper Company reports gross earnings of $405,935 in the June quarter, a decline of $137,716 from the same period last year. The profit of $123,325 was $143,323 less than a year before.

The Owens Bottle Machine Company has declared an extra dividend of 2 per cent. and the usual quarterly distribution of 3 per cent. on the common stock, payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 22. The extra will be paid in Liberty 4¼ per cent bonds. The usual preferred stock dividend of $1.75 a share will be distributed on the same day as the others.

The Elk Horn Coal Company declared yesterday a dividend of 2 per cent., payable Sept. 10 to stock owners of record Sept. 2.

CAPITAL STOCK TAX RETURN

All Corporations Must File Reports On or Before Sept. 30.

The three Internal Revenue Collectors in New York yesterday received the following instructions from Washington:

"Every corporation, joint stock company, or association, domestic or foreign, now or hereafter organized in the United States for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, and every insurance company, domestic or foreign, organized under the laws of the United States or Territories of the United States, shall make a return for capital stock tax on forms 707 and 708, respectively, on or before Sept. 30, 1918."

It was hoped at the local revenue offices that the forms for the capital stock tax would be received from Washington before the end of the week.

NEW YORK STEAM CO. IN RECEIVERS' HANDS

Andrews Institute for Girls, One of the Principal Owners, Brings Foreclosure Suit.

HARD HIT BY WAR PRICES

Business to Go On Uninterrupted Pending Reorganization and Financing.

Judge John C. Knox of the Federal District Court appointed receivers for the New York Steam Company yesterday. The receivers, G. C. St. John, former President of the company; George F. Hurd of the law firm of Greene & Hurd, and William P. Fitts of 37 Wall Street, were named as a result of a mortgage foreclosure suit brought by the Andrews Institute for Girls at Willoughby, Ohio, which institution is one of the principal owners of the company. The receivers were required to file a joint and several bond of $10,000 each, and were authorized in their discretion to continue the business of the company, which is the supplying of heat and power to office buildings and other structures.

The New York Steam Company, the head office of which is at 280 Madison Avenue, is one of the largest heat and power corporations in this city and is capitalized at $7,500,000. The Union Trust Company, as trustee under the refunding mortgage serial gold bonds, dated July 1, 1911, and the Central Trust Company of New York, as trustee under the general mortgage twenty-five-year gold bonds, dated Nov. 1, 1916, are also named in the suit.

In the order appointing the receivers Judge Knox said:

"The New York Steam Company is presently unable to meet and discharge its obligations which have already matured and those which are maturing. It is unable to carry on its ordinary business with safety to the public and advantage to its stockholders, and it is in the interest of the defendant steam company and the bondholders, creditors, and stockholders of the defendant company that receivers of all its property and assets be appointed."

The New York Steam Company, pursuant to a resolution adopted by its Executive Committee, through George S. Beith, the Secretary and Treasurer, answering the suit, admits the allegations of the complaint and joins in the prayer for the appointment of the receivers.

The Andrews Institute for Girls, which is a resident of the Northern District of Ohio, instituted the suit as holder of mortgages entered into when the defendant company acquired the properties of Ellen D. Ward and others upon which it erected its plants in this city. There has been default in the payment of interest on those mortgages, and for that reason the institute asked that the mortgaged properties be sold for the benefit of the institution.

The liabilities of the company are said to total, roughly, $4,750,000 of bonded indebtedness and $800,000 in accounts payable. Current assets are given as $801,357.16, and liabilities, including mortgages and current debts, as $5,919,206.07.

In a statement issued yesterday the New York Steam Company says it has suffered from conditions growing out of the war, as a result of which all materials have very greatly increased, while corresponding increases in rates can be worked out only after long delays and within decided limits.

"It is presumed," the statement adds, "that the present organization will remain intact and the business continue as heretofore. The business will proceed under the management of the receivers until the affairs of the company can be adjusted and the company financed."

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,540 packages. Market holds firm on the choice and fancy grades of creamery, but buyers are discriminating more closely, and many of the marks that have heretofore gone at full prices are now being shaded. Secondary grades are weaker. Ladles and packing stock steady to firm. Creamery, higher than extras, per pound, 46½@47c; extras, (92 score,) 46c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 44@45¾c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 41½@43½c; thirds, 40@41c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 47¾@48½c; extras, 47@47½c; firsts, 45½@46½c; seconds, 43@45c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 45½@45¾c; good to prime, 43½@45c; common to fair, 39@43c; renovated, extras, 41½@42c; firsts, 40@41c; lower grades, 38@39c; imitation creamery, firsts, 38¼@39c; ladles, current make, firsts, 37½@38c; seconds, 36@36½c; lower grades, 34½@35½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 36c; No. 2, 35@35½c; lower grades, 33@34½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday reported by the Mercantile Exchange, 20,084 cases. The posted receipts are a little more liberal, but the reports of accumulations indicate some decrease in the stock on hand. This is being effected under strong pressure to sell the ordinary and inferior qualities at any prices obtainable. High grades showing a good to large proportion of heat-free eggs fit for the best class of trade are scarce and wanted at hardening prices. There is fair call for medium qualities that do not show much loss at proportionate values. More seriously inferior eggs are pressing for sale at almost any offer. Nearby white eggs of fancy quality are scarce and firm; defective stock irregular. Storage eggs in good demand and tend slightly in sellers' favor. Fresh gathered extras, per dozen, 49@50c; regular packed extra firsts, 46@48c; regular packed firsts, 42@45c; seconds, 37@41c; very poor to fair, 20@36c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 35@36c; No. 2 and poorer, 20@34c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 31@32c; undergrades, 20@30c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 64@66c; ordinary to prime, 48@62c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 45@62c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 44@55c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 52@55c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 38@50c; refrigerator, special marks, 42½@43½c; firsts, 41½@42½c.

RECOVERY IN COTTON STRONG AFTER SLUMP

Opening Sales from 35 to 104 Points Off, but All Except 20 Are Regained Later.

Opening irregular and panicky, with first sales from 35 to 104 points below Monday's closing figures, the local cotton market yesterday came back remarkably strong, and after some fluctuations, wound up at a steady close, at net losses of 35 to 46 points. The recent big advances had left the market somewhat over-extended on the long side, while they had brought in a considerable increase in offerings from the South, and early reports of rain in Texas consequently caused a sudden and tremendous shrinkage of values. At the lower levels, however, there was strong buying power in the market, and a little after noon all except some 20 points of the loss had been wiped out. Prices eased off again in the late trading with a general loss of interest as the list regained its equilibrium.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL BOOSTS SHIP EARNINGS

Profits of Pacific Mail Steamship Company Increase $242,698 in Six Months.

A remarkable report of earnings for the first six months of the year 1918 was published yesterday by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. The report is of especial interest because it affords the first opportunity yet given by any of the leading American steamship companies to compare their earnings under what amounts to virtually complete Government control with their earnings before the United States Shipping Board requisitioned their ships.

In the six months ended June 30, 1917, the Pacific Mail was still operating all its ships for its own account. In the six months ended June 30, 1918, most of its private business had been liquidated, and during the entire period it was operating seven out of ten steamers for Government account, under requisition charter by the Shipping Board, and one of the three left to it was a chartered steamer, the George W. Elder, while it was also, during this period, operating, as agent for the Shipping Board, seven other steamers for Government account. None the less, the company's earnings for this latter period exceeded those for 1917 by a total of $242,697.

The comparative figures of net revenue are: For six months ended June 30, 1917, $759,216; for six months ended June 30, 1918, $1,001,914. This, however, is without making allowance for 1918 amortization and income and excess profits taxes, which are certain to be heavy. For the twelve months ended June 30, 1918, the earnings were $2,697,329, and the increase over the previous period $1,603,178.

The company's balance sheet, as of June 30, 1918, shows a profit and loss surplus of $2,411,343, while reserves have been set aside for additions and betterments, $858,353; for replacement of the S. S. Aztec, $602,795, and for repairs, $100,000. These reflect the opinion of the management, as of other shipping men, that the depreciation of ships being driven "for all they are worth" under war conditions is bound to be rapid, and the repairs that will be needed at the end of the war extensive. The company carries its fleet at a book value of $6,709,759.

COMMITTEE'S FIELD WIDE.

Thomas W. Lamont Tells of Work Planned for Foreign Investors.

Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., who has been appointed Chairman of the Foreign Securities Committee of the Investment Bankers Association of America, issued yesterday the following statement, supplementing the remarks of Warren S. Hayden, President of the association:

"Mr. Hayden's statement as to the purpose in forming a Committee on Foreign Securities made up of members of the Investment Bankers Association sets forth clearly the factors which the new committee may have occasion to consider. Prior to 1914 the American holdings in foreign issues were negligible, but the necessity for providing credits in this country as the basis for the enormous purchases of supplies which were being made by the governments now constituting our Allies made it desirable for those governments, beginning in the latter part of 1915, to borrow substantial amounts in our markets at rates attractive to our investing public.

"Investors in all parts of the country participated in these various operations, and in view of the great number of holders the Investment Bankers Association decided to form a committee made up of members from the different sections to represent the nation-wide army of investors who are now interested in foreign securities. All the members of the committee have been glad to accept a place upon it in the belief that the Investment Bankers Association can obtain the most effective results through a standing committee equipped to deal with any phase of a given situation which may arise within its sphere of activity, although, as Mr. Hayden has suggested in his announcement, the committee has not been called into existence by virtue of any existing situation requiring protection."

GOETHALS IS AFTER BIG LOFT BUILDING

Negotiates for Printing Crafts Structure at 33d Street and 8th Avenue.

WANTS A LONG LEASE

Agents Notify Tenants to Seek Other Quarters—Property Assessed at $2,700,000.

The United States Government is negotiating to take over the twenty-two-story Printing Crafts Building, occupying the block front on the west side of Eighth Avenue, from Thirty-third to Thirty-fourth Street, for use by the Quartermaster's Department. There are more than a hundred tenants in the building, including several of the largest printing houses in the country, all of which are facing a very serious problem as to where to move to.

Although no official notice has been served on the tenants, they have been notified verbally by the agents of the building that in view of the situation it would be advisable to look for new quarters. As a result there has been a general scramble in the vicinity for available loft space suitable for heavy work such as required by the printing trade, but little has been found. The Printing Crafts Building, which is the largest structure of its kind in the vicinity, was built about two and one-half years ago by the 461 Eighth Avenue Company, of which John L. Larkin is Secretary. It occupies a plot fronting 200 feet on Eighth Avenue and 100 feet on Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets. It contains 600,000 square feet of space, all of which is occupied at the present time with the exception of a couple of stores on the ground floor. Last year the city assessed the land and building for taxation purposes at $2,700,000, all but $670,000 of which is represented by the improvement. There is a first mortgage of $1,800,000 on the property, held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The Government is negotiating for a long-term lease of the building, and the question of signing it depends upon the cost of the removal of the presses and other machinery used by the tenants occupying the building. An estimate of this cost has been made by the various firms, and they will be submitted to Major Gen. Goethals in Washington, D. C., this morning for final action. At the present time the Government occupies considerable space in the building which is used by the Committee on Public Information and the railway mail clerks. The clerks' quarters include a dormitory with about 300 beds, shower baths, and locker rooms. Other tenants in the building are the Charles Francis Press, occupying five floors; the Bartlett-Orr Press, occupying two floors; the Dodge Publishing Company, Rogers & Co. Press, and over a hundred other firms, employing in all about 2,500 persons.

The building is admirably located for Government use, as it is on the block opposite the new Post Office Building and across the street from the Pennsylvania Railroad Station. It is even possible to switch railroad cars into the basement of the building by extending the Pennsylvania tracks a hundred feet further north, as they now run under the new Post Office Building.

REVISED RULING ON STOCK ISSUE TAX

Commissioner Roper Specifies Exemptions Under the Law of Oct. 3, 1917.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Internal Revenue Commissioner Daniel C. Roper has issued an important revised interpretation of the law of Oct. 3, 1917, in regard to stamps on issues of capital stock and stock transfers. The ruling follows:

"The tax on the issue of capital stock attaches to the issue of certificates of stock representing stock never before issued. If a corporation issues preferred stock in place of common, or one kind of preferred stock in place of another kind of preferred stock, or stock without par value in place of stock with par value, the tax applies, even though the total outstanding stock is not thereby increased. The tax applies to the issue of certificates of shares in so-called Massachusetts trusts and other unincorporated associations. The tax does not apply to the issue of voting trust certificates representing stock certificates already issued, nor to the mere issue of new certificates in place of old certificates for stock previously outstanding.

"The tax on the transfer of capital stock attaches to sales or transfers of stock, whether or not represented by certificates. It applies to the transfer of stock to or from voting trustees or other trustees, to the transfer of voting trust certificates, to the transfer of shares in so-called Massachusetts trusts and other unincorporated associations, to the transfer of the right to receive a stock dividend already declared, and to the transfer of the interest of a subscriber for stock. The tax does not apply to the transfer of 'rights' to subscribe for stock. It does not apply to the surrender of certificates in exchange for other certificates representing the same or new stock, provided they are issued to the same holder, nor to the surrender of stock certificates for retirement and redemption for cash.

"The tax on the issue of capital stock attaches to the issue of preferred and common stock, whether or not exchanged for old stock, upon a reorganization of a corporation under Section 24 of the New York stock corporation law for the purpose of issuing stock without par value, but the tax on transfers of stock is inapplicable to the surrender of old stock in exchange for new stock pursuant to such reorganization.

"The tax on the issue of capital stock attaches to the issue of stock of either corporation in addition to its already existing stock upon a merger of trust companies under Section 487-496 of the New York banking law, but the tax on transfers of stock does not attach to the exchange of stock certificates of the merged corporation for stock certificates of the merging corporation at the time and as part of the statutory merger, and neither tax attaches to the substitution of new certificates for certificates representing old stock of the merging corporation.

"Where, however, as under Section 15 of the New York stock corporation law, providing for the merger of ordinary corporations, the acquisition of the stock of the corporation to be merged is a condition precedent to the merger, then the transfer of such stock to the merging corporation prior to the actual merger is taxable.

"The issue of stock by a consolidated corporation in exchange for the stock of the consolidating corporations is a taxable original issue, but the surrender of the stock of the consolidating corporations in exchange for stock of the consolidated corporation is not a taxable transfer."

Federal Capital Stock Tax Law

We have ready for distribution the Government regulations covering this Act, and the forms for making the required returns. They have just been issued by the Treasury Department.

This Act imposes a tax of fifty cents for each one thousand dollars of the "fair value" of the total capital stock of corporations in excess of ninety-nine thousand dollars.

All corporations, regardless of the amount of their capital stock, are required to make reports and file returns before September 30, 1918, the final date of extension.

Copies of these regulations and forms will be sent on request.

By Special Act

The Brooklyn Trust Company was chartered in April, 1866, by Special Act of the Legislature. The charter grants certain powers, including authority:

To accept deposits of money subject to check.
To act as trustee under every description of trust, for individuals, estates, or corporations.
To act as executor under wills.
To act as agent for the management and custody of property.

The Company's clients benefit by its unusually extensive experience in the field of trust services, in which, acting under a special law, it was a pioneer.

Not until 1887 were enacted the banking laws from which are derived the powers of trust companies in general.

Inquiries are invited.

Ask Who Employs Railroad Men.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—The Retail Credit Men's National Association, in convention here, today voted to send a committee to Washington to ask a ruling from Secretary McAdoo as to whether the workers on the railroads are Government employes or are employed by the different railroad companies. The association wished a decision because a railroad official recently refused to accept a garneshee writ upon the grounds that the debtor was in the employ of the Government.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Values closed steady in an inactive market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Final quotations were higher, though prices eased off in the afternoon as the result of a limited volume of realization sales. Trading, which continues to be professional in character, was limited in volume to a few standard issues.

Fall Underskirt Fabrics.

Jerseys, soft silks, and taffetas are vying with each other for the lead in women's underskirts for Fall. While one house will name jerseys as the most sought weaves, another will hold that taffetas or soft silks are best. But all are agreed that orders have been unusually heavy. Not many very elaborate or befrilled models are selling, whatever the material. Rather plain tailored styles are wanted and colors are not over bright as a rule.

Scarcity of Rugs and Carpets.

The local market for rugs and carpets is suffering from a scarcity of supplies from which there seems to be no immediate prospect of relief and which, in fact, may become worse in the near future. A high percentage of the carpet and rug looms throughout the country having been put on Government work of various sorts, especially those looms formerly making narrow carpets, there are few left to work on merchandise for the regular trade. Some mills are turning out no 27-inch carpets at all, others are producing these in only limited quantities. Prices on these and on axminsters and wiltons have been advancing steadily, but this does not seem to curtail ordering. Buyers want supplies and, where goods are to be had, will pay almost anything within reason for them.

Cape Coats to be Staple Style?

Cape coats, in the opinion of several of the leading manufacturers in this city, are more apt to become a staple fundamental style effect than any of the other novelties and innovations in women's dress which have grown out of the military atmosphere of the last few years. They are pointed to as both smart appearing and practical, and as offering the clever designer almost unlimited room for attractive and becoming treatment of materials. And it is looked upon by the advocates of this style feature as rather significant that the public did not take it up in a day to cast it aside in a week or a month, but that it grew on the public slowly and surely, and is therefore more likely to remain as a more or less permanent style development.

Fur Coats Are Selling.

Short fur coats for women, some very straight and mannish looking, others rather close fitting and drawn in at the waist by a belt of leather or of fur to match the coat, are said to be very popular with retail buyers for Fall and Winter. Alaska seal is usually employed for the straight models and Hudson seal for those of a more elaborate design. Muskrat and nutria are liked in both types of coats and all four of the skins mentioned are popular in smart little coats designed more especially for sports wear.

Slack Demand for Gray Goods.

The comparative quiet of the past few days in the local market for gray goods was not broken yesterday. A little business was done in printcloths from first hands, notably in 38½ inch 44-40s and 31½ inch 56-52s. Also some 39 inch 64-104 sateens changed hands. All transactions were on the basis of the prices fixed by the Government. From second hands there was some business in 39 inch 68-72 printcloths at 19 cents. Other than this, very little business was done. Quite a few inquiries were received for spot drills and twills but the trade had nothing much to offer.

Troubles Are Plentiful Now.

Not the least of the many troubles that are now being experienced by manufacturers of ready-to-wear garments are those supplied by the unsettled conditions of express traffic and errors growing out of them. An instance was told of yesterday in which three cases of merchandise had been returned to a local manufacturer by a retailer. Notice of receipt of the cases came to the former in the shape of two "on hand" cards. This was in April. After much correspondence the retailer decided to take the goods back, and in May ordered the company holding them to reship the cases. A couple of days ago a notice was received by the manufacturer that if the goods were not withdrawn they would be sold for charges. Inquiry was made and the fact brought out that one case had been reshipped on July 20 and the other two on Aug. 7. Yet the third notice was sent out nearly a week afterward.

Tricorne Turbans for Fall.

Turbans in the tricorne effect show signs of becoming very popular for Fall wear, according to the latest issue of the Millinery Bulletin of the Retail Millinery Association of America. Many of these shapes are being displayed by retailers and wholesalers. The latter report that liberal orders for these models have already been placed and that many more are in prospect. In velvet or panne velvet, with effective trimmings of soft tips, these hats are considered unusually attractive. Two-material combinations are sometimes used, and the season's newest shades appear in many of them. In ready-to-wear hats of this kind, taffeta or grosgrain rosettes are employed for trimming and placed flat around the turban with feelers extending from each rosette. This makes a very smart looking tailored model.

SMITH TO OPEN W.S.S. DRIVE

Will Launch Salesmen's $25,000,000 Campaign at Carnegie Hall.

At a big War Savings rally at Carnegie Hall tonight Alfred E. Smith, President of the Board of Aldermen, will launch the salesmen's campaign to sell $25,000,000 worth of War Savings Stamps in the city in the week of Aug. 22 to 29. An overflow meeting has been arranged for. Charles F. Hall, Chairman of the Campaign Committee of the National Council of Traveling Salesmen, which is directing the drive, will preside. Among the speakers will be Frederick W. Allen, War Savings Director of New York; Job E. Hedges, and the Rev. Thomas Travis. According to reports received at the salesmen's headquarters, the trades have already underwritten more than $18,000,000 of the $25,000,000 quota.

The Woman's Reserve Camouflage Corps of the National League for Woman's Service yesterday afternoon decorated the Times Square War Savings Stamp theatre for use in the salesmen's campaign. The design was supplied by the United States Shipping Board, the prevailing colors being blue and yellow, the official War Savings Stamp colors. Worked in the design are the letters W. S. S.

Canadian Business Good.

Canadian buying of coats, suits, and dresses in the local market continues vigorously. There is said to be every indication that a new high record in Fall business from this source is to be made. Coats are slightly favored by Canadian retailers over suits, but garments of the latter type are to be by no means neglected. Though some quite novel and elaborate styles are taken, the bulk of the business is in the more simplified models designed with an eye to practical service as well as appearance.

Fall Business Already Done.

"We must not complain at the comparative quiet now prevailing in our industry," said one of the leading dress manufacturers in this city yesterday. "True, this normally is the busy season for us, but don't forget that our busy season this year came several months earlier, and came of our own calling. Last Spring we urged early buying for Fall and named sound reasons for it which in large part still hold good. The buyers took our advice, and we must not cry now if they have ordered all their needs. We have done our Fall business. Let us turn to thoughts of Winter."

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Y. W. C. A. Negotiating for Allerton House—Negroes in Big Harlem Deal.

Deals of varied interest enlivened the real estate market yesterday. Negotiations were reported pending for the sale of the twelve-story Allerton House, at the southeast corner of Lexington Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street, built several years ago by the Allerton-Thirty-eighth Street Company, James S. Cushman, President, for the use of business and professional men. The prospective purchaser is the Young Women's Christian Association, which plans to provide living quarters in it for working girls. The hotel is valued at about $300,000.

Negroes Buy Fifteen Harlem Houses.

In one of the largest deals ever closed by negro principals in this city, the Terry Holding Company, acting for Watt Terry and other negro investors, has taken over from the corporation of H. & A. Cohen, the fifteen apartment houses at 202 to 230 West 140th Street, on a plot with a frontage of 575 feet and a depth of 100 feet. The houses were built about fifteen years ago and are now tenanted by negroes.

Steady Dwelling Demand.

James H. Cruikshank resold to Anna L. Lumbard, the three-story residence at 308 West 138th Street. W. B. Smith was the broker.

The Barney estate sold to a client of the Duff & Brown Company the dwelling at 21 Hamilton Place.

The Central Savings Bank sold the dwelling at 72 West 119th Street.

Another dwelling deal concerned the property at 2 Washington Terrace, at the southwest corner of 186th Street, which was sold by the Lawyers Mortgage Company.

Bronx Sales.

The Benenson Realty Company resold to a client of Schwab & Co., 3,026-28 Third Avenue, a one-story taxpayer, 87.6 by 100.

The Lawyers' Mortgage Company resold to an investor, 960 East 156th Street, a two-family house.

Frederick Brown, operator, resold to the Benenson Realty Company 2,615 Jerome Avenue, a five-story flat.

Queens Borough Sale.

Henry Brady bought from Thomas C. Bell, four lots on the west side of Kingston Avenue, near Palace Boulevard and two on Kingston Avenue, near Lawrence Boulevard, Bayside.

Queens Industrial Expansion.

Queens war plants have filed plans for big extensions to their factories in order to care for the increased orders given them by the Government. The Wright-Martin Aircraft Corporation, making Liberty motors and airplane parts, will erect a $400,000 addition to the big plant at Starr and Borden Avenues, Long Island City. This building will be a one-story brick structure, 100 by 400 feet. The Victor R. Browning Company filed plans for a $30,000 two-story brick shop 50 by 137 feet, on the northeast corner of Twenty-fifth Street and Third Avenue, College Point. This company is making bases for naval guns at the College Point factory.

Commercial Lease.

The United Cigar Stores Company leased from Alexander Jay Bruen the property on the southeast corner of 135th Street and Lenox Avenue, containing five stores for a term of years. The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the lease.

At War Prices

In the Heart of Long Island City's Industrial Zone with R. R. Connections.

On the return to normal prices of building materials, a manufacturer may erect a building for his own occupancy from surplus or excess profits, so that his carrying charges will be 21c per sq. ft.

At war time prices of building materials, a building could be now erected so that carrying charges would be 30c per sq. ft.

A substantial reduction in the land price permits this offer, limited to 8 plots, or one block.

Estimate for cost of construction of buildings from 16,000 to 40,000 sq. ft. will be furnished on application.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Weather conditions in the last twenty-four hours have not changed materially, except that the Eastern area of high pressure has diminished somewhat and is now central over the Middle Atlantic States. A second high is moving inland over the North Pacific States, and pressure continues low in the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions.

Some rain has fallen along the Gulf Coast in Southern Mississippi, Northeastern Texas, and in the North Rocky Mountain region.

Temperature has risen somewhat in the lake region and thence eastward to New England.

Fair weather is indicated in all parts of the Washington forecast district during the next forty-eight hours, except in the Florida Peninsula and Upper Michigan, where showers are probable.

Temperature will rise slowly in Atlantic Coast States north of the Carolinas.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be gentle southwest to west, with fair weather; South Atlantic Coast, moderate northeast; fair.

FORECAST TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania — Fair Wednesday and Thursday; moderate temperature.

Western New York—Fair Wednesday and probably Thursday; warmer in the eastern portion Wednesday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1917.	1918.		1917.	1918.
3 A. M.	68	61	4 P. M.	84	79
6 A. M.	68	61	6 P. M.	79	78
9 A. M.	75	66	9 P. M.	74	70
12 M.	82	75	11 P. M.	72	67

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 70; for the corresponding date last year it was 76; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 72. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 62; at 8 P. M. it was 71. Maximum temperature, 79 degrees at 1:45 P. M.; minimum, 60 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 69 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 54 per cent. at 8 P. M. The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.42 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.27 inches.

United States.

The commission announces examinations for automotive engineer, $2,400 to $3,000 a year; automotive designer, $1,800 to $3,000 a year; automotive draftsman, $1,400 to $2,000 a year, and automotive tracer, $1,000 to $1,400 a year. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, the ratings on education, training, experience, and fitness being based upon their sworn statements in their applications and upon corroborative evidence adduced by the commission. The duties of automotive engineer will consist of the supervision of the design, construction, inspection, or testing of motor-propelled vehicles and parts thereof; the installation and operation of machines and apparatus required for shop tests and research work, and the supervision of mechanics and drafting room force engaged upon automotive work. The duties of designers will be to design automotive bodies and chassis of all descriptions, and to exercise supervision over draftsmen. The duties of draftsmen will consist of the execution of detailed working drawings covering all classes of automotive work, including engine and chassis construction. Tracers will execute with india ink on tracing cloth or paper the designs that have been laid out by the designers and draftsmen. For all these positions only men will be accepted. From one to five years' experience is necessary. Employes of the Government or of firms doing Government work will not be accepted without the consent of the head of the firm or office for which he is working. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

SAYS BILL WILL NET FULL $8,000,000,000

Kitchin Confident of Achieving Taxation Goal, Despite Conflict Over Profits Levies.

CORPORATIONS IN GROUPS

Deductions According to Hazards—Board to Draft Congress Bills—Tax on Narcotics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The House Ways and Means Committee, after an all-day discussion of the $8,000,000,000 revenue bill, was unable to reach a final agreement on the details of the income and excess profits tax schedules. Chairman Kitchin conceded that it was doubtful if the bill could be reported to the House by next Monday. He announced, however, that there was no question whatever of the bill raising the total $8,000,000,000 sought.

Mr. Kitchin announced that Secretary McAdoo in his latest letter agreed to the plan of dividing business into groups for purposes of deduction of pre-war earnings, but contended that a maximum 12 per cent. deduction, which the committee had proposed to give to mining and kindred hazardous enterprises, was too great and that 10 per cent. was more equitable. The committee in all probability will write into the bill a division of corporations and other business enterprises into two groups for deduction purposes in the war profits tax on the basis of pre-war earnings. These groups probably will be: Financial and transportation concerns, including all public utilities, 8 per cent. deduction; manufacturing, mining, gas and oil well and other miscellaneous business, 10 per cent. deduction.

Chairman Kitchin made this statement:

"The committee adopted a provision for a board which will draft legislative matters, the board to be composed of two members, one to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and the other by the Vice President as the presiding head of the Senate. We have taken no further action as to earned and unearned incomes, but have asked the Treasury Department to work out a plan for administering the differential of 3 per cent. against unearned incomes, on which the committee reached a tentative agreement the other day. We want the Treasury to work out a plan for allocation and for deduction of credits and other technical details of an unearned income differential plan. It will be a 3 per cent. differential, but whether it will be, as a result, a normal income tax of 12 and 15 per cent., the former for earned and the latter for unearned, or 10 and 13 per cent. to preserve the 10 per cent. normal the committee heretofore has agreed on, I cannot say.

"The only main problem left is that of excess profits, and we will try to agree on that tomorrow. We may finally pass on the bill Friday, but it is not at all certain."

Replying to questions, Mr. Kitchin said that relief of the individual from the excess profits tax was decided upon by the committee long ago and was in the original draft of its bill.

The "Legislative Drafting Board," as agreed upon today, is to have a body of experts to draw bills and other legislative documents. Each of the two members will receive $6,000 a year.

An effort was made by Representatives Moore and Longworth to relieve symphony orchestras from the 20 per cent. amusement admission tax, but the committee rejected the proposition. The committee decided that hotel news stands which sell tickets to amusements at high rates shall pay the admission tax, as well as sightseeing vehicles.

A sub-committee, headed by Representative Rainey of Illinois, was appointed and will report tomorrow in favor of a drastic tax on opium and other narcotics, with the purpose of meeting the situation which was created by the decision of the Supreme Court, which took away much of the effectiveness of the Harrison anti-narcotic law. The sub-committee will recommend a Federal license tax of $24 for importers and compounders, $12 for wholesale dealers, $6 for retail dealers, and $3 for physicians, veterinary surgeons, and dentists prescribing opium or other narcotics.

The sub-committee's action followed an inquiry recently made by a Treasury Committee, headed by Representative Rainey. The investigation, made in fifteen States, disclosed that there were 80 000 addicts in those States. The committee reported there were 8 000 drug-users found in New York City alone, and that 20 per cent. of these were of draft age.

HATCH AND PERKINS CLASH ON BATHING

Former Wants It Stopped at Palisades Interstate Park Because of Pollution.

Edward Hatch, Jr., Chairman of the Committee on Pollution and Sewerage of the Merchants' Association, drew a hot reply yesterday when he made public a letter he had sent to George W. Perkins, President of the Palisades Interstate Park. In this letter he suggested that the park be closed to camping and bathing until the waters of the Hudson at that point, "grossly polluted and dangerous to health," be made safe.

In his reply, Mr. Perkins, after declaring that Mr. Hatch's letter was drawn "for publicity purposes," said he had not the slightest doubt that the letter was "in some way connected with the interests with which the Palisades Park Commission has been competing for several years, namely, private interests in and about the city which have been charging the public exorbitant prices for the opportunity to bathe in waters which should belong to the public, whereas the Palisades Park Commission has been offering bathing privileges free of charge." When Mr. Perkins's reply was read to Mr. Hatch over the telephone the latter said:

"My letter was sent to Mr. Perkins on Monday in the regular way, and was sent to the newspapers yesterday. No statement in it is exaggerated; in fact, the real condition is minimized. I want to deny absolutely that any 'interests' were concerned in this matter such as Mr. Perkins makes reference to. That is a libelous statement, and Mr. Perkins will be held responsible for it at once. Mr. Perkins speaks of the 'private interests holding up the people.' In reply to that I want to say that the only interest that led to my letter was a careful investigation of the situation and an interest to protect the health of the public. In my fifteen years' experience in sewage work I have never seen anything the equal of the shore around the park."

"I know perfectly well," said Mr. Perkins in his reply, "that the private interests who have been holding up the public for bathing privileges are this year more than ever disturbed because of the increasing thousands of people who have been using the Palisades Park, where there are no concessions and where no charge for bathing is made, this depriving these private interests of the profits they have been making out of the public. These men will cordially welcome the publication of Mr. Hatch's letter, and an attorney employed by them could hardly have endeavored to render them better service.

"If Mr. Hatch had had the slightest intention of being fair in this matter, he would have laid his case before the Palisades Commission, when it would have had every possible consideration. But it is perfectly evident from the tone of his letter and that the newspapers received it before I, as President of the commission, did, that he had no intention of being at all fair to the Palisades Park Commission."

SUBWAY HELD UP BY SIGNAL TROUBLE

Service on Lexington Avenue Line Comes to Complete Halt for Half an Hour.

CROWDS SEEK STREET CARS

John Candler Cobb Renews Demand That Night Trains Be Discontinued as Unprofitable.

Traffic at various points of the Lexington Avenue subway came to a complete stop for a period of from fifteen to thirty minutes owing to signal troubles early yesterday afternoon. Most of the signal difficulties occurred at uptown points, above Ninety-sixth Street, but the effect of the delay in the traffic was most noticeable between Grand Central station and the Brooklyn Bridge. Locals were delayed much longer than expresses, although the latter trains coming from uptown to the bridge also arrived as much as twenty minutes late between 1:30 and 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon. Passengers going downtown waited as long as thirty minutes on the Twenty-eighth Street station for a train and then deserted the subway for the trolley lines.

The loop of the old subway, between Brooklyn Bridge and City Hall, was practically out of use for more than forty minutes, as no locals came over the loop. Passengers at the City Hall station were finally informed that they would have to go out and walk over to the bridge if they wished to get a train.

Signal troubles have constituted as frequent an explanation for transit delays in the new subway as the shortage of labor. The Public Service Commission and the officials of General Manager Hedley's office insist that it will be some time before the "complicated mechanisms" will run smoothly.

Theodore P. Shonts, President of the New York Railways Company, made public yesterday a letter from John Candler Cobb, a Director and bondholder in the Interborough, demanding that the company discontinue the "running of such cars as are operated at a loss" under present conditions, implying a further decrease in service, especially at night. Mr. Cobb came from Boston at the request of the Board of Directors to make an investigation of transit conditions and report back as to the possible methods of improving the situation.

The letter says in part:

> In investigating the company's affairs I find that the company is unable to procure men to run the normal number of cars, and is giving service below normal. And yet I find that certain night service is being given which accommodates an absurdly small number of passengers, while the service during rush hours is often entirely inadequate. I therefore call on you to use the employes you are able to secure to run the cars that will serve the greatest number of people, and cut out the car trips which serve the fewest passengers.

In respect to this letter, Mr. Shonts made a statement calling attention to the delay of the public authorities in granting some relief on the application of the company to increase its rates. He also said:

"The argument of Mr. Cobb, who represents the bondholders, that the service it is possible for us to give should be adjusted to the greatest good of the greatest number seems unanswerable; and yet as a strict application of this rule would practically amount to a discontinuance of night service. I am endeavoring to induce Mr. Cobb to delay drastic action until the public authorities reach some conclusion in the matter before them."

Another conference will be held by the Public Service Board with officials of the company today. At this conference a date may be fixed for the reopening of the shuttle service across Forty-second Street.

DOUGLAS WILL FILED; LEAVES $20,000,000

Mining Engineer's Fortune All Made After He Had Reached the Age of Forty.

The will of James Douglas of Riverdale and Spuyten Duyvil, who died recently, was filed in the Bronx Surrogate's office yesterday. It disposes of an estate valued at approximately $20,000,000, all made in mining after the testator was 40 years of age, and will be offered for probate before Surrogate George M. S. Schulz tomorrow.

Under the will the American Institute of Mining Engineers, 25 West Thirty-ninth Street; the American Museum of Natural History, and the Kingston General Hospital, Kingston, Ontario, receive definite bequests of $100,000 each, while McGill University, Montreal, is to get $50,000. Bequests of from $5,000 to $50,000 are made to relatives in Canada and England.

To the widow, Mrs. Naomi Douglas, the real estate in Riverdale and in Spuyten Duyvil is given, together with the home and stables, personal property and securities which are expected to yield an annual income of $50,000.

A trust fund of $400 000 is created and placed in the hands of two sons, James Stewart Douglas and Walter Douglas, for two grandchildren, Wilmot Douglas Hayter and Herbert Cecil Hayter, of Flamborough, England, who are to receive the bequest when the younger of the two becomes of age. The father of these two boys, Colonel Herbert Ross Hayter, now fighting in France, is to get $50 000.

Children of the testator are to receive annuities in the following amounts: Elizabeth Douglas, $5,000; James Stewart Douglas, Walter Douglas and Edith Mary Douglas, $2,500 each.

Six workmen on the Spuyten Duyvil estate receive $2,000 each, and four $1,000 each, while all in the employ of the estate more than five years are to receive $500 each. Four house servants are to receive $2,000 each, one $1,000, and all over two years in the employ of testator are to receive $500. The residuary estate is divided equally among the four children.

In the will the testator states that he was at one time the manager of an insane asylum, and that his father had been impoverished by mining swindlers. At the age of 40, the testator states, he took up the study of mining engineering and began operating in Canada, Mexico and the United States, with the result that fortune smiled upon him abundantly.

As evidence of this good fortune it has been necessary for the testator in the last few years to make many codicils increasing the various bequests named in the original will.

One Soldier Killed in Merritt Riot.

One negro soldier was killed and five wounded during the race riot at Camp Merritt, N. J., on Saturday night last. Thirteen men of the guard, called out to quell the disturbance, are in the guard house at the camp pending investigation. It is believed they lost their heads and fired without orders.

The FRANKLIN LIMOUSINE

Enclosed Car Comfort at the Operating Cost of a Touring Car

Year-round motoring economy, comfort, and wide utility are possible with Franklin Enclosed Cars, to a noticeably greater extent than with any other fine car.

This is a fact proved by Franklin performance. Imagine, if you can, an enclosed car as distinctive in design and workmanship as the Franklin Limousine, weighing less than the average touring car, and costing even less to operate.

The Franklin Limousine makes year-round motoring enjoyable, because of Franklin principle of light weight, which means not only easy roadability on country roads and city streets, but also a consistent delivery of—

18-20 miles to the gallon of gasoline—instead of 8
10,000 miles to the set of tires—instead of 5,000

You would not hesitate to use the Franklin Limousine for any purpose. In fact, the trend of the times is toward the car which combines the desirable features of fine enclosed cars at touring car cost. As this viewpoint gains prominence, more people investigate the Franklin Limousine.

The Franklin Limousine is on our floors now. Come and see it. You'll get a new idea of limousine usefulness.
